MY FIRST STEPS

All babies look alike. Can they be exchanged when the nurse gives them a bath?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- read and understand an autobiography;
- use compound words;
- use the simple past tense; and
- ask and answer simple questions in speech.

1.1 SECTION I

I may never have become a cricketer and this book would certainly not have been written, if an eagle-eyed relation, Mr. Narayan Masurekar, had not come into my life the day I was born (July 10, 1949). It seems that Nan-kaka (as I call him), who had come to see me in hospital on my first day in this world, noticed a little hole near the top of my left ear lobe. The next day he came again and picked up the baby lying on the crib next to my mother. To his utter horror, he discovered that the baby did not have the hole on the left ear lobe. A frantic search of all the cribs in the hospital followed, and I was eventually located sleeping blissfully beside a fisherwoman, totally oblivious of the commotion I had caused! The mix-up, it appears, followed after the babies had been given their bath.

Providence had helped me to retain my true identity, and, in the process, charted the course of my life. I have often wondered what would have happened if nature had not 'marked' me out, and given me my 'guard' by giving me that small hole on my left ear lobe, and if Nan-kaka had not noticed this abnormality. Perhaps, I would have grown up to be an obscure fisherman, toiling somewhere along the west coast. And, what about the baby who, for a spell, took my place? I do not know if he is interested in cricket, or whether he will ever read this book. I can only hope that, if he does, he will start taking a little more interest in Sunil Gavaskar.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.1

1. When was Sunil Gavaskar born?
2. What did Sunil's uncle Mr. Narayan Masurekar notice when he came to see the baby in hospital?
3. (a) What was the horrible thing that happened the next day?
(b) Where was the missing child found?
4. If Nan-kaka had not noticed the hole on his ear where would he be living?
5. Find words from the passage which mean the same as:
 - a) looking at things with great attention and noticing small details.
 - b) unaware of what is happening
 - c) unknown; nor will be known
 - d) a short period

1.2 SECTION II

How did Sunil begin playing cricket? Who helped to develop his talent as a cricketer? Let's read on.

My most vivid recollection of my childhood cricket-playing days is the time I almost broke my mother's nose. She used to bowl to me in the small gallery of our house where we played our 'daily match' with a tennis ball. Since the area was small she would kneel to bowl, or rather lob the ball to me. I hit one straight back and caught her bang on the nose, which started bleeding. Although it was a tennis ball, the distance between the two of us was very short, which accounts for the force with which the ball hit her. I was frightened but she shrugged it off, washed her face and as the bleeding stopped, we continued the game. But, for the rest of the day it was only forward defence for me. I restrained myself and played no attacking shot.

Cricket, to use a cliché, is ‘in my blood’. My father was a good club cricketer in his days and a keen student of the game. Even now we have interesting discussions on various aspects of the game and I have found his advice invaluable in the development of my career. And, as I have already said, I have had the privilege of having a cricketing mother, who helped me to take the first steps in the game I have come to love. My uncle, Madhav Mantri, who played for India in four ‘official’ tests, though not very successfully, was a force to reckon with in first-class games. Whenever I went to my uncle’s house my favorite pastime used to be to take out his pullovers and caress them with a sense of longing. I was so attracted by the India test pullovers that once I even dared to ask him if I could take one, since he had so many. My uncle told me that one has to sweat and earn the India ‘colours’ and I too should work hard to earn the distinction. That is a lesson I have never forgotten. Looking back, I am glad that my uncle did not succumb to my childish fancy and instead, taught me that there was no short-cut to the top. I was also fascinated by the many souvenirs he had and the large number of trophies he had won. What I liked most was the stump bearing the autographs of the 1952 India and England teams, and I loved to linger over the autograph of every player.

Right from the beginning, I wanted to become a batsman and I hated losing my wicket. This became such an obsession with me that, if the rest of the boys ever got me out, I would fight and eventually walk home with the bat and the ball. This would bring the game to an abrupt end since nobody else had a ball or bat. The boys cursed and called me names, but the tension did not last long and we generally got on very well. Among these early comrades with whom I played were the Ambaye brothers, the Mandrekar brothers and several others who made up our team. Whenever I batted they would decide beforehand that they would appeal at a particular ball and whether I was out or not, I had to go by the majority verdict! We often played matches against teams made up of boys living in the neighbouring building and there was tremendous interest in the ‘trophies’ as we called them. These trophies were small white-metal cups for which we all contributed and bought for as little as Rs. 1.50.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.2

1. How did Gavaskar break his mother’s nose?

Notes

Notes

2. What qualities of his mother's character are brought out through this part of the extract. Pick the 2 words/phrases that best describe her from the ones given below:
patient, encouraging, excellent cricketer, clever, unwilling to cooperate, helpful
3. When Gavaskar says 'cricket is in my blood' he means that- (tick the correct choice)
 - (i) he struggles and gives his blood to play cricket.
 - (ii) his family has taught him the game.
 - (iii) he has inherited interest in the game from his family members.
 - (iv) it is a dangerous game.
4. What did Gavaskar like to do whenever he went to his uncle's house? Why?
5. What lesson did his uncle teach him?
6. There is no short cut to the top means (tick the correct choice)
 - i) you can have a high position in life through short cuts.
 - ii) you must work hard to succeed in life.
 - iii) you can reach the top of the mountain by taking short steps.
 - iv) to succeed in life you must take big jumps.
7. Which souvenir did Gavaskar like the most? Why?
8. Gavaskar says, 'I hated losing my wicket.'
 - a) What would happen whenever he got out?
 - b) How would the other boys react to this?
 - c) What does this behaviour show about Gavaskar?
9. Find words from the passage, which mean the same as-
 - i) clear (Para3)
 - ii) controlled/checked (Para 3)
 - iii) of great value (Para 4)
 - iv) an object kept as a reminder of an event (Para 4)
 - v) a strong feeling/ desire/idea (Para 5)

OVERALL QUESTIONS

Answer the following questions in 50-55 words:

1. How did his uncle's keen observation help Gavaskar in retaining his identity?
2. How did Gavaskar's family members help him to become a good cricketer? (What did his mother, father and uncle do?)
3. How did Gavaskar behave during 'matches' played in his childhood days? How did his friends handle him on these occasions?
4. a) In his childhood days Gavaskar was not a sporting player. He would walk away with the bat and ball whenever he was declared 'out' which brought the game to an abrupt end. How would you convince a friend of yours who behaves in a similar fashion?
b) What are the qualities you require in order to be a good team player? Pick up five qualities from the box cooperation	over competitiveness	egotistical behaviour collaboration	over ambition	individualistic approach consideration	taking responsibility	acceptance

VOCABULARY ENRICHMENT

Forming New Words: Compound Words

New words are formed in many ways. Sometimes you make a new word by adding a prefix or a suffix. For example, to say that someone sang very well you add- ly to beautiful and form a new word beautifully. Or, to say that Sunil Gavaskar was not aware of what was happening around him you add un- to aware and form a new word unaware. In the above examples- ly is a suffix and un- is a prefix.

Another way of forming a new word is by putting two words together.

This is done because a single noun or adjective is often not enough to refer clearly to a person or thing or quality. When this is the case, a compound word is used which consists of two words put together.

Look at the following examples of compound words:

1. There is a huge swimming pool in the club. (Compound noun)
2. The bus stop is overcrowded at peak hours. (Compound noun)

Notes

Notes

3. Sunil Gavaskar's mother was a good-tempered lady. (Compound adjective)
4. I travelled to Bombay in a second-class compartment. (Compound adjective)

Compound words are written in three ways:

- i) Some compound words are written with space between two words. For example: car park, gas stove.
- ii) Some compound words have a hyphen (-). For example : eagle-eyed, twenty-four.
- iii) Some compound words are joined together. For example fisherwoman, staircase.

Note: Compound nouns are usually written as two separate words. Compound adjectives are usually joined together with a hyphen.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.3

Form new words by choosing one word from Group A and one from Group B.

You may write the new word formed in one of the ways discussed above. For example, you would like to write mother in law as mother-in-law and not as mother in law.

Group A first four before gas trouble inter

grand

Group B

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.4

Fill up the blanks in the following paragraph with some of the compound words you have formed.

Every evening..... used to sit in the verandah with her sewing machine. She stitched clothes for her grandson Ali. After finishing her work she would feed the sparrows with The sparrows could come and perch themselves on the Soon all the crumbs were eaten up. Grand mother who was could not see the sparrows clearly but she knew each sparrow who came and sat in her verandah everyday.

GRAMMAR

TENSES : THE SIMPLE PAST

1. Read the following sentences:

1. Sunil Gavaskar wanted to become a great batsman.
2. He hated losing his wicket
3. Playing cricket was an obsession with him.
4. The doctor examined my teeth.

Notice that all the events took place in the past. That is, all the above actions were completed in the past or happened in the past. Also note that no helping verb (was, were, had etc.) is used in the above sentences. Such use of verbs is called the Simple past. The Simple past tense is formed by adding ed or d to the verb in its bare form.

For example: work becomes worked create becomes created and want becomes wanted.

Note : Irregular verbs like 'go', 'come', 'see', 'find', etc. and 'be' and 'have' form their past tense in other ways.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.5

Complete the following narration by using the verbs given in the brackets in the simple past tense.

Notes

When Sunil Gavaskar was born, a relative..... (come) to see him in the hospital. His name (is) Mr. Narayan Masurekar and he had sharp eyes. He (notice) that the newborn baby (has) a hole on his ear. The next day when he..... (go) again and picked up the baby, he (find) that the hole was missing. Everyone..... (start) searching for the missing baby. At last Sunil was found sleeping beside a fisherwoman.

2. The Past Tense is also used when you want to say that a situation existed in the past over a period. Or that an activity took place regularly in the past.

Read the following sentences:

- i) We played our 'daily match' with a tennis ball.
- ii) I loved to linger over the autograph of every player at my uncle's house.
- iii) Whenever I batted they would decide beforehand that they would appeal at a particular ball..... and I had to go by the majority verdict.

Sentence i) means that Sunil Gavaskar and his mother used to play cricket every day.

Sentence ii) means that he liked to look at the autographs of the players whenever he went to his uncle's house.

And sentence iii) means that the boys used to get Sunil Gavaskar out by appealing to the umpire.

Note : Notice that in sentence iii) 'would' is used to denote the past tense. 'Would and 'used to' are also used when you want to say that something happened regularly in the past.

Look at more examples of the use of 'would' and 'used to' to denote past tense.

- i) When I was a small child I used to play many games at school.
- ii) My teacher would always tell me that I would become a great football player.
- iii) Twice a week I used to stay back at school for coaching in football.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.6

Complete the following paragraph with verbs in the past tense. You may use the past tense of the appropriate verb or 'would' or 'used to'.

Notes

When I was a small child I lived in Bombay. I in Bombay High School. I to go to school where I manythings. I go to Juhu Beach with my parents on Sundays. Whenever I go to the beach I play with my brother. We keep playing till it was time to return home. On our way home we stop at Quality's Ice Cream Parlour for Ice Cream. It be an enjoyable day for all of us.

THE NEGATIVE

The negative of both regular and irregular verbs that are used in past tense is formed with did not + verb without changing the form of the verb.

- i) He did not see the movie.
- ii) Ravi did not tell a lie.
- iii) Shyam did not go for the picnic.

Note that in the above sentences when the negative is denoted, 'see', 'go and 'tell' do not take 'd', or 'ed' or any other change.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.7

Rewrite the following sentences in the negative. The first is done for you as an example.

1. I played cricket with my friends.
e.g I did not play cricket with my friends.
2. My aunt went to Bombay in the holidays.
3. He obeyed the rules of the camp.
4. He came to school on foot.
5. He returned home after the show.

THE INTERROGATIVE

The Interrogative is formed by changing the position of 'did' and placing it before the subject. Note that the main verb does not change its form.

- i) Did he see the movie? ('he' is the subject)
- ii) Did Ravi tell a lie? (Ravi is the subject)

Notes

- iii) Did Shyam go for the picnic? (Shyam is the subject)

INTEXT QUESTIONS 1.8

Rewrite the following sentences in the Interrogative. The first one is done for you as an example.

1. Ravi slept during the day.
e.g Did Ravi sleep during the day?
2. Shekhar went for a swim in the pool.
3. He accepted the offer.
4. India became a Republic on 26th January 1950.
5. They wanted to help the poor children.

NOTE-MAKING

Note-making is an important skill which can help us in many ways. We do not and cannot remember everything. Do you remember word for word every lesson that you read? It is impossible to do so. Notes help you to store important information.

What is note-making?

Note-making is a brief presentation of the main ideas and supporting ideas of a text in a point form. You must be careful that the notes you make are easy to understand. The notes you cannot understand yourself after a few months are not good notes.

How to make notes?

- Read the whole passage once to get the central idea.
- Read the passage again once or twice to underline the main idea/ideas.
- Select the points related to the main idea.

Points to Remember

- Correct understanding of the text is essential.
- Notes must be brief.
- Notes are made in a point form. These should not be complete sentences.
- The main idea and the related ideas are numbered as main points and sub-points.
- Recognizable abbreviations and symbols are used wherever necessary. For example govt. for government and \for therefore; don't use abbreviations that may create confusion.

Notes

- Points are arranged in a logical order.
- Ornamental words and phrases are dropped.
- Examples and quotations are dropped.
- A suitable title is given.
- Key to abbreviations is given.

Read the passage given below:

In the nineteenth century Charles Dickens, the English novelist, wrote excitedly of a stage-coach, pulled along by a team of horses, that could cover more than twenty miles in an hour. To us in the twentieth century, when man is able to move and to communicate with such rapidity, the speed of the stage-coach seems no speed at all. Aeroplanes fly many hundred of miles in an hour; express trains achieve four times the speed of the stage; and even without moving we can by wireless telegraph, communicate within seconds with people on the other side of the globe.

The advantages of these increased speeds are numerous. Businessmen travelling, say from Europe to America or to the Far East, can save much time for a journey that would once have taken weeks, takes now, by air, less than 12 hours. Fruits, vegetables and other goods that would decay on a long, slow journey can now be safely sent to far distant places. Members of one family separated from each other by vast distances can have conversations with each other by telephone as easily as if they were all sitting in the same room.

Not all the effects of speed, however, are beneficial. People who are in the habit of using a motor-car whenever they want to move half a mile become physically lazy and lose the power of enjoying a vigorous walk. Those who travel through a country at the speed of light do not see much of the life of that country, of its people and animals and plants as they flash past. They become so anxious about moving quickly from one place to another that they are no longer able to relax and enjoy a leisurely journey. Men are made restless by speedy travel, the pace of their whole way of living is increased.

DISCUSSION

You have noticed that the passage is about rapid means of transport and communication in the 20th century.

We will read the first paragraph again and underline the important idea/ideas.

The important idea in the paragraph is

In the 20th century, human beings are able to move and communicate fast with such means as aeroplanes, express trains and wireless.

Notes

We will drop the reference to Charles Dickens and stage coach because the reference is only an example of slow-speed transport of the 19th century.

Let us read the second paragraph and pick out the important ideas.

The second paragraph lists the advantages of speed which are as follows:

- (1) Businessmen travelling from one place to another can save time because journey time is less.
- (2) Fruits, vegetables and other goods that would decay on a slow journey can be safely sent to distant places.
- (3) Members of one family separated by distance can talk on the telephone.

Now, we'll read the third paragraph and note the important ideas. The paragraph says that there are some disadvantages of speed.

These are:

- (1) People habitual of riding in a motor-car become lazy and lose the habit of vigorous walking.
- (2) People travelling at a high speed through a country cannot enjoy the countryside as they flash past.
- (3) People, in their anxiety to move fast, cannot relax and enjoy a leisurely journey.
- (4) People become restless.
- (5) The pace of living has increased.

Now, that we have identified the important ideas in the passage we'll write them in a sequence and in point form. We'll use abbreviations and symbols, wherever possible. We'll make short and brief points. We'll also give our notes a title.

Notes on the passage

Title:- Fast means of transport and communication

1. Fast means of transport & communicat'n e.g. aeroplane, express trains, wireless, telegraph in 20th cen.
2. Advantages of fast transport & communicat'n
 - (I) Saves time.
 - (II) Transport perishable goods safely.
 - (III) Ensures fast and easy communication.

Notes

3. Disadvantages of fast transport

- (i) Makes people lazy.
- (ii) Prevents them from enjoying the countryside as they flash past.
- (iii) Makes them restless because of their anxiety to move fast.
- (iv) Increases pace of living.

Now, here is another passage. Try to make notes with the help of the clues given under the passage.

Noise can cause widespread damage to the human body. Environmental noise affects the nervous system in a number of ways. Temporary deafness can be caused by brief exposure to intense noise. Excessive noise exposure can result in headaches, fatigue, dizziness, high blood pressure and tense muscles.

Congenital defects can be caused in an unborn child by intense and sustained noise as experienced by female construction workers.

Noise is measured in decibels (DB) and psychological research has proved that 90 DB can cause deafness and 140 DB madness.

Main idea

1. Noise can cause widespread damage to
2. Intense brief exposures causes.....
3. Excess exposure causes

LEISURE

Do you know what ‘leisure’ means? It means the free time which you can spend in an activity of your choice.

What do you do in your leisure hours?

Do you read a book/play a game/see a movie/ go for a walk/ listen to music/watch T.V./ visit a friend/ admire the beauty of nature?

Now let us read the poem. To begin with, read the poem aloud to enjoy its rhythm. Then read it silently and slowly- and try to answer the following questions.

What is this life if full of care
 We have no time to stand and stare?
 No time to stand beneath the boughs.
 And stare as long as sheep or cows.
 No time to see when woods we pass
 Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.
 No time to turn at Beauty’s glance
 And watch her feet, how they can dance.
 No time to wait till her mouth can Enrich that smile her eyes began.
 A poor life this if, full of care
 We have no time to stand and stare.

- W.H.Davies

DISCUSSION

Why does the poet want us to have some free time/leisure?

Now read the first four lines again.

1. What is this life if full of care

Notes

2. We have no time to stand and stare?
3. No time to stand beneath the boughs.
4. And stare as long as sheep or cows.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 2.1

Answer the following questions:

1. What do you understand by the word 'care' in the first line?
2. What does the poet mean by the phrase 'stand and stare'? Pick out the correct answer from the three alternatives given below: It means –
 - (a) Looking at things unblinkingly
 - (b) Looking at the beauties of nature and enjoying them.
 - (c) Lost in thought looking at nothing
3. What is it that sheep and cows do for which we have no time?

DISCUSSION

We will, now, read the next four lines

5. No time to see when woods we pass
6. Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.
7. No time to turn at Beauty's glance
8. And watch her feet, how they can dance.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 2.2

1. What does the poet think we need time for in

Lines 5 to 6 _____

Lines 7 to 8 _____
2. In the seventh line the poet spells the word 'Beauty' with a capital letter 'B'. "No time to turn at Beauty's glance". Does it refer to a beautiful girl or to the beauties of nature or to both?
3. How do the beauties dance? (Think of tall trees, grass, waves etc.)

In these lines the poet looks at nature and imagines her as a girl with dancing feet. The poet has given human qualities to the beauties of nature. When an idea or an object is thought of as a person, we call it personification. Poets, often, make use of it to say more in a few words. Look at the two sentences given below.

- (i) Destruction of forests harms the earth.
- (ii) The mother earth cries to see her forests being destroyed.

The first sentence is a simple statement of facts. The second sentence personifies the idea. Which one appeals to you more? The second one, isn't it?

Here are some more examples of personification.

- (i) Death! Be not proud.
- (ii) The sun is smiling.

4. Can you think of two more examples of personification?

Notes

Tick mark (✓) the correct answer.
 - (a) a rich woman smiles with her eyes
 - (b) eyes and mouth smile together
 - (c) Beauty's smile begins from the eyes and spreads to her lips.
3. What according to the poet is a poor life?

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. Who is 'we' in the poem?
2. Which words have been repeated six times in the poem? Why?
3. Some of the words that rhyme in the poem are care ————— stare

bough ————— cow

Complete the list with other pairs of rhyming words from the poem.

4. You have some leisure time on hand and your friend wants you to spend this time in risk-taking behaviour like driving, trying out narcotic drugs or having your first cigarette. (You wish to avoid them without antagonizing them. You also wish to prevent them from doing so. How would you go about it?)

Notes

Complete the dialogue given below with appropriate expressions.

Amit: Thank God, we have a break before the Economics Paper. Let's go to the canteen and have some coffee.

Rahul: I have a better idea. Why don't we have a cigarette instead? It's a great stress-buster. I tried it the other day and could feel myself unwinding.

Amit: (Hesitates) I am not too sure _____

Rahul: Come on don't be such a sissy. One cigarette won't do you any harm.

Amit: Isn't it habit forming? I have heard _____

Rahul: Oh, no

Amit: Then why do the cigarette packets have the statutory warning _____

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages; and
- answer questions on those passages.

3.1 SECTION I

*T*himmakka and her husband Bikkalu Chikkaiah, a childless couple of Hulikal village in Karnataka, decided to adopt children. But the children they chose to rear were 284 banyan trees along a 3km stretch of what is now National Highway 48 in Karnataka. The trees filled up a void in their lives. And just recently, Thimmakka received the National Citizens Award (for social forestry) from the Prime Minister.

In the 1950s, it was a Thimmakka, who tired of her neighbour's jibes directed at her childlessness hit upon the plan. "Why not plant banyan trees and rear them like our children?" she thought. So the lonely couple decided to plant trees. Thimmakka's husband was a disabled person, hence she had to work as a labourer every day and did not have the time for much else. But firm in their resolve, they took great pains to dig pits on either side of the road. Their next task was to choose suitable banyan saplings. They finally planted 300 saplings and put up thorny bushes around, to ensure that the cattle did not eat up the tender trees.

Thimmakka brought water in pots from a long distance and poured it at the foot of the saplings every day. During the rainy season she poked at the roots of the trees to make them go deep and, as the area was not fenced, she kept a constant vigil and nursed the plants for 10 years. It was time spent well, as it gave her fulfilment and pride. Even as the couple nursed the saplings, she was working in a quarry for their hand-to-mouth existence. If she could not go to the quarry they would have nothing to eat that day. True, her work was back-breaking, but she could not neglect the trees either. She would go to the Kudur road and attend to the saplings before the break of dawn. And the trees, like children who live in an atmosphere of love and caring responded to her call and grew up. Now in the prime of their lives, the 284 that took root provide a green canopy for 3 km, nests for birds and prevent soil erosion. They are also worth an estimated Rs. 85 crore.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 3.1

1. Choose and tick the correct answer:
 - a) Did the couple look after the saplings because:
 1. they earned money from it?
 2. it gave them happiness and satisfaction?
 3. it would get them an award?
 - b) The trees provided:
 1. employment to some people
 2. food for the animals
 3. shade along the 3 km stretch of road.
2. Select the correct information from the box and write it in the blanks:

1950s	10	284
3 km	300	85

- i. Trees were planted along a _____ stretch of road.
- ii. The trees were planted in the _____.
- iii. Thimmakka planted _____ saplings.
- iv. They looked after the trees for _____ years.
- v. _____ trees grew along the National Highway.
- vi. The approximate cost of the trees are _____ crores.

Notes

3. Answer the following questions:
- Why did Thimakka receive the National Citizens Award?
 - What made Thimmakka and her husband decide to plant banyan trees along the highway?
 - What did Thimmakka do to ensure the safety of the plants?
4. Complete the sentences:
- To take good care of the saplings after ensuring their safety Thimmakka had to:
 - _____
 - _____
 - _____
 - Thimmakka's banyan trees have benefited the environment by:
 - _____
 - _____
 - _____
5. Find a word in the passage which means 'a cover'.
6. Thimmakka was a poor woman who found time to plant trees on the highway and look after them as if they were her own children thereby making her life purposeful and rendering service to the community and to the environment in general.
- How would you, as a young person, make your life purposeful?
You could:
 - encourage rain-water harvesting in your neighbourhood.
 - clean the area around your house.
 - create awareness about the dangers of allowing water to stagnate
 - Organise a team of five to ten young people like you to plan and implement one of the above.

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

3.2 SECTION II

Why do Astronomers think there may be life on Mars?

As you know, scientists are now conducting all kinds of experiments to see if life can be found anywhere else in the universe. Naturally, it is easier to explore our own solar system for signs of life than it is to probe outer space. And one of the places where some scientists believe a form of life might be found is the planet Mars.

Why did they pick Mars? Well, Mars is considered to be a sort of twin of our own planet earth. It is the next planet beyond the earth in distance from the sun. Mars is about half the diameter of the earth and it rotates around the Sun in just under two years. But Mars has a day that is almost equal in length to our day here on earth.

In observing Mars, astronomers have noticed certain things that indicate a form of life may be possible there. First of all, Mars has seasons like the earth. In fact, as the seasons change in Mars, there seem to be changes on its surface. The dark areas get stronger in the spring and summer, and the colour changes from bluish-green to yellow. Could this be vegetation?

Astronomers also believe that there is at least a small amount of water vapour in the atmosphere of Mars, and this would be helpful in supporting life. Then, too, in 1887, an Italian astronomer, Giovanni reported seeing markings on the surface of Mars that resembled canals. "Could these have been built by Martians in order to carry water from the polar regions to the desert areas?" scientists wondered.

In 1976, two American Viking space probes landed on the surface of Mars. The instruments in the space probes searched the surrounding soil for signs of life and radioed their results back to earth. These results showed that either there are germs in the soil or that the soil is very unusual and not like that on earth. If life does exist on Mars, it would be a very simple form of life.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 3.2

1. Tick the correct answers
 - (i) The scientists are looking for
 - (a) new species of life.
 - (b) life in other parts of the universe.
 - (c) Mars.
 - (ii) The size of Mars is
 - a) about half of earth.
 - b) half the diameter of earth.
 - c) half the diameter of sun.

Notes

- (iii) The changes in the colour of the surface of Mars may be due to the
- canals
 - changes in the season,
 - changes in the vegetation due to the changes in the seasons.
- (iv) Giovanni, the Italian astronomer found
- Mars.
 - rivers on Mars.
 - markings on Mars resembling canals.
2. Answer the following questions
- What is the similarity between Mars and the Earth? List them.
 - Why do the astronomers think there may be life on Mars?
 - List two reasons why the scientists selected Mars.
3. Complete the following sentences
- Two American Viking probes landed on Mars in _____.
 - They looked for _____ in the surrounding soil and _____.
 - The two things that they found were
 - _____
 - _____

FATHER, DEAR FATHER

A young boy writes a letter in reply to the one he has received from his father. Let us see what he has to say.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- read and understand a newspaper article;
- use prefixes to form words;
- frame questions; and
- make suggestions in speech.

4.1 SECTION I

Dear Papa.

This is in answer to your letter about my transgression. Yes, my first rank slipped to the second. You advise that I should think before answering the papers. Yes, the operating word ‘think’ did make me reflect and these are the results of those reflections.

Notes

Father, we've never really been close and I can't rightly say you've been my friend, philosopher, guide, etc. Yet I would like you to be aware of my thoughts. They are very important to me. You are highly educated and you provide very well for the family. But in your departmental store, do you apply Pythagoras' Theorem or Newton's Law of Gravity? For that matter, does your doctor friend? Or your lawyer brother?

Papa, my grandfather speaks of a carefree and beautiful childhood. Of days spent in plucking mangoes and guavas from their orchards, of picnics on the banks of the river where the men cooked mouth-watering food, of playing marbles and gilli danda. From his talk, it seems, studies were an ancillary subject: and living and experiencing, the major subject. Father, is he fibbing? Or is it possible that the world has turned topsy turvy in just about 70 years?

Papa, my grandmother is semi-literate. Yet she is at peace with her pots, pans, her flowers and garden, her Bhagvad Gita and scriptures. My mother, highly qualified, is highly strung, tense and nervous. Do you think literacy makes us, restless, afraid and frustrated?

INTEXT QUESTIONS 4.1

1. (a) Who has written the letter?
(b) Who is it written to?
(c) Why has it been written?
(d) What had his father written?
2. Is the writer a good student? Which words give you the answer?
3. Are Pythagoras' Theorem, and Newton's Law of Gravity important to all of us in our daily lives? Why do you think we all learn about them?
4. What kind of life did the writer's grandfather lead when he was a small boy? What was considered important in those days?
5. a. What difference does the writer see in his mother's nature, and his grandmother's?
b. What does he think is the reason for this?

4.2 SECTION II

Which is more important—wisdom or knowledge? What should our education do for us? Let us read on and find out what the writer thinks.

Oh Papa, last week, my rose plant almost died. Some pests. I asked my Biology teacher what I should do to save it. And she was cross. She said go ask the guy who keeps gardening things. He'll tell you. We learn about pesticides but we do not know how to use them. Oh father, it matters not to me why the apple does not fall upwards, nor do I care what Archimedes did. What matters to me is that my rose plants remain healthy; when there is a fuse in my house, I should know how to do something about it: I should know how to make a desk for myself from my carpenter's tools. Instead I learn about hypotenuse, relational square roots.....

Papa, once I asked my grandmother how she got to be so wise. Do you know what she said? By living and experiencing. And she laughed as though I had asked something which was so obvious. Are we living Papa? Or is life by-passing us? What I fear is that if I were to meet Newton face to face, I would fail to recognise him, so busy am I learning about him! You know, just like that boy, Vinu, in that award winning film, he prattles on- "the Hibiscus is red" - a hundred times, but in his book, he colours it yellow. Are we missing out on the essence of life?

Anyway Papa, do you know where I lost that quarter mark that brought about my fall? It was a fill-in-the-blanks. I held that I was invited to tea and my teacher was adamant that he was invited for tea. A matter of grammar. And Papa, if he says George Bush is the president of India, it will have to be so. If he says the sun rises in the west, so be it: and if he says the earth is flat, it will be, it will be, my Papa. At least on my answer papers. My first rank is at stake, you see. Still, my dearest Papa, I shall keep your advice in mind and try not to lose any quarter marks.

as always,

Yours ever obedient son,

Rahul

P.S. Your eyes will not see this anguished plea, my father. This was only to lighten my over-burdened heart. It is not all arteries and muscle: it feels too.

-a newspaper article from The Hindu

INTEXT QUESTIONS 4.2

1. What does the writer think is wrong with his education? What would he really like to learn about?
2. Wisdom comes as a result of (a) studying hard, (b) living a full life (c) both. What does the writer think?
3.
 - a. By how many marks did he lose his first position?
 - b. Why did he lose the mark?
 - c. Who was right, the teacher or the student?

1.
 - a. What does the writer think is wrong with the method of evaluation of papers?
 - b. Is he right?
 - c. Should he try to get more marks, or should he make sure his knowledge is accurate? What do you think?
2.
 - a. Will the boy's father ever get this letter?
 - b. Which words give you the answer?
 - c. Why did Rahul write the letter?
3. What kind of letter did the father write to his son? Do you think he did the right thing? Give reasons for your answer.
4. What kind of education does the writer think is most useful? Do you agree?
5.
 - (i) Imagine that Rahul ultimately sends the letter to his father. When his father receives the letter he is deeply touched by it. What changes do you think occur in his attitude towards education.
 - (ii) Rahul writes this letter to his father to express his hurt and anguish. The letter was never meant to be posted to his father but was his method to deal with his hurt feeling. How do you deal with your feelings when you are hurt and in pain?

Do you.....

- go out for a walk
- fight with your younger brothers and sisters
- take out your anger on your pet
- listen to music
- read a book
- do something with your hands e.g. wash clothes
- throw things
- talk to the person you are angry with and settle the matter
- stop talking to that person altogether

Which of the above are positive ways to handling your feelings?

VOCABULARY ENRICHMENT

Words of opposite meaning can be made with several words by adding prefixes like 'un' and 'im'. Add the prefixes 'un' and 'im' to the following words.

invited, important, healthy, qualified, perfect, used, possible, answered, partial, proper e.g. He was _____ that his bicycle tyre was punctured. (aware-unaware).

1. Harish got poor marks in English because he thought it was an _____ subject and did not study.
2. I do not like to go to dinner to anyone's house, _____
3. Many medical centres are run by _____ doctors.
4. Sensible students always start studying well before the exams. It is _____ to finish the course the day before the paper.
5. Rohit wrote to Ashok and invited him for a visit, but the letter remained _____
6. Would you like to wear this sweater? I bought it last year but it has remained _____ so far.
7. I saw a beautiful statue in the shop, but it had a small crack on the base. I decided not to buy an _____ piece.
8. Eating too much fat and sugar is _____
9. To call an elderly person by his first name is _____
10. It is the duty of a good teacher to be _____

GRAMMAR

1. Read these questions from the piece, Father, Dear father.
 - (i) But in your Departmental store, do you apply Pythagoras' Theorem, or Newton's law of Gravity?
 - (ii) Is it possible, the world has turned topsy turvy in just 70 Years? What answer does the writer expect to (i) _____ and (ii) _____
 - (iii) Make a list of the other questions in the lesson, and try to decide how they should be answered.
 - a) Notice that all the questions begin with Is/Are or Do.
 - b) Also that they are to be answered with Yes or No.
2. Make sentences using the given Phrases, and Is/Are or Do/Does according to what given in the brackets.

e.g. Manohar ill? (Is/Are) - Is Manohar ill?

Notes

Notes

- (i) ___ You going to the market? (Is/Are)
- (ii) ___ The teacher in the class? (Is/Are)
- (iii) ___ You like mangoes? (Do/Does)
- (iv) ___ Your mother cooking? (Is/ Are)
- (v) ___ Your brother eat eggs? (Do/ Does)
- (vi) ___ You know Sanskrit? (Do/Does)

3. There are other ways of asking questions also.

Your questions can begin with Who/ Whose/ What and Which.

- Who and whose are used when you ask questions dealing with people e.g. Who took my pen?/Whose books are these?
- What is used to begin questions which deal with persons as well as things.- What time is it?/ What did you say?
- Which is used to begin questions about persons or things, where the choice is limited- Which school did he go to? Which of these two boys is a better swimmer?

The answers to these questions are framed differently from those in the earlier group of questions that you read about in the previous exercise.

Questions that begin with Wh. Words, need a different kind of answer. e.g.

Q. Who wrote the letter in the lesson, 'Father, Dear Father'?

A. Rahul wrote this letter.

Q. What did he write about?

A. He wrote about his performance in the examination.

Q. Which person's attitude to life did he like better-his mother's or his grandmother's?

A. His grandmother's

4. Now, fill in the blanks in the following sentences with Who, What and Which.

(i) _____ is that man?

(ii) _____ book do you want, The Tale of Two Cities, or David Copperfield?

Notes

- (iii) _____ is your name?
- (iv) _____ time is it?
- (v) _____ met him?
- (vi) _____ one of them won the tennis match, Becker or Sampras?

5. Other question words (Words with which you start questions) are Why? When? Where? and How?

- Why means, 'for what reason' and is usually answered with "because" e.g. Why are you late? Because I missed the bus.
- When means 'at what time'. e.g. When do you get up? At 7 a.m.
- Where means 'at what place' Where do you live? In Delhi.
- How can be used to ask about a method?
 - _ followed by a noun- How tall are you? I am 5ft. 3 inches tall.
 - _ with 'much' and 'many' -How many of you are coming tomorrow? Three of us.
 - _ with an adverb-How fast does he drive? Not very fast.

Now fill in the blanks, using Why, Where, When and How?

- (i) _____ were you absent yesterday?
 - (ii) _____ will you come to my house?
 - (iii) _____ are you going?
 - (iv) _____ are you so tired today?
 - (v) _____ shall I meet you?
 - (vi) _____ can we go shopping?
6. Now make questions, using Which, Where, What and Who, which will fit the underlined words in the following answers.
- i. I have been to the zoo
 - ii. Amit and Amar are sitting under the Peepal tree
 - iii. My name is Mohinder.
 - iv. I like this book better than that one.

Notes

v. Sulekha ate the cake.

vi. I will give you the brown shirt.

7. Fill in the question words in this dialogue.

Ravi : This shirt is very smart. _____ did you buy it?

Alok : In a shop on Mall Road.

Ravi : _____ shop was it-Modern Store, or Jagannaths?

Alok : Modern Store. But there is another shop on M.G. Road which is just as good.

Ravi : _____ is its name? M.G. is very long _____ exactly is it?

Alok : _____ you know Tourist Hotel? It is next door, and it is called Uttam Singh Duggal and Sons.

LET'S TALK

FUEL OF THE FUTURE

*Do you know of a source of energy that is clean, renewable and totally free?
Read and find out.*

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- read and understand a piece of scientific writing;
- use the passive voice;
- make notes; and
- ask for and supply information in speech.

5.1 SECTION I

The buzzword today is clean energy – something that we can reap from nature. And, the search has led man to the sun (solar), the wind, the tides (tidal), water (hydro) and even biogas. The good news is that we, in India, have reasons to be proud. Not only do we have the world’s only Ministry for Renewable Energy Sources, but we are also the world’s fifth largest producer of wind energy.

“Wind energy” is derived through a process where wind is used to generate mechanical power or electricity. Wind turbines convert the kinetic energy in the wind into mechanical power, which can be used for specific tasks (such as grinding grain or pumping water). A generator converts this mechanical power into electricity.

Notes

Since recorded history, wind power has been used to move ships, grind grain and pump water. There is evidence that wind energy was used to propel boats along the Nile as early as 5,000 B.C.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 5.1

1. Complete the following sentences by using a word from the passage above for each blank:
 - i. The passage is about a _____ of energy of the future.
 - ii. A great deal of importance is given today to _____ non-polluting energy.
 - iii. Some of the alternative sources of clean, non-polluting energy are: the _____, the _____, the _____ and _____.
 - iv. Wind energy is the _____ by which wind is used to generate electricity.
 - v. Wind _____ are used to convert wind energy into mechanical power.
 - vi. Subsequently, a _____ is used to convert the mechanical power into electricity.
2. When and where was wind energy first used?

5.2 SECTION II

What has been the history of man's use of wind energy? Where and how is wind energy used in India?

In the United States, millions of windmills were erected as the American West was developed during the late 19th century. Most of them were used to pump water for farms and ranches. By 1910, wind turbine generators were producing electricity in many European countries. And while today, one associates windmills with the Netherlands where they are used for pumping water, it is in Denmark that wind is an effective source of energy.

Close to home, Tamil Nadu was among the first in India to give a fillip to wind energy over 10 years ago and continues to be a leader. Nearly half of India's nearly 2000 Mw of installed capacity from wind energy comes from Tamil Nadu. Wind turbines have been "decorating" our landscape near Madurai and beyond.

In Chennai at the Centre for Wind Energy Technology, research is done to check out various wind sites where wind energy can be tapped. And, wind turbines of various sizes are checked to see if they are delivering what they promised to do. Wind energy is also abundant in many parts of India from Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh and Kerala to the hilly regions in Maharashtra.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 5.2

1. Answer the following questions briefly:
 - i) Name the European countries that use wind energy?
 - ii) When and what purpose were windmills used in America?
 - iii) Name the first Indian state that used wind energy. Can it be used elsewhere? Is so, where?
 - iv) How does research help in popularizing the use of wind energy?

5.3 SECTION III

Is wind energy popularly used? What are its advantages? Does it have any drawbacks?

In the west, surveys have consistently shown that the public prefers wind and other renewable energy forms over conventional sources of generation. Wind energy is free, renewable resource, so no matter how much is used today, there will still be the same supply in the future. Wind energy is also a source of clean, non-polluting electricity. Unlike conventional power plants, wind plants emit no air pollutants or greenhouse gases.

In 1990, California's wind power plants offset the emission of more than 2.5 billion pounds of carbon dioxide, and 15 million pounds of other pollutants that would have otherwise been produced. It would take a forest of 90 million to 175 million trees to provide the same air quality.

Some have voiced concern over the noise produced by rotor blades, aesthetic impact, and the plight of birds that fly into the rotors. Most of these problems do not exist in India as wind farms are located in remote areas or the problems have already been resolved through technological development.

The major challenge to use wind as a source of power is that it is intermittent and it does not always blow when electricity is needed. The fact remains that wind is the fastest growing source of electricity generation in the world. And who knows, might even be a lucrative career for many.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 5.3

1. Say whether the following statements are True (T) or False (F). Correct the false ones.
 - i) People prefer conventional sources of energy to wind energy.

Notes

Notes

- ii) Like oil, wind energy will one day be totally used up.
 - iii) California’s wind power plants are able to negate the bad influence of the enormous amount of pollutants its factories create.
 - iv) A large number of trees are cut down to create space for wind power plants.
 - v) Wind power plants operate noiselessly
2. Given below are some headings. Fill in the blanks against each heading with points from this section. Do not write long sentences. Write in point form.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. Name some sources of clean renewable energy.
2. What unique place does India have in relation to wind energy?
3. What are the advantages of using wind energy?
4. What major challenge does the use of wind energy pose to man?

GRAMMAR

The passive voice

We use the active voice to say what the subject does:

- Wind turbines convert the kinetic energy in the wind.
- Surveys have shown that the public prefers wind energy.

We use the passive voice to say what happens to the subject:

- Wind energy was used to propel boats along the Nile.
- In the United States, millions of windmills were erected.

The passive is be (is/was/ have been, etc) + the past participle (done/seen/cleaned, etc)

When we use the passive, who or what causes the action is often unknown or unimportant.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 5.4

1. Find three instances where passive voice has been used in the passage. Write down the sentences.
2. Fill in the blanks using the Passive form of the verbs given in bracket.

A. How butter is made

Cream _____ (churn) and milkfat _____ (collect). The remaining liquid is called butter milk. The milk fat _____ (whip) and the water in it, if any _____ (throw) away. A pinch of salt _____ (add) to the ball of whipped fat and _____ (keep) in a butter dish.

B. How an electric iron is repaired

To replace the heating element of an iron, the handle along with the top cover _____ (remove). In modern automatic irons, these are often removable in one piece, but in other designs two nuts secure the handle and when these _____ (remove), the handle can be removed. Then the cover _____ (withdraw) and the iron weight _____ (disclose), which can be raised to find the heating element. The heating element _____ (contain) between two layers of a mica sheet.

LET'S TALK

Worksheet

Listen to conversation on seeking and supplying information. Then fill in the blanks below:

- 1) _____ met with an accident.
- 2) The accident happed on a _____
- 3) _____ had gone on an _____ with his English teacher.
- 4) He slipped while _____
- 5) He hurt his _____
- 6) _____ is taking _____ for relief.

Notes

LET'S WRITE

Read the passage and make notes with the help of the clues given under it. Use short forms (abbreviations) wherever possible. Give your notes a suitable title.

Obesity-linked diabetes is for the first time being reported in children and adolescents in the UK and many other countries. A 1986 landmark study of obesity and television viewing found a clear association between the number of hours of television a child watched and the risk of that child becoming obese or overweight.

In 12 to 17-year-olds, the prevalence of obesity increased by two per cent for every hour of weekly television time. A more recent study found that, while eight per cent of children watching one hour or less of television a day were obese, 18 per cent of children watching four or more hours were obese.

The more television children watch, the more they eat. (By comparison even reading is a workout, at least in studies that have been done with obese children, perhaps because it engages their minds a bit more emphatically). Television viewing prompts children to consume food while they consume less energy, an ideal recipe for obesity. Marketing soft, sweet and salty foods on television is good business, and children are the most vulnerable targets.

Childhood obesity rates are highest in countries where advertising on children's television programmes is least regulated – in Australia, the US and England. Sweden and Norway maintain a virtual ban on advertising to children, and have consistently low levels of childhood obesity. Ireland, Belgium, Italy and Denmark pose restrictions on children's advertising, and are pressing the other states of the European Union to do the same.

Title _____

1. Link between T.V. viewing and Obesity

	Age	hrs.	% increase in obesity
Earlier findings	12-17	1/week	2
Recent findings	12-17	_____	_____

Reasons

Advertisements regulated

- (1) Countries ban ads to children – less obesity Australia _____

Notes

2. Advantages
- Clean energy – no pollutants
 - Free
 - Renewable

Weaknesses:

- noisy
- not good to look at
- kills birds
- intermittent supply

Solutions:

- locate in remote areas
- use modern technology

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. wind, sun, tides, water and biogas.
2. India has the world’s only Ministry for renewable energy. Also, India is the world’s fifth largest producer of wind energy.
3. It generates cheap, non-polluting, free and renewable energy.
4. The supply is intermittent. Wind does not always blow when electricity is needed.

Intext Questions 5.4

- (i) so no matter how much is used today
 - (ii) Most of their problems as wind farms are located in remote areas.
 - (iii) the problems have already been resolved though technological development.
2. A. i) is churned ii) is collected iii) is whipped

MY GRANDMOTHER'S HOUSE

What are the things your grandmother did for you when you were a child? What memories do you have of the time you spent with her?

Now, let us read the poem 'My Grandmother's House'. The poet remembers her grandmother and wishes that she were alive to love her, to make her feel wanted. Here is the poem.

There is a house now far away where once
 I received love..... That woman died,
 The house withdrew into silence, snakes moved
 Among books, I was then too young
 To read, and my blood turned cold like the moon
 How often I think of going
 There, to peer through blind eyes of windows or
 Just listen to the frozen air,
 Or in wild despair, pick an armful of
 Darkness to bring it here to lie
 Behind my bedroom door like a brooding
 Dog...you cannot believe, darling,
 Can you, that I lived in such a house and
 Was proud, and loved.... I who have lost
 My way and beg now at strangers' doors to Receive love, at least in small change?

We will now divide the poem into three parts and read the first part once again.

- Kamla Das

Notes

DISCUSSION

There is a house now far away where once
I received love That woman died,
The house withdrew into silence, snakes moved
Among books, I was then too young
To read, and my blood turned cold like the moon.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 6.1

Answer the following:

1. What happened to the house after the grandmother died?
2. Why was the poet not able to read the books?

DISCUSSION

Look at the expression “my blood turned cold like the moon”. The poet is comparing the coldness of blood with the moon.

She used the word like to make the comparison. A comparison of two things using like or as is called a ‘simile’. A simile is used to highlight a particular quality, characteristic or feature of something.

Example : He is as brave as a lion.

The place was silent like a grave.

Now, let us go on to the next part of the poem. Read it once or twice and answer the questions that follow.

How often I think of going
There, to peer through blind eyes of windows or
Just listen to the frozen air,
Or in wild despair, pick an armful of
Darkness to bring it here to lie
Behind my bedroom door like a brooding
Dog...

Peer : look very carefully

Despair : without hope

Brooding : thinking

INTEXT QUESTIONS 6.2

1. Complete the following :
The poet wants to go back to the house
 - (i) to peer
 - (ii) to listen
 - (iii) to pick
2. Look at the phrase 'blind eyes of windows'. Window is a non-living object. In the poem, the window has been given a human physical feature i.e. 'blind eye'. What do we call this poetic transformation? (You can go back to the poem 'Leisure' for a clue). Why are the eyes of windows described as blind?
3. Why is the air in grandmother's house described as frozen?
4. Pick out the correct alternatives in (a) and (b).
 - (a) 'an armful of darkness' means
 - (i) old memories of the grandmother's house.
 - (ii) unhappy days.
 - (iii) some dark object from the house.
 - (b) 'to lie behind my bedroom door like a brooding dog' means that
 - (i) the memories will always remain with the poet.
 - (i) the memories will lie uncared for in a corner.
 - (iii) the memories are as unimportant as a dog.

DISCUSSION

Now, we will read the third part of the poem and answer the questions that follow.

You cannot believe, darling,
Can you, that I lived in such a house and
Was proud, and loved.... I who have lost
My way and beg now at strangers' doors to Receive love, at least in small change?

Notes

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 6.3

1. (a) Which words tell you that the poet is talking to some one?
(b) What is she telling him/her?
2. In the last three lines of the poem, the poet thinks of herself as a beggar.
 - (a) What is she begging for?
 - (b) What does she mean by 'small change'?

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. 'Cold like moon' is a simile. Can you pick out another simile from the poem?
2. The poet thinks of her past. How is her present different from the past?
3. Pick out words from the poem which convey the sense of loss that the poet feels.
4. Read the following sentences:
 - a) Grandparents belong to a different generation and have ideas which may not fit in the modern context.
 - b) One day we too will become old and infirm. We would like to be treated with dignity and affection in our old age.

Suggest two or three ways in which you can show love and concern for the elderly.

CHECK YOUR ANSWERS*Intext Questions 6.1

1. The house withdrew into silence.
2. because she was too young.

Intext Questions 6.2

1. (i) through blind eyes of windows
(ii) to the frozen air

- (iii) an armful of darkness
- 2. Personification. Nothing can be seen through them as there is darkness inside.
- 3. The house is absolutely silent. No one lives there. Even the air does not seem to be moving.
- 4. (a) old memories of the dark house
(b) the memories will always remain with the poet

Intext Questions 6.3

- 1. (a) "You cannot believe, darling."
(b) That she lived in such a house and was proud, and loved.
- 2. (a) She is begging for love.
(b) a little love/love in small quantity.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

- 1. "...an armful of darkness to lie behind my bedroom door like a brooding dog".
- 2. She remembers her childhood in her grandmother's house when she was loved. She has a deep sense of sorrow in the present because no one loves her now.
- 3. that woman died,
my blood turned cold,
frozen air, wild despair, armful of darkness.

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages; and
- answer questions on those passages.

7.1 SECTION I

Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow:

Before examinations, many students are under tremendous stress. But it is not just the students who are stressed, teachers and parents too face the same situation.

Why do people get stressed? Adolescents are faced with the demands of their developmental tasks and that of a complex society. They need to acquire skills of adjustment to emerge into adulthood unaffected by these demands. If they lack these skills or if too many demands are made on them, they fail. Students are anxious, as they are worried about whether they would be able to live up to the expectations of their peers, parents and teachers. Optimal anxiety motivates and keeps them ahead while over-anxiety is disabling.

Anxiety is contagious and passes onto other students, teachers and parents. Adolescents, when stressed out, tend to perceive everything as an emergency. Some of the reasons for increase in stress level are identity crisis, the need to make career-oriented decisions, teachers' and parents' attitude and peer pressure. The inability to communicate with parents also plays a major role.

Good memory depends upon a good brain. The brain needs a good supply of oxygen, glucose, calcium, phosphorus and iron. So make sure you sit in a well-ventilated place when studying. Your diet should include milk, cheese, walnuts, wheat germ, green leafy vegetables, ragi and dates. Do not forget that “breakfast is the brain food”. Fatty meals, sugar and acids take away calcium from the system. Diets rich in fibre like fruits and vegetables help to reduce stress.

Good concentration is important to improve the memory. Learning and memorizing by understanding and recalling what one has learnt is helpful. Organizing and framing a logical relationship is important. Mastery not just of the content of the subject, but also the process of answering is equally important.

Anxiety and fear hamper recall and result in a mental block during examination. Watching television for a long time could lower academic performance. It ‘steals’ away the reading time. Time management is about self-discipline. Time must be managed between filled and unfilled time. Filled time is the time spent sleeping, bathing, eating, dressing and attending school. A student has 10 hours of unfilled time. How best is the student going to utilize this? Make a timetable for the 10 hours.

Seven to eight hours of sleep is necessary for optimal physical rest and brain functioning. A positive thought is the seed of a positive result. Always feel positive. This will help to lessen stress.

If a student has symptoms of anxiety or depression, seek medical help immediately.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 7.1

1. Say whether the following statements are True (T) or False (F). Correct the false statements:
 - a. Only students get stressed before examinations.
 - b. Failure to cope with developmental tasks is one of the sources of stress for adolescents.
 - c. A person should lead a totally stress-free life.
 - d. You can reduce stress by sharing your feelings with parents and friends.
 - e. Adopting good study habits can help reduce examination fever.

Notes

2. Read the passage again and fill in the blanks with the most appropriate word:

Almost everyone in society today suffers from _____ (i) Perhaps the worst affected are _____ (ii) This is because adolescents have to cope with two sets of problems at the same time :- the _____ (iii) tasks that they need to do as a part of their growing up; and _____ (iv) into a complex society.

Furthermore, young people have to live up to the _____ (v) of their peers, _____ (vi) and teachers. They have to make difficult _____ (vii) oriented decisions. Sometimes they suffer from _____ (viii) crisis.

However, all stress is not bad. An _____ (ix) level of stress is motivating. One can keep anxiety and fear away by good _____ (x) skills, good eating and study habits.

3. Select a suitable title for the passage from the options given-
- i) Examination fever
 - ii) Stress in Modern life
 - iii) Today's youth

7.2 SECTION II

You have just read about stress: Below you will read stress preventive measures:

- A. To avoid or reduce stress, you must manage your time properly. You must prepare a 'TO DO' task list. However these tasks are not static. They undergo change over a period of time. It is useful to divide tasks into three categories: Important – A; less important-B; and routine-C. Intersperse A and B tasks with C tasks such as ironing clothes, reading newspaper etc. This would provide relief from constant pressure of important tasks.

It is also very important to allocate a realistic amount of time for each task. You may maintain a diary to monitor tasks done/still to be done.

- B. Exercise is beneficial in reducing anxiety and improving sleep. So you must build a habit of regular exercise. Brisk walking, swimming, jogging, aerobics are effective in keeping the heart healthy. Whenever possible, you should walk or cycle to cover short distances.

Travelling is very stressful. There are few simple exercises that you can do while travelling in a bus. You can strengthen your wrist by rolling your hands backwards and forwards while gripping the rod over-head.

You can also place your fingertips on the bar and push hard so that the fingers bend back, then relax. Repeat this ten times to increase flexibility of your fingers.

- C. Hobbies help to reduce stress. Hobbies can become as refreshing as sleep. They help boost self-image and forget the tensions and failures that one faces in life. Very often the work one does may not give the person any pleasure. However, since one chooses one's hobbies according to one's own temperament and aptitude, they give great pleasure. They are healthy mood enhancers.
- D. In order to remain calm and at peace, you need to train yourself to think positively. Every year students who are unable to cope with the disappointment caused by failure or performance lower than expected, take the extreme step of committing suicide. This is of course a very negative step and shows lack of positive thinking. Failing in the examination is not the end of the world. Furthermore, many geniuses like Ramanujan and Einstein failed examinations. Failure is never final and success is never an end. Talk about your problems.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 7.2

- Here are some headings. Match the headings with the four texts – A, B, C and D.

* What is Stress	* Thinking Positively
* Taking Exercises	* Increasing Flexibility
* Causes of Stress	* Managing Time
* Developing Hobbies	* Removing stress
- Here are a number of people who suffer from stress for a variety of reasons. Which of the four measures discussed in the texts will you refer to each. Also briefly state your reasons for making the choice.
 - Hema is a quiet woman who lives alone in Delhi. Her family is in Indore. She works for 10 hours daily in an export company at a sewing machine. She is depressed and sad.

Notes

- ii) Rohan travels for three hours daily. He works at a computer and is becoming so fat that people laugh at him.
- iii) Rita is busy running around all day but her work is never over. She looks stressed and over-worked.
- iv) Rima has already failed twice. She is sure she will fail yet again. She tries to study for her exams but is so worried that she cannot concentrate.

 - a) False, students, teachers and parents are stressed.
 - b) True
 - c) False, life can never be totally stress free.
 - d) True
 - e) True
2.

i) stress	ii) students/adolescents	iii) developmental
iv) adjusting	v) expectations	vi) parents
vii) career	viii) identity	ix) optimal
x) communication
3. Examination fever

Intext Question 7.2

1.

A – Managing Time	B – Taking Exercise
C – Developing Hobbies	D – Thinking Positively
2.
 - i) She must develop hobbies. She has no one to talk to reduce stress. Hobbies will give her pleasure
 - ii) He must take exercises. He can do spot walking, bending exercises. Also he can cycle or walk part of the distance.
 - iii) She must manage time better. She must divide her work into A, B and C type tasks.
 - iv) She must think positively. Communicating her feelings with parents, teachers or friends will help her.

A CASE OF SUSPICION

A country doctor sets out to help a patient in the middle of a windy night. Whom does he meet on the way? And, what does he learn? Let's read and find out.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- read and understand a suspense story in English;
- use phrasal verbs;
- change direct-speech to indirect speech;
- give and understand direction in speech; and
- write a paragraph reporting experiences.

8.1 SECTION I

He threw back the covers and sat up on his bed, his feet feeling along the cold floor for his house slippers, the telephone ringing insistently, a little distance away.

He turned on the light and walked to the phone, and took down the receiver.

“This is Doctor Benson,” he said.

Notes

The November wind was bringing sounds of winter as it blew around the little white house. The doctor got into his clothes. He went to the table and stared a moment at his watch, his spirit complaining at the job ahead of him.

Two o'clock. His mind also complained at the horrible hour and he wondered why children had to be born at such improper times. He took up two small handbags, the short pill bag, as the people of the town knew it, and the long obstetrical case, the baby bag they called it.

Doctor Benson stopped a moment to light and, then put the pack of cigarettes in his overcoat pocket. The wind felt like a surgeon's knife at his face as he opened the door and ran, bending low, around the driveway to the garage.

His car started with difficulty, coughed half a dozen times as he drove down the driveway but then began to run more smoothly as he turned down Grass Street and on to the deserted highway.

Mrs. Ott Sorley, who Doctor Benson was on his way to visit, already had almost a dozen children, but it seemed to the doctor that never once had she had a baby in good weather, nor in daylight. And while Doctor Benson was a country doctor, he was still a young man and couldn't find the pleasure that his father, the old Doc Benson had found in seeing Ott, the father, always two or three babies behind in payment of his baby bills.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 8.1

1. Say whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F):
 - a. The doctor in the story was an elderly man.
 - b. His father had been a country doctor too.
 - c. The doctor liked late night calls.
 - d. The doctor carried two bags on his visits.
 - e. Mrs. Ott Sorley was having her first baby.
2. Answer the questions briefly
 - a. At what time did Doctor Benson receive the call?
 - b. Who did he visit? Why?
 - c. What did the doctor carry in his bags?
 - d. Did the doctor receive prompt payment? How do you know?

8.2 SECTION II

How do you think the story proceeds? Will it be about Mrs. or Mr. Sorley? Or will there be a chance meeting with someone else? Read ahead to find out.

It was a long ride to the Sorley farm and the sight of a man walking alone along the country road, as seen just ahead by the lights of the car, was a welcome relief to the doctor. He slowed down and looked at the man walking along with difficulty against the wind, a little package under his arm.

Coming alongside, Doctor Benson stopped and invited the man to ride. The man got in.

“Are you going far?” asked the doctor.

“I’m going all the way to Detroit,” said the man, a rather thin man with small black eyes filled with tears from the wind. “Could you give me a cigarette?”

Doctor Benson unbuttoned his coat, then remembered the cigarettes in the outer pocket of his overcoat. He took out the packet and gave it to the rider who then looked in his own pockets for a match. When the cigarette was lighted, the man held the packet a moment, then asked, “Do you mind, mister, if I take another cigarette for later?”. The rider shook the packet to remove another cigarette without waiting for the doctor to answer. Doctor Benson felt a hand touch his pocket.

“I’ll put them back in your pocket,” the little fellow said. Doctor Benson put his hand down quickly to receive the cigarettes and was a little irritated to find them already in his pocket.

A few minutes later, Doctor Benson said, “So you’re going to Detroit?”

“I am going out to look for work in one of the automobile plants”

“Are you a mechanic?” asked the doctor.

“More or less, I’ve been driving a truck since the war ended. But I lost my job about a month ago.”

“Were you in the army during the war?”

“Yeah, I was in the ambulance section. Right up at the front. Drove an ambulance for four years.”

“Is that so?” said Doctor Benson. “I’m a doctor myself. Doctor Benson is my name.”

Notes

Notes

“I thought this car smelled like pills,” the man laughed. Then he added, more seriously, “My name is Evans.”

They rode along silently for a few minutes and the rider moved himself in his seat and placed his package on the floor. As the man leaned over, Doctor Benson caught his first good look at the small, catlike face.

The doctor also noticed the long deep scar on the man’s cheek, bright and red – looking as though it were of recent origin. He thought of Mrs. Ott Sorly and reached for his watch. His fingers went deep into his pocket before he realized that his watch was not there.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 8.2

1. Say whether the following statements are true (T) or False (F):
 - (a) A man asked the doctor for a lift in his car.
 - (b) The man was crying because he badly wanted a cigarette.
 - (c) Evans was now working as a mechanic in an automobile plant.
 - (d) The doctor offered him two cigarettes.
 - (e) Evans had been an ambulance driver in the army.
2. Answer the following questions briefly: (55-60 words)
 - (a) Why did the doctor invite the man in?
 - (b) How many cigarettes did the man take? Did the doctor like it? How do you know?
 - (c) What irritated the doctor about the man?
 - (d) Who was Evans? Where was he going?
 - (e) Pick out two expressions from the passage that show the doctor was suspicious of Evans.
 - (f) Why did the doctor reach for his watch?
 - (g) Did the doctor find his watch? What do you think he thought? Did his suspicion fall on Evans?

8.3 SECTION III

Did the doctor like Evans' small catlike face and bright fresh scars? Would you have thought well of Evans? What do you think will happen next?

Doctor Benson moved his hand very slowly and very carefully below the seat until he felt the leather holster, in which he always carried with him, his automatic pistol.

He drew out the pistol slowly and held it in the darkness at his side. Doctor Benson stopped the car quickly and pushed the nose of his gun into Evans' side.

The rider jumped with fear and put up his hands quickly "My God, mister," he whispered "I thought you..."

Doctor Benson pushed the pistol still deeper into the man's side and repeated coldly, "Put that watch in my pocket before I let this gun go off."

Evans put his hand in his own vest pocket and later, with trembling hands, tried to put the watch into the doctor's pocket. With his free hand, Doctor Benson pushed the watch down into his pocket. He opened the door and forced the man out of the car.

"I'm out here tonight, probably to save a woman's life, but I took time out to try to help you," he said to the man angrily.

Doctor Benson started the car quickly and the wind closed the door with a loud noise. He put the pistol back into the leather holster under the seat and hurried on.

The drive up the mountain to the Sorley farm was less difficult than he had feared and Ott Sorley had sent one of his older boys down the road with a lantern to help him across the old wooden bridge that led up to the little farm house.

Mrs. Sorley's many previous experiences with bringing children into the world apparently helped her greatly because she delivered this child with little difficulty and there was no need on Doctor Benson's part for the instruments in the long bag.

After it was all over, however, Doctor Benson took a cigarette and sat down to smoke.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 8.3

Answer the following questions briefly: (15-20 words)

1. Why did the doctor reach for his pistol? What did he do with it?

Notes

Notes

2. What was Evans' reaction? What did he do?
3. Why did the doctor turn Evans out of his car?
4. Where was the Sorley farm? Who helped him reach it?
5. Did the doctor have any difficulty with his patient? How do you know?
6. How do you know that the doctor was relaxed after the baby was born?

8.4 SECTION IV

Was the doctor right in turning Evans out in the cold? Do you think he will ever know whether he was right or wrong? Was the case of suspicion justified?

"A fellow I picked up in my car on my way up here tonight tried to rob me," he said to Ott, feeling a little proud. "He took my watch. But when I pushed my 0.45 pistol into his side, he decided to give it to me back."

Ott smiled wide at such an exciting story coming from young Doctor Benson.

"Well, I'm glad he gave it back to you," Ott said, "Because if he hadn't, we wouldn't have any idea what time the child was born. What time would you say it happened. Doc?"

Doctor Benson took the watch from his pocket.

"The baby was delivered about thirty minutes ago, and right now it's" He walked over to the lamp on the table.

He stared strangely at the watch in his hand. The crystal was cracked, the top was broken, he turned the watch over and held it closer to the lamp. He studied the worn inscription there.

"To Private T. Evans, Ambulance Section, whose personal bravery preserved our lives the night of Nov. 3, 1943 near the Italian front. Nurses Nesbitt, Jones and Wingate."

-E. Wallace

INTEXT QUESTIONS 8.4

1. Refer to the words in the passage that show Doctor Benson felt he was justified in turning Evans out?
2. Why was Mr. Sorley happy that Doctor Benson got back his watch?

3. How did the doctor realise that he was not looking at his own watch?
4. What information did the inscription give about Evans?

Notes

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. (i) Do you think the title of the passage is appropriate?
(ii) Who is suspicious? Of whom?
(iii) Was it justified?
2. (i) What was the doctor's impression about Evans?
(ii) How did the doctor realise his mistake?
3. (i) Would you call doctor Benson a kind and gentle doctor?
(ii) Would Evans think of him in the same way? If not, why?
4. Dr. Benson was prejudiced against Evans because of his shabby appearance, uncouth manners, the scar on his face and irritating behaviour. Therefore, when he lost his watch, he immediately suspected Evans of having stolen it.
When we are unable to find something in our own house should we:
 - (a) blame ourselves?
 - (b) blame others?
 - (c) calmly try to locate it?
 - (d) Select an alternative and justify it?

GRAMMAR

Reported speech: Reporting of statements and questions.

Rules for changing direct speech into indirect speech.

We make a number of changes when we change from direct speech to indirect speech:

- (i) Remove the inverted commas.
- (ii) Remove the comma separating the reporting verb from the actual words spoken.
- (iii) Study the kind of utterance reported and introduce an appropriate reporting verb, if necessary. For example, replace "tell" or "say" with "ordered" for commands; "pleaded" for requests, etc.

Notes

- (iv) Study the context to change the personal pronouns. ‘I’ to he/she; we to they, etc. The change depends on who is reporting to whom.

For example: Rita: I hate to see you in saris.

(to Anju)

Anju reporting to Rani: Rita said that she hates to see me in saris.

Rani reporting to Subhash: Rita said that she hates to see Anju/her in saris.

- (v) Make changes in words expressing nearness and time.

For example, this becomes that

Here – there

Tomorrow – the next day

Yesterday – the previous day/ the day before

- (vi) Use ‘that’ to introduce statements in reported speech. ‘That’, however, can be dropped.

Ex. 1: Some of the sentences spoken by Doctor Benson and Evans (direct speech) are given in Column A. Column B has those sentences in reported or indirect speech (i.e. as the speaker or listener would report to someone else afterwards.) Match column A with Column B.

Column A	Column B
(i) “This is Doctor Benson,” he said,	a) Evans asked for a cigarette.
(ii) “Are you going far?” asked the doctor.	b) He ordered Evans to put that watch into his pocket.
(iii) “I’m going all the way to Detroit,” said the man.	c) He introduced himself as Dr. Benson.
(iv) “Could you give me a cigarette?” Evans said.	d) Evans wondered whether he could take another cigarette for later.
(v) “Do you mind, mister, if I take another cigarette for later?”	e) The doctor enquired whether he was going far.
(vi) “Put that watch into my pocket,” he said angrily.	f) The man declared that he was going all the way to Detroit.

Ex.II.Study the matched pairs of sentences. Do they carry same or similar meaning? Yes. Are both the direct and reported speech sentences spoken at the same time or moment? No! we cannot use the reported speech until after the words have been directly spoken. Therefore, we change the verb in direct speech into its corresponding past tense form. We also change the reporting verb “tell” or “say” according to the kind of speech act reported.

Notes

Study the sentences in Column B in 1 above and list the reporting verbs introduced.

Ex.III. Complete the sentences by selecting the appropriate reporting verb from the box below. You will have to put it into past tense form, wherever necessary.

Admit, agree, announce, argue, claim, complain, confess, declare, exclaim, inform, mention, promise, remember, suggest, regret, tell.

1. (a) The criminal said, “I have committed the murder.”
(b) The criminal _____ that he had committed the murder.
2. (a) Asha said, “Oh! I’ve failed in Maths.”
(b) Asha _____ that she had failed in Maths.
3. (a) Ravi’s father said, “I think you could seek your uncle’s advice.”
(b) Ravi’s father _____ that he could seek his uncle’s advice.
4. (a) My brother said to me, “I’ll give you a watch if you stand first in class.”
(b) My brother _____ he would give me a watch if I stood first in class.
5. (a) Manik told Shruti, “Last month I attended the science conference in Hyderabad.”
(b) Manik _____ Shruti that he had attended the science conference in Hyderabad last month.

CHANGE THE INTERROGATIVES

Change “said” to “asked” or “enquired”.

For wh- question do not use ‘that’, begin directly with the same wh- question word.

For ‘yes – no’ questions, indirect speech is introduced by if/whether.

The question form is changed into the statement form.

For example:

- | | |
|-------------------|---|
| (Direct speech) | Rani to Ravi – How did you travel to Pune? |
| (Indirect speech) | Neha to her friend – Ravi asked Rani how she travelled to Pune. |

- (Direct speech) Ravi to Rani – Do you have a rose garden?
 (Indirect speech) Rani to her friend – Ravi asked me whether I have a rose garden.

Negatives and verbal short forms (shan't, can't isn't) appear in full in written reported speech.

Ex.IV. Change the following questions into indirect speech:

- (a) 1. He said to me, "Are you going home?"
 2. He said, "Did you see my brother yesterday?"
 3. He asked me, "Which bus stops here?"
 4. My friend said, "What is your brother doing these days?"
 5. My brother said, "Does Ram know my address?"
- (b) Match the questions in direct speech with the reported speech in Column B.

Column A	Column B
i. What is your name?	a) He asked whether I had a comfortable journey.
ii. Where do you live?	b) He asked me how long I would stay here.
iii. Could you tell me your date of birth?	c) He asked me what my name is.
iv. How long will you stay here?	d) He wondered if I could tell him my date of birth.
v. Did you have a comfortable journey?	e) He asked me where I lived.

(c) Study the sentences in 5A to say whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F):

- i. The word order in reporting questions is the same as in statements.
 ii. In reporting a wh- question the connecting word 'that' is used.
 iii. 'Whether' or 'if' is used in reporting yes-no questions.

LET'S WRITEReporting experiences

What is an experience?

All of us keep having some experience or the other everyday. But how can one define an experience? We can perhaps say that an experience is an event that affects or influences one in some way.

In this lesson, you are going to learn about reporting or describing experiences.

The language that you will need to use for describing experiences will be in the following areas:

Expressing the past :

- reporting complete actions
- describing complete actions
- describing thoughts and feelings
- using first 'I' in reporting personal experience
- active voice

Sequencing the past

- using all forms of past tense
- using linking as sequencing device

Read this paragraph where R.K. Narayan, a very famous Indian writer of 'Malgudi Days' fame, describes his experience as a small child of watching a lamplighter lighting up the street lights.

This paragraph describes a scene in Madras (now Chennai) in the early twentieth century.

It was exciting, one day, to be asked to go with my uncle to the street of shops. I clung to his arm and marched along. It was the evening hour. I noticed a man with his hand and shoulder stuck through a bamboo ladder, going from post to post lighting the street lamps. The lamp posts were few and far between hexagonal glass shades on top of cast iron pillars. The lamplighter was an old man wearing a khadi coat and a blue turban, equipped with a ladder, a box of matches, rags and a can of oil. He moved from pillar to pillar, unhurryingly. I was fascinated. I had never thought that there could be so much to do to light up the dark nights. Clinging to my uncle's fingers, I watched him. He went up his ladder, opened a little ventilator, took out the lamp, cleaned and wiped it with the rag, filled it with oil, lit up the wick and closed the shutter, climbed down, thrust his shoulder through the ladder again and passed on to the next one. I had numerous questions welling up within me, all sorts of things I wished to know about the man- his name, where he came from, if he slept wearing the ladder, what he ate and so forth but before I could phrase them properly, I had to be moving along with my questions unuttered.

Now let's analyse this passage.

- i. The writer uses past tense throughout.
- ii. There is description of
 - a. The street lamp (description of an object)
 - b. The lamp lighter (description of a person)
 - c. How he lighted the lamps (description of a process where sequences of action is important)
- iii. The writer expresses his thoughts and feelings about the experience.

The expression 'it was exciting.....?' 'I was fascinated' convey his feelings. A lot of thought, in the form of questions come to his mind on watching the lamp lighter light the lamp. There is a feeling of disappointment expressed when he says 'I had to be moving along with my questions unuttered.'

Recollect the definition of experience and read this paragraph.

The Day I Stood And Became A Man

I reached the door of my home sweating not from exhaustion but from fear. I opened the door. A calm feeling came over me as I sat down. One more day, I had escaped it. But no more would I run or hide. I would stand and be a man and fight. The next day as I walked to school, out from behind a tree, the bully came. We stood face to face, fear ran through my body. Then he swung and I swung. As blood ran from his nose, my fear turned to courage. But then something happened. The fight stopped. We stood like that for a minute. No words were said, and then he smiled and I smiled.

The paragraph begins with a sense of fear and then a decision is taken and finally there is a sense of satisfaction and happiness.

Notes

These kinds of experiences become an unforgettable part of one’s life.

Exercise

- 1. Describe in about 100 words a pleasant childhood experience.

- 2. This is a passage which describes the landing of Armstrong and Aldrin on the moon. This is written in present tense and the third person. Read the whole passage once, then rewrite the entire passage in past tense and first person. Imagine you are Neil Armstrong.

It is Sunday, 20th July, 1969. The American astronauts, Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin, in the Eagle landing craft, are slowly dropping down towards the surface of the moon. They glide over the rocks and craters until they see a clear and level space suitable for landing. Down Down.... Until the feet of the Eagle gently touch and settle on the moon’s surface. Through the crackling radio comes Armstrong’s voice.

Decent engines stopped. Over-ride switch off. The Eagle has landed. Very smooth touch down. We are in the middle of a wide, oval plain about eight miles by three miles with some hills on the horizon. Large number of craters about five to fifty feet across.... Every variety of rock here, not much colour, mostly greyit’s beautiful

Later, the two astronauts climb out and walk on the surface of the moon. They kick up a fine, powdery, dust-like charcoal that sticks to their boots and clothes.

They plant a flag, but without air to make a breeze, it hangs limply. There is no sign of water or any form of life.

The sun glares out of a black cloudless sky. Far away the earth shines blue and white. During a long Moon day, the temperature rises to 118° C but falls to nearly – 113° C at night.

In their clumsy space suits, the astronauts find movement difficult, but the low gravity helps them to bounce and hop about like kangaroos. They scoop up specimens of rocks and dusty moon “soil” from the surface to bring back to earth. Besides sending back pictures by television, they take colour photographs and cine film.

Soon it is time for them to return to their spacecraft to prepare for the long journey back to earth.

And behind them in the dust, they leave their footprints a reminder of how men first walked upon the moon.

MY SON WILL NOT A BEGGAR BE

What things does a normal child like to see? Was Ved's childhood different from that of other children?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- read and understand an autobiography;
- use modals;
- use adverbs and adjectives;
- write letters; and
- give and take messages.

9.1 SECTION I

In India as elsewhere every girl or boy has fond and warm memories of his childhood, from the day he begins to talk to his mother and father. Invariably a child learns and recognizes the faces of his mother and father, of sisters and brothers who play with him, or the servants who prepare his meals or watch him play in a nursery full of toys. He must also remember the rich colours of the butterflies and birds which children everywhere always love to watch. But when I was three and a half, all these memories were expunged, and with the prolonged sickness (meningitis) I started living in a world of four senses – that is, a world in which colours and faces and light and darkness are unknown.

If my age and the sickness deprived me of the treasured memories of sight, they also reduced things which are valued so much in the sighted world to nothing more than mere words, empty of meaning. I started living in a universe where it was not the flood of sunshine streaming through the nursery window or the colours of the rainbow, a sunset or a full moon that mattered but the feel of the sun against the skin, the slow drizzling sound of the spattering rain, the feel of the air just before the coming of the quiet night, the smell of the grass on a warm morning. It was a universe where at first – but only at first – I made my way fumbling and faltering.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 9.1

- What did the writer miss when he lost his sight.
Tick the right answer.
 - The love of his family
 - The colours of the birds and butterflies
 - Darkness
 - Being able to recognize people
 - Not eating his favourite food.
- The writer says, 'It was a universe where at first – but only at first- I made my way fumbling and faltering.' What does he mean when he says, 'but only at first'? Tick the right answer.
 - He regained his sight.
 - He learnt to manage his daily life though he was blind.
 - Someone else did all his work for him.

9.2 SECTION II

How did Ved's family react to his blindness? Were they very unhappy, or did they think he would recover? What did they do about his problem?

It was good that I lost my sight when I did, because having no memories of seeing, there was nothing to look back to, nothing to miss. I went blind in November 1937. At that time we were living in Gujarat, in the province of Punjab in northern India. After my sickness, we moved to Lahore, a few miles away, but the number of relatives who came to sympathize made my father ask for another transfer, this time to Karnal, where we had neither friends nor relatives. There we got a cottage on the canal bank, built in very peaceful and quiet surroundings.

As might be expected, in the beginning it was tough for all of us, for mother and my father, for my three sisters and my brother, and for me too. The illness had left me weak. The servants avoided me as though I were an evil eye personified. My sisters treated me with care, as though I were a fragile doll, and mother wept. My father, who was a doctor in the public health service, was grateful that I had got prompt and good medical treatment, for delay would have affected my mind or endangered my life. But he, like the rest, had no hope.

A stage of complete inaction therefore followed my blindness. In part, this was due to the immediate shock of the illness, but more important still, the difficult situation was caused by ignorance of the potentialities of a blind child, since the only blind persons my parents saw were beggars.

But now, by fate or by the will of god, blindness had struck not only a child of the well to do, but that of an excellently trained doctor, who found his training in this instance useless. Still, his wide medical experience had prepared him for an acceptance of this tragedy, and he understood that any course of action must begin with the realization that I would be blind for the rest of my life.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 9.2

1. Was the writer's father happy that so many relatives came to sympathise with them that their son has gone blind. Tick the right answer.

- (a) Yes, he wanted sympathy.
- (b) No, because they upset his wife.
- (c) No. He asked for a transfer to get away from them.

2. Column A has names of people in the story.

Column B describes their feelings about the blind boy. Match the two.

A	B
The mother	(a) thought he was evil or harmful
The sisters	(b) cried all the time

Notes

The father (c) treated him like a delicate doll
 The servants (d) had little hope that he would see again
 But though he was lucky to have escaped death.

3. How did Ved's father react to the situation. Tick the right answer.
- (a) He was unhappy
 (b) He was afraid
 (c) He was optimistic
 (d) He accepted the situation.
4. What do you understand by the phrase, 'Potentialities of a blind child.'
- (a) What the child wants to do.
 (b) What he can do.
 (c) What he can't do.

9.3 SECTION III

Ved's mother had her own ideas of why her son went blind. She also had her own methods of treating him. What were they? Did they do him any good?

My mother on the other hand, could not convince herself that my sight would never return: she did not have the medical experience of my father, and she blamed something in her past for the tragedy.

The family pandit, upon whose advice, mother had relied almost from her childhood, was called in and consulted. "He knows more about religion and science," mother said with pride, "than any other pandit in our province." I was taken before him, and for a long time I sat in my mother's lap while he was lost in thought. After a while, he took my hand and examined the lines. Then he looked at mother's and he studied her forehead, mumbling steadily. He said he found himself inadequate, and more pandits would have to be consulted. At his request, they were called and questioned as to what atonement could be made. They all agreed that by doing penance for her sins, my mother could improve my chance of regaining sight.

They prescribed methods ranging from intensive prayers to strenuous physical exertions, and for a fee they agreed to perform part of the necessary religious ceremonies. Each pandit's advice was carefully heeded. Since my mother knew that my father would dislike such methods, she kept them secret, making it doubly hard for herself.

Along with this religious counsel, there were a series of visits to hakims (physicians who followed the Greek or Unani system of medicine). These quacks prescribed all types of concocted drops to put in my eyes. The surmas, which were administered at all hours of the day and night, burned and stung my eyes; and the only soothing part of the miserable ordeal was the loving caress of mother afterwards.

One night when my mother was administering these eye drops, and I was protesting with loud cries, my father unexpectedly returned. He asked and I told him why I was crying. He was very angry.

He forbade her to make any more visits to the hakims, and strictly prohibited the purchase of any more surmas.

Then he gently lifted me from her arms, and took me away. With steady hands, he bathed my stinging eyes. After this incident, even though we stopped going to hakims, now and then applications of surmas continues till I was eleven. But they were very mild, and my mother always obtained my consent in advance.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 9.3

1. What did Ved's mother think had caused her son's blindness? Which words in the text tell you this?
2. What did the pandits advise her to do. Mention two things.
3. What did the hakims prescribe for him? Name two things.
4. Ved's father was angry when his wife used the hakim's medicines on Ved because Tick the right answer or answers.

- (a) she did not take his permission.
 - (b) they made Ved uncomfortable.
 - (c) they did not do him any good.
5. Did the treatments stop? If so, which words in the text tell you so.

9.4 SECTION IV

How did Ved's father deal with his son's blindness?

I remember other little tests my mother put me through. One day she perceived that just before I arrive at a closed door, I would stop and reach for the handle to open it. She began letting me go about the house by myself and she discovered that I seldom ran into things. She credited the hakim and the stinging drops, but every evening she would hold her hand up before my face and ask me to tell her where it was. She used to shake her hand before me so that myriads of pores next to, below and above my ears could feel her hand even when it was a foot away. The air currents helped me to spot it. But she wasn't satisfied with this. She wanted me to tell her whether the light was on or off. When I failed this test, she was unhappy again, but I soon caught on and would listen for the click of the switch and then tell her. Sometimes she would flip the switch very rapidly time and again, and I would always count the clicks and give her the right answer.

Although in my case there was an obstacle that seemed unsurmountable, father was determined to try everything. He read all available literature on blindness. He learned that almost all India's blind people had turned to begging for their livelihood, or had become owners of pan and biri shops and spent their days rolling nuts and condiments in a betel leaf or tobacco in a cigarette paper. He was determined that this was not going to be the fate of his second son, and he started corresponding with many of the prominent educational authorities, asking for their advice. The replies were not optimistic. For the blind, educational facilities and personnel were limited, and often the schools became semi- asylums with all ages grouped together in classes without any gradation system.

My father still persisted, for he knew that my staying at home would result in my becoming a pampered child. He realized, as well, that I would have difficulty playing with normal children, and that my mother would always be afraid to let me leave the immediate premises.

At last he heard of Dr. R M Halder, Principal of Dadar School for the Blind in Bombay. My father wrote to him asking for advice. Dr. Halder showed unusual interest in my case, and promised to take special care and personal responsibility for me if I were sent to his school.

When my mother learned of my father's decision to send me to the Dadar School, she was appalled. She could not understand the reason for sending me nine hundred miles away from home to attend school with orphans and children of the poorest classes. Yet she placed her faith in my father's superior judgement, and in her quiet way, she agreed.

GRAMMAR

- I. 'Will' in the first person, when used with I, expresses willingness, promise, determination, etc.

eg. I will write soon.

It can be used to talk of the future.

He will go away tomorrow.

'Shall' is used with 'I' to talk about the future.

It also expresses determination.

eg. I shall visit you next week.

Now fill in the blanks in the following sentences with either 'will' or 'shall'.

1. I _____ post this letter tomorrow.
2. The examinations _____ begin next week.
3. I have not met my grandfather for a month now. I _____ see him next time.
4. _____ you please stop talking.
5. _____ I serve dinner now?
6. You _____ not steal.
7. _____ you change this bulb for me?

'Would' and 'should' are past tense forms of 'will' and 'shall'.

'Would' is also used politely in making requests.

Eg. "Would you help me to finish this work please?"

It also expresses habitual actions that took place in the past.

Eg. My mother would put surma in my eyes.

'Should' expresses an obligation.

Eg. We should help others.

Notes

I should visit my grandmother more often.

Your cough is very bad. You should see a doctor.

Now fill in the blanks in the sentences below, with 'would' or 'should'

LET'S WRITE

Now look at the following letter.

Dr. Mehta,
45, Canal Road
Karnal, Haryana.

Dr. R.M. Halder,
Principal,
Dadar School for the Blind,
Mumbai (Maharashtra).

Dear Sir,

My son Ved went blind at the age of three and a half years, after an attack of meningitis. He is now about six years old. He is an intelligent child, and over the last few years he has developed his other senses, so that now he can move freely about the house, open and close doors, and do some of his own work.

I am anxious to send him to a school where he will get a good all round education and learn to be completely independent.

Your school has been highly recommended to me and I shall be grateful if you could give me the following information.

1. I would like to know if my son could be admitted to your school, and what kind of educational facilities would be available to him.
2. Kindly let me know what your annual fees would be.
3. What facilities, medical and otherwise, would be available in the hostel?

Thank You,

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Mehta.

This letter-

1. Gives you the addresses of the writer, and the addressee.
2. Has a superscription and a conclusion.

3. Gives details of the child's illness and his present condition.
4. Asks for information about the facilities that can be provided to the child, and the fees that have to be paid.
5. Asks if admission will be available.

Notes

Exercises

You are Dr. Halder Principal of the Dadar School for the Blind.

Write a reply to Dr. Mehta.

Your letter should contain the following matter.

Children can be admitted from Class I level, and stay till they finish Class X-they are encouraged to play games and take part in extra-curricular activities-they are taught Braille-books suitable for the visually handicapped are provided in the library, and they are encouraged to read – there is a Doctor available if required – the staff in the school is kind and sympathetic – the younger children in the hostel are under the care of a highly qualified and experienced matron.

The school would be very happy to admit Ved Mehta, and will do their best to provide him with a good all round education.

WHERE THE MIND IS WITHOUT FEAR

This poem was written when the British ruled our country. We were slaves to a foreign power. Rabindranath Tagore, the great Indian nationalist and visionary wanted India to awaken to a bright dawn of freedom – freedom from slavery and our own mental chains.

Read the poem aloud once. Then read it silently. It would be a good idea to memorize the poem.

Where the mind is without fear
and the head is held high
Where knowledge is free
Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
Where words come out from the depths of truth;
Where tireless striving stretches its arms towards perfection;
Where the clear stream of reason
has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;
Where the mind is led forward
by thee into ever widening thought and action-
into that heaven of freedom,
my father,
let my country awake.

- Rabindranath Tagore

Notes

DISCUSSION

Let us now read the following lines of the poem once again and answer the questions that follow.

Where the mind is without fear
and the head is held high
Where knowledge is free
Where the world has not been broken
up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
Where words come out from the depths of truth;
Where tireless striving stretches its arms towards perfection;

INTEXT QUESTIONS 10.1

1. What is meant by “mind is without fear and head is held high”. Tick the correct answer.
 - (i) to be fearless and self respecting
 - (ii) to be proud of one’s high position .
 - (iii) to stand straight and be carefree.
2. What does the poet mean by “where knowledge is free”?
3. The ‘domestic walls’ are usually associated with safety, comfort and love. Are these the feelings evoked by the phrase ‘narrow domestic walls’? If not, choose the correct answer from the ones given below:
 - (i) small houses which make us feel cramped.
 - (ii) ideas which are petty and narrow-minded.
 - (iii) a house divided into rooms by walls.
4. Why has the word ‘tireless’ been used to describe ‘striving’?
5. What are we striving for?

DISCUSSION

Now let us read further.

Where the clear stream of reason
has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;

 Where the mind is led forward
 by thee into ever widening thought and action-
 into that heaven of freedom,
 my father,
 let my country awake.

Notes

In the first two lines the poet has identified 'reason with clear stream'.

And "dead habit" with "dreary desert".

Such an identification is called a metaphor. Like the 'simile', a metaphor is also a comparison of two or more things. But in a simile the comparison is made by using link words 'like' or 'as' whereas in a metaphor, words – 'like' and 'as' are not used.

Example :

Life is not a bed of roses (metaphor).

Life is not as comfortable as a bed of roses (simile).

INTEXT QUESTIONS 10.2

1. (a) Why is reason compared with 'clear stream'?
- (b) Where has reason lost its way?
2. Look at the line 'dreary desert sand of dead habit.' The sound 'd' is repeated four times. Why? The repetition of sound gives the line a musical quality. This poetic device is called alliteration. We will now, go back to the first part of the poem.

Can you pick out two lines where letter and sound are repeated?

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. How does the poet describe 'heaven of freedom'?
2. Who does the poet address as 'thee' and my father?

Notes

3. Pick out metaphors and similes from the lines given below:
 'But swift as dreams myself I found within the pilot's boat'.
 'The wind was a torrent of darkness/ the road was a ribbon of moonlight'
 'The ship went down like lead.'
 'I pass like night from land to land.'

Intext Questions 10.2

1. (a) Clarity of thought is compared with clear stream.
 (b) in the dreary desert of dead habit.
2. (i) the head is held high
 (ii) tireless striving stretches its arms.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. Where head is held high, knowledge is free. Where people are open-minded and rational.
2. God.
3. Metaphor
 (i) wind was a torrent of darkness
 (ii) road was a ribbon of moonlight

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages;
- answer questions on those passages.

11.1 SECTION I

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

Restoring Childhood

Girls in particular have no time for childhood. Much of the work that girls and younger children do is carried out in a family group or domestic setting. This is rarely perceived as labour. For example, the concept of “child servitude” implicitly excludes the domestic labour of girls, although this may be full-time work, detrimental to development, necessary for survival and equally inescapable.

Perhaps, this blindness to girls’ work is because non-remunerative and nurturing tasks do not have a visible market value. So, while the exploitation of a boy working on gem stones in a small manufacturing unit in Jaipur is easily recognized, the equally hazardous work of a girl cutting grass on a precipitous mountain slope in Garhwal is ignored. Such a concept of child labour is clearly inadequate for understanding the real nature and extent of children’s work.

The overwhelming majority of child workers in India are cultivators and agricultural labourers. Poor children also undertake a variety of domestic chores and subsistence activities like minding siblings, grazing cattle, collecting fuel wood and fodder as part of their daily lives, whether or not they are at school.

However, the documentation on child labour in India has a strong focus on the dehumanizing conditions of children labouring in hazardous industries, such as the match and fireworks factories of Sivakasi (Tamil Nadu) or the glass-works of Firozabad (U.P.). The self-employed and ‘street’ children of Delhi, Bombay, Bangalore and other big cities have also been the object of many studies. Yet, these children represent only the most striking and visible aspect of the denial of a child’s right to a healthy childhood.

The invisibility of rural child workers reflect an urban bias in Indian administration, research and the media, and the pervasiveness of the seductive idea that rural life is somewhat idyllic. This bias is not peculiar to middle class.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 11.1

- I. Tick the correct answer
 1. People are blind to girl’s work because it is considered —
 - a. not profitable and doesn’t have market value.
 - b. hazardous.
 - c. inadequate.
 2. Whose work is more easily recognized or noticed?
 - a. a girl cutting grass on a dangerous mountain slope
 - b. a boy working in a gem stone manufacturing unit
 3. A large number of children in India are:
 - a. cultivators
 - b. agricultural labourers
 - c. baby-sitters for their siblings
 4. List the kinds of work/jobs that girls do (which is considered as child servitude).
 5.
 - a) After reading the passage why do you think poor children in India are not able to have a healthy childhood?
 - b) What is ‘Child Servitude’?

6. You have a baby sister/brother/niece/nephew in your family who needs looking after. Your aunt gets a ten-year old girl/boy from the village to look him after the baby. You know that it is illegal to hire anyone below the age of fourteen for work. Write the points that you would raise to convince your aunt against hiring young children.

11.2 SECTION II

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

Marketing of Coconut Products

Copra is primarily used for extracting oil. The country produces about 4.5 lakh tonnes of coconut oil equivalent to about 6.9 lakh tonnes of milling Copra. Tamil Nadu and Kerala account for 90 percent of oil production. The usage of coconut oil as a cooking medium is confined to Kerala.

Palm oil and palm kernel oil are the two primary substitutes of coconut oil. The former competes with coconut oil in the edible oils segment and the latter in the non-edible oils segment of the consumption base. Palm oil prices are globally cheaper than other major edible oils. Palm oil dominates the Indian import scene. A major reason for augmenting marketing of various coconut products besides coconut oil is perhaps because demand for coconut oil has turned sluggish. It seems necessary to augment and diversify the production of coconut-based commodities such as packaged coconut water, coconut cream etc. However, the competition in these areas is not easy. Coconut water in 200ml. sachet costs Rs. 13 which is much more than bottled soft drinks. It is also more costly than the other natural drink, namely milk, which is sold at about Rs. 14 per litre..

INTEXT QUESTIONS 11.2

1. Name the states where copra is produced.
2. Where is coconut oil mainly used for cooking?
3. Which oils are used in place of coconut oil?
4. Why does Palm oil dominate the import market?
5. What can be produced to promote coconut based commodities?
6. Which is costlier?
 - a) 200 ml. coconut water sachet.
 - b) 1 Ltr. milk

IF I WERE YOU

Gerrard, a young man, is packing. Suddenly a man enters who resembles him. He is holding a revolver in his hand. Let us find out what he wants from Gerrard.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- read and understand a one act play;
- understand and use words which have different meanings;
- use tenses appropriately;
- write job applications; and
- express preferences.

12.1 SECTION I

(The scene is a small cottage interior. There is an entrance back right which may be curtained. Another door to the left must be a practical door. The furniture is simple, consisting of a small table towards the left, a chair or two, and a divan rather up-stage on the right. On the table is a telephone.)

When the curtain rises Gerrard is standing by the table phoning. He is of medium height, and wears horn-rimmed glasses... He is dressed in a lounge suit and a great coat. His voice is cultured.

Notes

He puts down the phone and goes to the divan on the right, where there is a travelling bag, and starts packing. Whilst he is thus engaged, another man, similar in build to Gerrard enters from the right silently-revolver in hand. He is flashily dressed in an overcoat and a soft hat. He bumps accidentally against the table, and at the sound Gerrard turns quickly.

Gerrard : (pleasantly) Why, this a surprise, Mr ___ er ___.

Intruder : I am glad you're pleased to see me. I don't think you'll be pleased for long. Put those paws up!

Gerrard : This is all very melodramatic, not very original, perhaps but ___ Intruder : Trying to be calm and ___ er ___

Gerrard : Nonchalant is your word, I think.

Intruder : Thanks a lot. You'll soon stop being smart. I'll make you crawl. I want to know a few things, see.

Gerrard : Anything you like. I know all the answers. But before we begin I should like to change my position; you may be comfortable, but I am not.

Intruder : Sit down there, and no funny business. (Motions to chair, and seats himself on the divan by the bag) Now then, we'll have a nice little talk about yourself!

Gerrard : At last a sympathetic audience! I'll tell you the story of my life. How as a child I was stolen by the gypsies, and why at the age of thirty-two, I find myself in my lonely Essex cottage, how-Intruder : Keep it to yourself, and just answer my questions. You live here alone? Well, do you?

Gerrard : I'm sorry. I thought you were telling me, not asking me. A question of inflection, your voice is -unfamiliar.

Intruder : (with emphasis) Do you live here alone?

Gerrard : And if I don't answer?

Intruder : You've got enough sense not to want to get hurt.

Gerrard : I think good sense is shown more in the ability to avoid pain than in mere desire to do so. What do you think, Mr ___ er ___?

Intruder : Never mind my name. I like yours better. Mr Gerrard. What are your Christian names?

Gerrard : Vincent Charles.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 12.1

1. Did the Intruder try to frighten Gerrard?
2. Did the Intruder succeed?
3. What was the Intruder's first question to Gerrard?
4. Why do you think he wanted an answer to the question?
5. If Gerrard did not answer, what would the Intruder do?

Notes

12.2 SECTION II

What brings the Intruder to Gerrard's house? Chance? Fate? Or a planned move?

Intruder : Do you run a car?

Gerrard : No.

Intruder : That's a lie. You're not dealing with a fool. I'm as smart as you and smarter, and I know you run a car. Better be careful, wise guy! Listen, this gun's no toy. I can hurt you without killing you, and get my answers.

Gerrard : Of course, if you put it like that, I'll be glad to assist you. I do possess a car, and it's in the garage round the corner.

Intruder : That's better. Do people often come out here?

Gerrard : Very rarely. Surprisingly few people take the trouble to visit. There's that baker and the greengrocer, of course; and then there's milkman.

Intruder : I happen to know that you never see trades people.

Gerrard : You seem to have taken a considerable amount of trouble. Once you know so much about me, won't you say something about yourself? You have been so modest.

Intruder : I could tell you plenty. You think you're smart, but I'm smarter. I've got brains and I use them. That's how I've got where I have.

Gerrard : And where precisely have you got? It didn't require a great brain to break into my little cottage.

Intruder : When you know why I've broken into your little cottage, you'll be surprised, and it won't be a pleasant surprise.

Notes

Gerrard : With you figuring so largely in it, that is understandable. By the way, what particular line of crime do you follow, or aren't you a specialist?

Intruder : My speciality's jewels robbery. Your car will do me a treat. It's certainly a dandy car.

Gerrard : I'm afraid, jewels are few and far between in this part of England.

Intruder : So are the cops. I can retire here nicely for a little while.

Gerrard : You mean to live with me? A little sudden isn't it; you've not been invited.

Intruder : You won't be here long; so I didn't trouble to ask

Gerrard : What do you mean?

Intruder : This is your big surprise. I'm going to kill you.

Gerrard : A little harsh, isn't it?

Intruder : (with heavy sarcasm) Yeah, I'll be sorry to do it. I've taken a fancy to you, but it's just got to be done.

Gerrard : Why add murder to your other crimes? It's a grave step you're taking.

Intruder : I'm not taking it for fun. I've been hunted long enough. I'm wanted for murder already, and they can't hang me twice.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 12.2

1. Is Gerrard successful in finding out the Intruder's name? How many times does he try?
2. Does Gerrard have a car? Where does he keep it?
3. List at least 3 facts about Gerrard that the Intruder had found out before coming to his house.
4. Refer to 2 incidents that prove that the Intruder is boastful.

12.3 SECTION III

The Intruder threatens to kill Gerrard. Is Gerrard afraid? Is he nervous? Does the Intruder carry out his threat?

Gerrard : You're planning a double murder so to speak. Admitted you've nothing to lose, but what have you to gain?

Intruder : I've got freedom to gain. As for myself, I'm a poor hunted rat. As Vincent Charles Gerrard, I'm free to go to places and do nothing. I can eat well and sleep and without having to be ready to hide at the sight of a cop.

Gerrard : In most melodramas the villain is foolish enough to delay his killing long enough to be frustrated. You are much luckier.

Intruder : I'm O.K. I've got a reason for everything. I'm going to be Vincent Charles Gerrard, see. I've got to know what he talks like. How I know. Your accent comes easy. This is Mr. V.C. Gerrard speaking. (Pantomime of phoning, in imitated cultured voice). And that's not all (He stands up). Get up a minute. (Gerrard stands), Now take a look at me.

Gerrard : You're not particularly attractive.

Intruder : No! Well, that goes for you, too. I've only got to wear specs and I'll look enough like you to get away with it.

Gerrard : What about your clothes? They'll let you down if you're not careful.

Intruder : That'll be all right. Yours will fit me fine.

Gerrard : That is extremely interesting, but you seem to miss the point of my remark. I said, you were luckier than most melodramatic villains. It was not a compliment to your intelligence. You won't kill me for a very good reason.

Intruder : So that's what you think.

Gerrard : You'll let me go, and thank God you didn't shoot sooner.

Intruder : Come on. What's on your mind! Better be quick. This conversation bores me.

Gerrard : Your idea is to elude that police by killing me and taking on my identity?

Intruder : Yes, I like the idea.

Gerrard : But are you sure it's going to help you?

Intruder : Now listen here. I've got this all planned. I did a job in town. Things went wrong and I killed a cop. Since then I've done nothing but dodge.

Gerrard : And this is where dodging has brought you?

Intruder : It brought me to Aylesbury. That's where I saw you in the car. Two other people saw you and started to talk. I listened. It looks like you're a bit queer kind of a mystery man.

Gerrard : A mystery which I propose to explain.

Notes

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 12.3

1. Why was the Intruder a hunted rat?
2. What did he plan to do as Vincent Charles Gerrard?
3. Which of the following remarks of Gerrard suggest that the Intruder will not kill him?
 - a) “Your idea is to elude the police by killing me taking on my identity?”
 - b) “You won’t kill me for a very good reason.”
 - c) “Your clothes will let you down if you’re not careful.”
4. (i) Who gives away more information about himself, Gerrard or the Intruder?
 (ii) Is it a strength or a weakness?
 (iii) Does it show that he was:
 - nervous?
 - clever?
 - boastful?
 - queer?

12.4 SECTION IV

Gerrard was a mystery man. Why did he act in a mysterious way? Was he also a crook like the Intruder? Let’s find out what happens to Gerrard and the Intruder.

Intruder : (disregarding him). You phone your orders and sometimes you go away suddenly and come back just as suddenly. Those are just the things I want to do. Hearing about you was one of my luckiest breaks.

Gerrard : Apparently you haven’t the intelligence to ask why I am surrounded in this air of mystery.

Intruder : (preparing to shoot). As I said before, this conversation bores me.

Gerrard : Don’t be a fool. If you shoot, you’ll hang for sure. If not as yourself, then as Vincent Charles Gerrard.

Intruder : What is this?

Notes

Gerrard : This is your big surprise. I said you wouldn't kill me and I was right. Why do you think I am here today and gone tomorrow, never see trades-people? You say my habits would suit you. You are a crook. Do you think I am a Sunday-school teacher?

Intruder : You may be a liar.

Gerrard : Listen. The game's up as far as I'm concerned. Things went wrong with me. I said it with bullets and got away. Unfortunately they got one of my men, and found things the fools should have burnt. Tonight I'm expecting trouble. My bag's packed ready to clear off. There it is.

Intruder : It's a bag all right and this is a gun all right. What's all this?

Gerrard : That's a disguise outfit; false moustaches and what-not. Now do you believe me?

Intruder : (musingly) I don't know.

Gerrard : For God's sake clear that muddled head of yours and let's go. Come with me in the car. I can use you. If you find it's a fake, you've got me in the car, and you've still got your gun.

Intruder : Maybe you're right.

Gerrard : Then don't waste time. (goes and pick up hat and bag)

Intruder : Careful, boss, I'm watching you.

Gerrard : I've got a man posted on the main road. He'll ring up if he sees the police, but I don't want to leave it as late as that. (Telephone bell rings). Come on! They're after us. Through here straight to the garage.

Intruder : How do I know that?

Gerrard : Oh, don't be a fool. Look for yourself.

(Gerrard opens door and steps away. Intruder leans forward to inspect it, with his side towards Gerrard, but with his revolver ready. As he turns his head, Gerrard gives him a push into the cupboard, knocking the revolver out of his hand. He slams the door, and locks it, picks up the revolver and goes to the phone, where he stands with the gun pointed at the cupboard door.)

Intruder : (rattles door and shouts) Let me out of here!

Gerrard : Hello, yes, speaking. Sorry I can't let you have the dress in time for rehearsal, I've had a spot of bother – quite amusing. I think, I'll put it in my next play. Listen, can you tell our friend the Sergeant to come up here at once. You'll probably find him in the Public Bar.

LET'S WRITE

You have just read about Gerrard and the Intruder. It is obvious that the Intruder is without a job and a means of earning his livelihood. Suppose he were to start looking for a job, how do you think he would begin? He would first have to draft an application for a job. Let us now find out how job applications are written.

Look at the following advertisement which appeared in Times of India, 10th Jan'04.

Wanted – A responsible Secretary with pleasing manners for Good Hope Escorts Ltd. Knowledge of computers and fluency in English essential. Apply within 10 days with biodata to P.O. Box 148, New Delhi-110019.

The above advertisement tells us the following:

- Post of secretary vacant in Escort Ltd.
- What the job requirements are
- C.V./Bio-data required
- Where to apply
- Write job application

Let us look once again at the advertisement.

This advertisement clearly tells us the following

THE TIGER IN THE TUNNEL

The night is dark and silent. A young boy and his father are alone in a hut in the middle of the jungle. Soon the father leaves his son alone and goes out into the jungle. Where does he go and why?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- read and understand a story in English;
- use homophones correctly;
- use the to-infinite, gerunds and participles appropriately;
- edit your writing; and
- give and take messages.

13.1 SECTION I

Tembu, the boy, opened his eyes in the dark and wondered if his father was ready to leave the hut on his nightly errand.

There was no moon that night, and the deathly stillness of the surrounding jungle was broken only occasionally by the shrill cry of a cicada. Sometimes from far off came the hollow hammering of a woodpecker, carried along on the faint breeze. Or the grunt of a wild boar could be heard as he dug up a favourite root. But these sounds were rare, and the silence of the forest always returned to swallow them up.

Notes

Baldeo, the watchman, was awake. He stretched himself slowly unwinding the heavy shawl that covered him. It was close on midnight and the chill air made him shiver. The station, a small shack backed by heavy jungle, was a station in name only; for trains only stopped there, if at all, for a few seconds before entering the deep cutting that led to the tunnel. Most trains merely slowed down before taking the sharp curve before cutting.

Baldeo was responsible for signalling whether or not the tunnel was clear of obstruction, and his manual signal stood before the entrance. At night it was his duty to see that the lamp was burning, and that the overland mail passed through safely. 'Shall I come too, Father?' asked Tembu sleepily, still lying in a huddle in a corner of the hut.

'No, it is cold tonight. Do not get up.'

Tembu, who was twelve, did not always sleep with his father at the station, for he had also to help in the home, where his mother and small sister were usually alone. They lived in a small tribal village on the outskirts of the forest, about three miles from the station. Their small rice fields did not provide them with more than a bare living and Baldeo considered himself lucky to have got the job of Khalasi at this small wayside signal stop.

Still drowsy, Baldeo, groped for his lamp in darkness then fumbled about in search of matches. When he had produced a light he left the hut, closed the door behind him and set off along the permanent way. Tembu had fallen asleep again.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 13.1

- I.
 - a. What is the father's name?
 - b. What is his son's name?
 - c. How old is the son?
- II.
 - a. Where did Baldeo spend the night?
 - b. What was Baldeo responsible for?
- III.
 - a. Where did Baldeo's family live?
 - b. Why did Baldeo have to take up the job of a Khalasi?
- IV. Pick out three phrases which describe the station from the list below.

dark and cold; a small shack; surrounded by rice fields; in the middle of a thick forest; near a tunnel; in a tribal village.

13.2 SECTION II

At midnight, Baldeo goes out of his hut, into the thick forest. The jungle is full of dangerous animals, but Baldeo has a job to do and it is important.

Baldeo wondered whether the lamp on the signal-post was still alight.

Gathering his shawl closer about him, he stumbled on, sometimes along the rails, sometimes along the ballast. He longed to get back to his warm corner in the hut.

The eeriness of the place was increased by the neighbouring hills which overhung the main line threateningly. On entering the cutting with its sheer rock walls towering high above the rails, Baldeo could not help thinking about the wild animals he might encounter. He had heard many tales of the famous tunnel tiger, a man-eater, which was supposed to frequent this spot; he hardly believed these stories for since his arrival at this place a month ago, he had not seen or even heard a tiger.

There had, of course, been panthers, and only a few days ago the villagers had killed one with their spears and axes. Baldeo had occasionally heard the sawing of a panther calling to its mate, but they had not come near the tunnel or shed.

Baldeo walked confidently for being a tribal himself, he was used to the jungle and its ways. Like his fore-fathers he carried a small axe; fragile to look at but deadly when in use.

He prided himself in his skill in wielding it against wild animals. He had killed a young boar with it once and the family had feasted on the flesh for three days. The axehead of pure steel, thin but ringing true like a bell, had been made by his father over a charcoal fire. This axe was part of himself. And wherever he went, be it to the local market seven miles away, or to a tribal dance, the axe was always in his hand. Occasionally an official who had come to the station had offered him good money for the weapon, but Baldeo had no intention of parting with it.

The cutting curved sharply, and in the darkness the black entrance to the tunnel looked up menacingly. The signal-light was out. Baldeo set to work to haul the lamp down by its chain. If the oil had finished, he would have to return to the hut for more. The mail train was due in five minutes.

Once more he fumbled for his matches. Then suddenly he stood still and listened. The frightened cry of a barking deer followed by a crashing sound in the undergrowth, made Baldeo hurry. There was still a little oil in the lamp, and after an instant's hesitation he lit the lamp again and hoisted it into position. Having done this, he walked quickly down the tunnel, swinging his own lamp, so that the shadows leapt up and down the soot-stained walls, and having made sure that the line was clear, he returned to the entrance and sat down to wait for the mail train.

Notes

Notes

The train was late. Sitting huddled up, almost dozing, he soon forgot his surroundings and began to nod.

Back in the hut, the trembling of the ground told of the approach of the train, and a low, distant rumble woke the boy, who sat up rubbing the sleep from his eyes.

'Father, it's time to light the lamp,' he mumbled and then, realizing that his father had been gone some time, he lay down again, but he was wide awake now, waiting for the train to pass, waiting for his father's returning footsteps.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 13.2

1. Name the four wild animals which were to be found in the forest.
2. Was Baldeo afraid? Which sentence in the passage gives you the answer?
3. What weapon did he carry? Who had made it?
4. Did the barking deer call out because:
 - a) it saw Baldeo?
 - b) it saw a tiger?
 - c) it was afraid of the dark?
 - d) it was calling to its mate?
5.
 - a) How did Tembu know that the train was coming.
 - b) What is he waiting for?

13.3 SECTION III

Baldeo finds himself in a dangerous situation. How does he deal with it?

A low grunt resounded from the top of the cutting. In a second Baldeo was awake, all his senses alert. Only a tiger could emit such a sound

There was no shelter for Baldeo, but he grasped his axe firmly and tensed his body, trying to make out the direction from which the animal was approaching. For some time there was only silence. Even the usual jungle noises seemed to have ceased altogether. Then a thump and the rattle of small stones announced that the tiger had sprung into the cutting.

Baldeo, listening as he had never listened before, wondered if it was making for the tunnel or the opposite direction the direction of the hut, in which Tembu would be lying unprotected. He did not have to wonder for long. Before a minute had passed he made out the huge body of the tiger trotting steadily towards him. Its eyes shone a brilliant green in the light from the signal lamp. Flight was useless, for in the dark the tiger would be more sure-footed than Baldeo and would soon be upon him from behind. Baldeo stood with his back to the signal –post, motionless staring at the great brute moving rapidly towards him. The tiger, used to the ways of men, for it had been preying on them for years, came on fearlessly, and with a quick run and a snarl struck out with its right paw, expecting to bowl over this puny man who dared stand in the way.

Baldeo, however, was ready. With a marvellously agile leap he avoided the paw and brought his axe down on the animal's shoulder. The tiger gave a roar and attempted to close in. Again Baldeo drove his axe which caught the tiger on the shoulder, almost severing the leg. To make matters worse, the axe remained stuck in the bone, and Baldeo was left without a weapon.

The tiger, roaring with pain, now sprang upon Baldeo, bringing him down and then tearing at his broken body. It was all over in a sharp few minutes. Baldeo was conscious only of a searing pain down his back, and then there was blackness and the night closed in on him forever.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 13.3

1. What made Baldeo's job as a signal man dangerous?
2. Pick out words and phrases from the text that describe the tiger.
3. What was Baldeo more worried about: his own safety or his son's?
4. Why did Baldeo decide to fight the tiger?
5. How did Baldeo die?

13.4 SECTION IV

Baldeo, the bread winner of the family was dead. Who took on his responsibilities and how did he tackle them.

The tiger drew off and sat down licking his wounded leg, roaring every now and then with agony. He did not notice the faint rumble that shook the earth, followed by the distant puffing of an engine steadily climbing. The overland mail was approaching. Through the trees beyond the cutting as the train advanced, the glow of the furnace could be seen, and showers of sparks fell like Divali lights over the forest.

Notes

Notes

As the train entered the cutting, the engine whistled once, loud and piercingly. The tiger raised his head, then slowly got to his feet. He found himself trapped like the man. Flight along the cutting was impossible. He entered the tunnel, running as fast as his wounded leg would carry him. And then, with a roar and a shower of sparks, the train entered the yawning tunnel. The noise in the confined space was deafening but, when the train came out into the open, on the other side, silence returned once more to the forest and the tunnel.

At the next station the driver slowed down and stopped his train to water the engine. He got down to stretch his legs and decided to examine the head-lamps. He received the surprise of his life; for, just above the cow-catcher lay the major portion of the tiger, cut in half by the engine.

There was considerable excitement and conjecture at the station, but back at the cutting there was no sound except for the sobs of the boy as he sat beside the body of his father. He sat there a long time, unafraid of the darkness, guarding the body from jackals and hyenas, until the first faint light of dawn brought with it the arrival of the relief-watchman.

Tembu and his sister and mother were plunged in grief for two whole days; but life had to go on, and a living had to be made, and all the responsibility now fell on Tembu. Three nights later, he was at the cutting, lighting the signal-lamp for the overland mail.

He sat down in the darkness to wait for the train, and sang softly to himself. There was nothing to be afraid of – his father had killed the tiger, the forest gods were pleased; and besides, he had the axe with him, his father's axe, and he now knew to use it.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 13.4

1. Why did the tiger enter the tunnel?
2. What happened to the tiger?
3. Why was there excitement at the station?
4. What was happening at the cutting?
5. Why did Tembu sit by his father's body?
6. Why did Tembu take up his father's job soon after his death?

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. Write two incidents to show the quality of responsibility in Baldeo and Tembu.
2. Most wild animals avoid human beings. Why did this tiger come straight to Baldeo.
3. Give three reasons why Tembu was not afraid of anything.

GRAMMAR: Non- Finites

I. To-Infinitives

Look at the following sentences. Study the underlined words.

- a. Tembu wondered if his father was ready to leave the hut
- b. At night it was his duty to see the lamp was burning.

The underlined words are called Infinitives. They are formed by writing to + verb –

- e.g. 1. He had also to help at home.
2. It's time to light the lamp
i.e. to + help, to + light

Note: 'to' is followed by the first form of the verb i.e. the original form of a verb without any change.

Exercise I

Underline the Infinitives in the following sentences.

1. He agreed to postpone the meeting.
2. It is dangerous to play with a gun.
3. We tried to open the door, but it had jammed.
4. We have to learn more about Infinitives.
5. Bank is a place to deposit money.
6. Children go to play in a park.

Exercise II

Fill in the blanks using the infinitive form of the verb in the box.

6. Is it safe _____ the car here?
7. _____ without air is impossible.
8. _____ in the sun in winter is pleasant.
9. _____ water is foolish.
10. I shall be glad _____ you.

Notes

Notes

II. Gerunds

Observe the following sentences and see how the underlined words function.

- a) Swimming is good for health
- b) Sita loves dancing.

Swimming and dancing are used as Nouns although they are derived from verbs. A word which was a verb does the work of a Noun by adding 'ing'. It is used in the same way as a noun. Hence we say – He likes driving.

Writing poems is his hobby.

Exercise I

Underline the gerunds in the following sentences.

1. Anju likes reading novels by Thomas Hardy.
2. Boys like playing cricket.
3. Riding is an interesting hobby.
4. Giving is better than receiving.
5. Singing gives us joy.

Exercise II

Use the gerundial form of the verb in the brackets and fill in the blanks:

1. _____ (bath) is necessary for good health.
2. _____ (see) is _____(believe).
3. We go to school for _____ (study).
4. He dislikes _____ (wear) a green shirt.
5. Baldeo was responsible for _____ (signal).
6. He heard the _____ (hammer) of a woodpecker.
7. He stopped _____ (tremble) when he was that the tiger was dead.
8. The leopard waited at the _____ (cut).
9. _____ (shop) had made her tired.
10. _____ (study) grammar is fun.

III. The Present Participle

You saw/that by adding 'ing,' we can use the verbs as Nouns also. Now look at the underlined words in the following sentences. The 'ing' words function like adjectives or adverbs. They are present participles.

- a) He heard a barking deer.
- b) The toy was a dancing girl in a glass case.

Exercise I

Pick out the present participles in the following sentences.

1. The boy sitting in the corner is my friend.
2. He jumped into a moving bus.
3. The frightening cry was followed by a crashing sound in the under growth.
4. They disapproved of playing cards.

Exercise II

Fill in the blanks with the present participle of the words in the box speak menace excite learn yawn write

1. We got some _____ news last evening.
2. We had a _____ activity in class today.
3. The black entrance to the tunnel looked _____.
4. The train entered the _____ tunnel.
5. She was busy _____ letters.
6. It was a _____ experience for us.

V. The Past Participle

Observe the following sentences

- a) They found hidden treasure under the stone.
- b) They ate cooked food.
- c) They cut a fallen tree.
- d) These are burnt sticks.

The past participle (hidden, cooked, fallen) use – ed, en or – t (hide+en, cook+ed, fall+en, burn+t) to express a completed action as an adjective to qualify- treasure, food, tree, sticks.

Notes

Notes

- A. Pick out the past participles in the following sentences and underline them.
- A frightened child ran to his mother.
 - He is a changed man now.
 - Don't use a broken scale.
- B. Fill in the blanks with the past participle form of the verbs in the box.

Editing

Spelling

Compare the sentences given in the boxes below:

I .

The cuting curved sharpli, and in the darknes the black entrence to the tunel looked up menacingly

II

The cutting curved sharply, and in the darkness the black entrance to the tunnel looked up menacingly.

Do you notice that the sentence in box I had a lot of spelling mistakes. But in box II the same sentence has been corrected and all the spelling are corrected. That is, the sentence have been edited.

- a) Now edit the following sentences by correcting the spelling.

It swa about 10 o'clock on Hali day and the gaty had began. The grounds of the twonshipe were filing up with people splashing colurs at each other. Forteen year old Minal Pawar, who lives in one of the ground-floor flats was hanging out the whashed cloths in the courtyard. She planed to join the fun as soon as she finished.

Now you have edited the spelling mistakes. You can also edit the punctuation marks like capital letters, commas, full stops, question marks, use of 'I', like the one give below.

e.g. Box I

'shall i come too father asked tembu sleeply still lying huddled in a corner of the hut.

Box II

'Shall I come too, Father?' asked Tembu sleepily, still lying huddled in a corner of the hut.

The sentences in Box I have been edited by putting the punctuation marks. They have been underlined in Box II.

Now edit the following passage by correcting the punctuation.

THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

You must have had to make choices sometimes. Did you ever feel unsure of your choice? Was it because you didn't know what your choice would lead you to?

The poet in the poem 'The Road Not Taken' is at crossroads. There are two roads and he has to choose one.

Read the poem aloud and enjoy its rhythm .

Then read it silently.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
 And sorry I could not travel both
 And be one traveller, long I stood
 And looked down one as far as I could
 To where it bent in the undergrowth;
 Then took the other, as just as fair,
 And having perhaps the better claim,
 Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
 Though as for that, the passing there
 Had worn them really about the same,
 And both that morning equally lay
 In leaves no step had trodden black.
 Oh, I kept the first for another day!
 Yet knowing how way leads on to way
 I doubted if I should ever come back.
 I shall be telling this with a sigh
 Somewhere ages and ages hence:
 Two roads diverged in a wood, and I,
 I took the one less travelled by,
 And that has made all the difference.

- Robert Frost

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 14.1

Q.1 Do you think it was easy for the poet to choose between the two roads?

Now, read the first stanza once again

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
 And sorry I could not travel both
 And be one traveller, long I stood
 And looked down one as far as I could
 To where it bent in the undergrowth;

INTEXT QUESTIONS 14.2

Answer the following questions:

1. Why does the poet call the wood 'yellow wood'?
2. Who is the traveller? Why does he feel sorry?
3. Why does the poet look down the road as far as he can see?
4. Choose the correct option to explain the phrase 'bent in the undergrowth'.

The phrase means that

- (i) there were bushes
- (ii) one couldn't see beyond a point
- (iii) the road was grassy and full of leaves.

Let's read further.

Then took the other, as just as fair,
 And having perhaps the better claim,
 Because it was grassy and wanted wear,
 Though as for that the passing there
 Had worn them really about the same.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 14.3

1. Does the poet take the road that he was looking at in the first stanza?
2. Why does the other road have better claim?

Now, read the next stanza.

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black,
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 14.4

1. Pick out the lines which say that both the roads looked similar that morning?
2. 'Way leads on to way' means –
 - (i) there are many roads ahead.
 - (ii) it is an uphill road.
 - (iii) one road joins another road ahead.

We will read the last stanza of the poem, now.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I –
I took the one less travelled by,
And that has made all the difference.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 14.5

1. In the first stanza, the poet is talking of the present time when he has to choose one of the two roads. What time is he thinking of in the last stanza? Pick out the words in support of your answer.
2. What has made all the difference?
3. What does 'that' refer to?

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. What do the two roads stand for in the poem?
2. Does the poem relate to some situations in your life when it was not easy for you to take a decision?

Notes

3. You are about to complete school. You now have to decide on a career and accordingly the subjects you have to take in college. How would you take this decision? Here are a few suggestions you might like to consider.
- Subject of your interest

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages; and
- answer questions on those passages.

15.1 SECTION I

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

An important solid waste which is noteworthy is biomedical waste. This waste includes anatomical waste, syringes, gauze, absorbents, glass, etc. The huge dumps of biomedical wastes disposed of by hospitals and clinics cause serious health problems. It is not uncommon that in some places, these biochemical wastes rot either in front of clinics or in street corners. Rag-pickers, mostly children, pick up these wastes by hand and are vulnerable to attack by the hepatitis virus (jaundice-causing virus) and other dangerous viruses. Ordinances have been promulgated not to dump the waste and for safe transportation in special containers, and subsequent incineration in Australia and other countries.

Why are solid wastes cause for such serious concern? The dumping of solid wastes, spoils the beauty of cities and towns and causes health problems.

The garbage mountains become breeding grounds for disease-carrying vectors such as flies, mosquitoes, rats and cockroaches. Reports indicate that about 8,00,000 flies can be produced in one cubic metre of garbage. The flies, which carry pathogenic organisms, cause diseases such as dysentery, diarrhoea, etc. Rats, which are carriers of insects and other bio-organisms are responsible for causing plague as was recently witnessed in Surat in 1994. It is reported that about 25 human diseases are associated with the solid wastes. Accumulation of litter refuse and junk poses fire hazards and may lead to accidents too.

The accumulation of solid waste is a mounting problem with no easy solution in sight. Unlike other types of pollution, preventive measures cannot be adopted in this case. Several solutions to the disposal problem have been proposed. The present mode of management is to collect the refuse from various parts of the city, transport it to a remote place, where it is incinerated or composted or simply dumped again. The most easy solution is to recycle or reuse the waste. This solves the disposal of wastes and also yields revenue besides compensating for the expenditure incurred on its collection and transportation.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 15.1

1. Tick True (T) or False (F) against the following statements
 - a) Nearly 25 human diseases are caused by accumulating garbage.
 - b) Preventive steps can be taken to reduce accumulating garbage.
 - c) Recycling and reusing of garbage can bring revenue.
 - d) Flies are carriers of bio-organisms which cause plague.
2. Fill in the blanks in the following sentences using the information given in the passage:
 - a) Heaps of garbage can cause the breeding of _____.
 - b) One cubic metre of garbage can have _____ flies.
 - c) Diseases like _____ are caused by pathogenic organisms.
 - d) Fire hazard leading to accidents can be due to _____.
3.
 - a) What does bio-medical waste consist of?
 - b) Who is more likely to be affected by the bio-medical waste?
 - c) A suitable title for the passage can be:
 - 1) Garbage
 - 2) Garbage mountains-a nuisance.
 - 3) Protection from medical waste.
 - 4) Pathogenic organisms.

4. There is a serious concern about solid wastes because: (Tick all the correct answers)
- They cause a lot of expenditure.
 - They spoil the beauty of the city.
 - They are a threat to health.
 - They bring revenue.

15.2 SECTION II

Read the following views on the television and answer the questions that follow:

Television Doing More Harm than Good

No one remembers what life was like before the T.V. came. Today people do not read books, they do not visit friends, they don't listen to music or have hobbies. Everyone rushes home and quickly eats his meals to be ready for the T.V. programmes. The children are the worst sufferers. They forget their food, leave their homework undone, and even miss their sleep. They watch violence on the screen and are deeply affected by it. T.V. makes us lazy and cuts us off from the world of reality. We become idiots and lose our ability to think. I strongly recommend that the T.V. should be banned in India.

Television Is Doing More Good than Harm

T.V. is one of the wonders of the modern world. It is not an idiot box. It is a magic carpet. It takes us to all corners of the world. Many interesting educational films are telecast. It unites the people of the world. How many of you can travel to Paris or New York or London every day? Of course some programmes are bad. But nobody forces you to watch them. Why don't you switch off your T.V. sets? I request you to watch the good programmes and educate yourselves. Everyone must have a T.V. It brings the whole world together.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 15.2

- Write True or False.
 - Today people do not read books because they like to watch Television more.
 - People visit friends to watch Television.

Notes

- c) The worst sufferers are children.

I MUST KNOW THE TRUTH

A dance by Aradhana is the inaugural item of the annual dance show of a music school. Aradhana is a good dancer and she should be happy and excited. But she is upset. Let's find out the reason.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to

- read and understand a story in English;
- use relative clauses;
- use phrasal verbs;
- express your preferences in speech; and
- edit your own writing.

16.1 SECTION I

Shortly before the annual dance show of the Kamala Devi School of Dance and Music commenced, I slipped backstage once more and hugged her. “See what you’ve done,” wailed my sister. “You’ve crushed the flowers in my hair.” She patted her hair back into place and arranged the pleats of her Bharatnatyam dress.

“Oh! You look great,” I told her. “In fact you look very beautiful.” My sister did not believe me. She turned towards the mirror and stared at herself. Our eyes met.

“You are beautiful,” whispered my sister, “even without the flowers, ornaments and all this,” and she brushed down her silken dress. “You are so.....”.

Notes

I know what she was going to say— “Fair, Fair.” I felt anger rise inside me. Fair! As if that was all that mattered, mattered most, more than a good figure, a chiselled face, more than the beauty that lies within. I knew I wasn’t as beautiful as she was, with her fine, regular features, and I wasn’t even half as talented as her. How did it matter if she was darker than me?

“Look,” I said, “You are great and beautiful; you’ll prove it today.”

Aradhana smiled and said, “You better leave now Simmi, keep fingers crossed.”

As I turned to leave I saw Dadima and Aunt Pramela making their way through the crowd of excited girls.

“Aunt Pramela”, my sister rolled up her eyes in mock horror, “If it isn’t a bad omen!” “Come on, Aradhana,” I chuckled, “Don’t be mean. Smile, smile Bharatnatyam style. That shouldn’t be difficult for you.”

My grandmother who suffered from rheumatism waddled towards my sister. My mother appeared from behind her and said in her ambassador voice, “Look who are here to wish you, Aradhana.” She gave sister one of her best smiles. My mother looks ten years younger when she smiles. She adjusted Aradhana’s blouse and patted her on the shoulders, “Grandfather has come too. He’s sitting in the front row. And so has your Father, — ah, how forgetful of me.” She held my sister at arm’s length and said gently. “We are so proud of you Aradhana, my dear, that you have been selected to inaugurate the Annual Show of your school. Father and I have something very special for you on this important event. We wanted to give it to you on your eighteenth birthday next month, but we thought today was a more appropriate occasion. We want you to wear it today.” She turned to me and said, “Run Simmi, get it from father!”

“What mummy?” I asked, puzzled. “What have you brought for Aradhana?”

“Never mind,” my mother sighed, “I’ll get it myself. You help grandmother and aunt Pramela back to their seats.”

“Move back,” protested Grandma, “I haven’t even had time to look at Aradhana properly. I haven’t exchanged a single word with her. Let me look at you child.” She regarded my sister tenderly, “You look wonderful. And what a good figure you have. Don’t neglect it, dear, like I did.”

“No,” Aradhana smiled politely.

“You are a real young lady, that’s what you are. Soon we’ll have to start looking for a suitable match for you.”

Notes

“Dadima please,” Aradhana threw an embarrassed glance around her.

“Time is flying,” sighed Grandma and turning to aunt Pramela she asked, “isn’t it, Pramela?” “It certainly is,” my aunt nodded. “It seems it was just yesterday when Sunita brought her home. How skinny she was, skinny and dark.”

I gasped and stared aghast at Aunt Pramela. How on earth could she say such hurting words in front of Aradhana? Didn’t she know how touchy she was about dark complexion? And why did she have to hang on it today of all days?

“Hush, Pramela,” my grandmother’s voice had an edge now. “Do keep quiet.” Then seizing aunt Pramela’s elbow she pulled her away, whispering fiercely all the time.

I looked at Aradhana. The bruised look in her eyes hurt me immensely. I groped for her hand and squeezed it. “Forget her she’s mad and mean and miserable.” My sister gave a small laugh which sounded more like a cry.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 16.1

1. Who hugged the dancer? (Put a tick mark against the correct answer).

5. "She is mean, mad and miserable"?
- i) Who was Simmi referring to?
 - ii) What was the 'mean' thing she had said?
 - iii) Do you agree with Sunita?

16.2 SECTION II

Aradhana is shocked and shattered. She asks her grandmother to tell her the truth. What is it that Aradhana wants to know? Why does her grandmother not tell the truth? Who does she send for?

I tried to pull her away from the mirror, away from grandma and Aunt Pramela, whose voice rose aggressively, "Of course she needs to know."

"Come, Aradhana, ignore her."

"I've told Sunita time and again," My aunt's voice was low, but not low enough for us not to catch each and every syllable she uttered. "I told her the other day too. An adopted child must know the truth. She has to tell Aradhana sooner or later. She must know."

Adopted child! Aradhana an adopted child? I stared at her. Our eyes locked. I held out a hand that didn't quite reach Aradhana. Like Aunt Pramela's poisoned words, my arm hung suspended in mid-air. I feel a sickening wave pull me off the ground from somewhere, from a cloud of mist and fog, my grandmother's voice reached me.

"Let Sunita tell her, it doesn't have to be you. And now not another word, Pramela, I forbid you to utter another word."

"It's too late now," I wanted to scream. "Too late! Look what you've done". But I couldn't struggle out of the fog that enveloped me, imprisoned me.

"Aradhana."

She didn't hear me. She stood in frozen despair, screaming a great silent scream, full of pain.

"Aradhana, Aradhana," I shook her by the shoulders. "Dadi, Dadima" I cried helplessly. "Come quickly."

Grandmother came, wobbling on heavy feet. “What’s the matter?” She asked. “What’s the matter,” she repeated, alarmed. “Aradhana for heavens sake. Speak up. Speak up.”

But the silent scream continued although her lips were closed. My grandmother flapped around her. Aunt Pramela did too. Mrs. Kothari, the Principal and the students of the Dance School wanted to know what was wrong.

With a hopeless cry. I flung my arms around Aradhana’s neck and wept. “It’s not true, Aradhana. It is not true.” I sobbed Aradhana freed herself from my embrace. She stared at Aunt Pramela and she asked Dadima. “Is it true, is it?”

“Is what true, child?” my grandmother faltered, her eyes full of misery. “Is what true?”

“What,” Aunt Pramela said, “I want to hear the truth.”

“I must know the truth,” she screamed, “I must.”

“The truth, Grandmother.”

“All right, all right,” turning to me she whispered urgently, “Get your mother child, get her. Quickly.”

I shouldered my way through the crowd of silent onlookers. When I reached the door, I heard my sister’s voice, torn with grief, “Leave me alone. Leave me alone all of you. Oh, why don’t you leave me alone?”

INTEXT QUESTIONS 16.2

1. What words of Aunt Pramela’s hurt Aradhana the most? (Put a tick mark against the correct answer)
 - i) that she as a baby was skinny and dark
 - ii) that Aradhana was an adopted child
 - iii) that Sunita, her sister, had made a mistake
 - iv) that Sunita should have told Aradhana the truth.

Notes

Notes

2. Who according to Aradhana's grandmother should tell her truth?
3. How did Aradhana learn the truth?
4. Did it shatter her completely?
5. Why did grandmother ask Simmi to fetch her mother?

16.3 SECTION III

What makes a mother love her child? Does she love her child because she gives birth to it or because she cares for it – that is, shares the child's joys and sorrows over the years? What does Aradhana's mother believe?

Within seconds I returned with my mother to the make up room. But Aradhana was not there. "Where is she?" asked my mother. "What happened?"

Aunt Pramela's eyes were hard. "She left through this door, Sunita. And it's your fault. You should have told that child earlier..." "Pramela," said my mother in a voice that made my flesh creep, "What don't you mind your own business? For heaven's sake, how could you tell her now!"

Pulling me along she shot past Aunt Pramela through the door and down into the backyard. And there we stood on the pebbled ground, scanning the empty yard helplessly.

"Aradhana," called my mother softly.

There was no answer.

"Aradhana," she cried beseechingly, "do you hear me?" "Aradhana darling, answer me," this time more desperately.

The soft wind carried her voice away but brought no response.

"Search for her at the back," my mother turned, "I'll check the car park."

I turned and started walking in a daze, when suddenly I heard a muffled cry followed by another cry, fierce, full of hate. I knew then that my mother had found her.

They stood under a peepal tree, facing each other My sister, tall, broad shouldered, was looking down at my mother. Aradhana pulled out the flowers from her hair. She cried, "You deceived me, you and Papa. All of you. I hate you. I hate all of you, everybody, everything."

I ran towards her. "No Aradhana," I pleaded, "Don't say that, please don't say that."

She didn't see me nor did she hear me. Her shoulders trembled as she turned away from both Mother and me.

"Aradhana," my mother said quietly, "we love you, my child, and believe me we will always love you. You are our child. For almost eighteen years I have cared for you. I have laughed with you and I have cried for you. I have given you eighteen years of my life. Don't you think that counts more than being carried nine months inside my womb? Tell me, dear."

There was no answer.

"Aradhana," entreated my mother softly, "answer me. I don't know, I don't know," sobbed my sister. She buried her face in her hands and all I could hear was the smothered echo or her baffled cry, "I don't know."

"But I know," said my mother quietly, "and Papa and Simmi know." I nodded vigorously.

"Look, darling, look at this necklace. Papa and I bought it for you. We want you to wear it today. This is just one way of telling you how much we love you, how much we care."

My sister turned and fixed her gaze on the small box in my mother's extended hand. She didn't move. My mother took out the delicate necklace from the box and pressed it into sister's hand. "Don't you feel my love for you, Aradhana? Can't you feel it?"

My sister whimpered pitifully.

"Ask yourself," said my mother, "and if you are the daughter I know, the daughter I love, you will come back into the hall and get on to that stage and dance. "Because," she asserted firmly, "nothing has changed today, nothing at all." Mother held her for a minute and then turned and left.

"Mummy," I cried, "you can't leave her alone. Help her please."

Mother didn't look at me as she answered in a dead voice, "I can't help her more than I have Simmi. Nobody can. She has to herself see the truth. And the sooner she does it, the better it is." She fell silent. But from the way she held up her head, I knew she was crying!

INTEXT QUESTIONS 16.3

16.4 SECTION IV

The audience is waiting for Aradhana to dance — but there is no Aradhana on the stage. Where is she? Is she hiding? Is she sad, hurt or angry? Does she dance?

"Did she like the necklace?" asked my father as we slipped back into our seats. My mother nodded. The light dimmed and the announcer asked Shrimati Kamla Devi to address the audience. And then, it was time for Aradhana. My father pressed my hand and smiled at me. I did not look up. "What's wrong?" he suddenly asked me. "Is something the matter?"

"Nothing," I managed to say, "nothing."

I stared at the empty stage. To the left a tabla player idly tapped his instrument.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the voice over the loud-speaker. "Our first dance is the Pushpanjali by Aradhana Narain. Aradhana Narain, please."

The "please" didn't sound very pleasant.

The stage remained empty.

A restless murmur ran through the audience. "Sunita, what is the matter?" My father tried to catch my mother's eye.

My mother shook her head. Her shoulders drooped. The seat seemed to swallow her. For the third time the announcer's voice rang out, impatient and almost threatening. "Aradhana Narain. Aradhana Narain."

Silence.

A silence that weighed down on me with suffocating force.

Just then, the distant sound of ghungrus, the sound of a rhythmical tap, tap, tap.

A weak applause rose from the audience. The sound of ghungrus grew louder.

Tap, tap, tap. A tall, slim figure appeared, in a turquoise dress falling in neat folds. My sister! Aradhana! Her hair drawn back in a neat plait. The kajal around her large almond-shaped eyes formed a neat line. She folded her hands over her breast, almost touching the small gold pendant of her delicate necklace. Her face was tense and pale but slowly she relaxed as she fell into a fast combination of different mudras, her slender fingers forming beautiful patterns and designs.

She danced, not for her teacher, not for the audience. She danced for one person only, who followed every single movement of hers with bright, burning eyes; our mother.

VOCABULARY ENRICHMENT

1. There are many words in English which convey the same meaning. Given below are some phrasal verbs. Use them in place of the underlined words.

Phrasal verbs: looked through, looked into, looked after, looked at, looked for

- i) The dancer glanced at her Grandmother and smiled
- ii) Sunita searched for her daughter in the car park but could not find her.
- iii) The grandmother took care of the children while their mother was away.
- iv) Last month a committee examined the problem of pollution in our city and made some recommendations.
- v) She read through her notes before the examination.

A suggestion: Use more phrasal verbs in your speech and writing.

2. Fill in the blanks by using the opposite (antonym) of the words underlined in each sentence.

Example: The hall was _____ but the stage was empty.

The hall was full but the stage was empty.

- i) The dancer was tall and slim but her grandmother was short and _____.
- ii) Words can _____ but words can also soothe.
- iii) The candidates forgot to bring their pens but they _____ to bring their identity cards.
- iv) The cricketers came to the field early but their umpire was _____.
- v) There was nothing in the house: _____ had been taken away by the thieves.

GRAMMAR

Relative Clauses

Let us study the patterns and function of Relative Clauses. Read these sentences:

- (i) She danced for one person only who followed every single movement of hers. My Grandmother, who suffered from rheumatism, waddled towards us.
- (ii) My sister gave a small laugh, which sounded more like a sob. I couldn't struggle out of the fog that enveloped me.

Notes

The pattern of relative clauses

In the sentences given above parts which begin with linkers like who, which/that are called relative clauses as they are related to their antecedent in the main clauses. In the first two sentences who refers back to 'person' and 'grandmother'. (These two words are the antecedents). In the second set which and that refer back to 'laugh' and 'fog' respectively.

The function of relative clauses

They provide information which makes the meaning clear and precise. In the first sentence, for example 'She danced for one person only who followed every single movement of hers', the relative clause 'who.....movement' provides a wealth of information about the 'person'. Similarly in the third sentence, my sister gave a small laugh which sounded more like a sob the relative clause 'which sob' further clarifies the meaning of 'laugh' vividly.

The linker who is used for people while that/which is used for things.

They introduce economy and clarity in speech and writing. For example.

'I couldn't struggle out of the fog. The fog enveloped me' — these two sentences are grammatically correct but sound clumsy. Relative clauses join sentences together and the result is a neat, concise statement.

I couldn't struggle out of the fog that enveloped me.

Sometimes the use of who/which/that as linkers becomes optional, e.g. when the linkers are the object of the clause.

'This is dress that/which Aradhana wore at the concert'. Or 'This is the dress Aradhana wore at the concert.'

ACTIVITIES

Now we know a lot about relative clauses. Let's use them in sentences.

I. Complete these sentences using who, which/that wherever necessary.

1. English is a language _____ is spoken all over the world.
2. Aradhana's parents gave her the gold chain _____ she wore at the dance performance.
3. Rice is a cereal _____ is grown in tropical countries.
4. I like young people _____ read a lot.

Notes

5. Have you tasted the sweets _____ I made yesterday?
6. The bridge _____ was built last year has developed cracks.

II. Join the following sentences using relative clause. Make changes where necessary.

Example: I bought a scooter last week. Have you seen it?

Have you seen the scooter which I bought last week?

1. I know a man. He can speak fourteen languages.
2. You lent me a transistor. I have cleaned it.
3. Those are the engineers. They repaired the bridge near Varanasi.
4. I was waiting for an electrician. He did not turn up.
5. Was it your mother? She started a dispensary in this village.

III. Complete this passage by selecting suitable clauses given in the box below:

Sir Jagdish Chandra Bose was a great scientist _____. The other scientists _____ laughed at him. Then he designed and built an instrument _____. This instrument also showed _____. "Your instrument is a wonderful thing," said the scientists _____.

"What is it called?" they asked. "A crescograph," replied Sir Jagdish Chandra Bose.

With this invention Sir Jagdish Chandra Bose made a name for himself and his country in the scientific world.

- who attended the Paris Congress of Science in 1900.
- that plants have hearts and are capable of feeling.
- who believed that plants could become tired, depressed or happy.
- which recorded the growth of plants.
- who heard him.

REFERENCE TASK

Consult the dictionary and find out

- (i) the meaning of the following phrasal verbs.
- (ii) Use them in the sentences given below.

fall back on, make out, to keep up with, look after, put off

1. I could not _____ what he was trying to say.
2. The couple is always trying _____ their neighbour's status.

3. He was _____ by his boss's rudeness.
4. If one has some savings, one can _____ them in times of need.
5. Children are expected to _____ their parents in their old age.

LET'S WRITE

The earlier unit on editing your own writing familiarized you with what it means to edit your own writing. You have also learnt why editing is important. Now you will learn how to edit your own writing. Let us look at some examples which clarify what needs to be done during the editing process.

In the exercise given below only one type of error can be noticed, that is mistakes of subject-verb agreement. See if you can find the slips and correct them. There are four of them.

Example 1

My father giving me some money yesterday. He always gave some money whenever he is in a happy mood; but the trouble are, his happy mood does not last very long. I is waiting for his next happy mood now.

The words you should use should be gave, gives, is, am, in that order instead of giving, gave, are and is.

Example 2

A common problem of writing, especially of narrative writing, relates to the sequence of sentences. One aspect of editing is to put the sentences in their proper order. The example given below concerns the error of sequencing.

Once a magician came to a small city to perform his magic show. The magician offered to turn a copper coin into a gold one. Because he was a master of his art, people came from far and wide to see him perform. The farmer examined the coin and put it in his pocket. He bought himself a front-row ticket to be able to see everything the magician did from as close as possible. The farmer sitting in the front row eagerly gave him a copper coin. Taken aback the magician asked the farmer to return the coin so that he could show some more tricks with it. The magician turned the coin into a gold one and gave it to the farmer to look at. A farmer, who had heard a lot about the magician, also came from a neighbouring village. The farmer refused saying he could not risk it being turned back to copper and coolly walked out of the hall.

The above narration does not make much sense because of the wrong order of sentences much sense. Now let us see what the narrative would look like with the sentences in their proper sequence.

INDIA-HER PAST AND FUTURE

Do thoughts about India fill Nehru's mind? Read the speech to find out his thoughts about India's past, present and future.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- read and understand a Speech in English;
- use antonyms;
- use the correct form of verbs;
- write summaries; and
- give directions..

17.1 SECTION I

To endeavour to understand and describe the India of today would be the task of a brave man. To describe tomorrow's India would verge on rashness. What is India? That is a question which has come back again and again to my mind. The early beginnings of our history filled me with wonder. It was the past of a virile and vigorous race with a questioning spirit and an urge for free inquiry, and even in its earliest known period giving evidence of a mature and tolerant civilization. Accepting life and its joys and burdens, it was ever searching for the ultimate and the universal.

Notes

Gradually deterioration set in. Thought lost its freshness and became stale and the vitality and exuberance of youth gave place to crabbed age. Instead of spirit of adventure there came lifeless routine and the broad and exciting vision of the world was cabined and confined and lost in caste divisions, narrow social customs and ceremonials. Even so, India was vital enough to absorb the mass of people that flowed into her mighty ocean of humanity and she never quite forgot the thoughts that had stirred in the days of her youthful vigour.

Subsequently, India was powerfully influenced by the coming of Islam and Muslim invasions. Western colonial powers followed, bringing a new type of domination and a new colonialism and, at the same time, the impact of fresh ideas and the industrial civilization that was growing up in Europe. This period culminated after a long struggle, in independence and now we face the future with all this burden of the past upon us and the confused dreams and stirrings of the future that we seek to build.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 17.1

1. Read the section to answer the question briefly:
 - a) What aspects of ancient India fill Nehru with pride and wonder? List four such aspects.
 - b) Did the situation in India change for the better or worse? Give three reasons to support your answer.
 - c) What saved India from complete deterioration? Give two reasons.
 - d) What negative effect have Western invasion had on our country? Did it have any positive effect too? If so, what?

17.2 SECTION II

Today, we are confused. Should we follow the lead given by the West and forget our past? Or, should we try to revive the past glory of India? Gandhi showed us the right path, says Nehru.

In the tumult and confusion of our time, we stand facing both ways, forward to the future and backwards to the past, being pulled in both directions. How can we resolve this conflict and evolve a structure for living which fulfils our material needs and at the same time, sustains our mind and spirit? What new ideals or old ideals, varied and adapted to the new world, can we place before our people, and how can we galvanize the people into wakefulness and action?

Notes

Change is essential but continuity is also necessary. The future has to be built on the foundations laid in the past and in the present. To deny the past and break with it completely is to uproot ourselves and sapless, dry up. It was the virtue of Gandhiji to keep his feet firmly planted in the rich traditions of our race and our soil and, at the same time, to function on the revolutionary plane. Above all, he laid stress on truth and peaceful means. Thus he built on old foundations, and at the same time, oriented the structure towards the future.

Living is a continual adjustment to changing conditions. The rapidity of technological change in the last half-century has made the necessity of social change greater than ever, and there is a continual maladjustment. The advance of science and technology makes it definitely possible to solve most of the economic problems of the world and, in particular, to provide the primary necessities of life to everyone all over the world. The methods adopted will have to depend upon the background and cultural development of a country or a community.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 17.2

1. Say whether the following statements are True or False:
 - a) Nehru is making this speech in a period of stability many years after India won her independence.
 - b) There is confusion and worry in Nehru's mind about the best way forward.
 - c) Nehru is against change.
 - d) Nehru is a man of science and has faith in the powers of technology.
 - e) Nehru does not want a complete break with the rich traditions of the past.
2. Answer the following questions briefly
 - a) As the Prime Minister of the country, what are the major tasks that Nehru faces?
 - b) What makes Nehru's task difficult?
 - c) What model of change does Gandhiji provide? What are its advantages?
 - d) Is Nehru for continuity and/or change? Pick out words and phrases from the text in support of your answer.
 - e) What role does Nehru give to science and technology?

Notes

17.3 SECTION III

Nehru is both pleased and disappointed with modern India. What pleases him and what are his fears? Let us find out.

India today presents a very mixed picture of hope and anguish of remarkable advances and at the same time of inertia; of a new spirit and also the dead hand of the past and of privileges; of an overall and growing unity and many disruptive tendencies. Withal there is a great vitality and ferment in people's minds and activities.

It is a remarkable thing that a country and a people rooted in this remote past, who have shown so much resistance to change in the past, should now be marching forward rapidly and with resolute steps.

What will emerge from the labour and the tumults of the present generation? I cannot say what tomorrow's India will be like, I can only express my hope and wishes. I want India to advance on the material plane – to fulfil her Five Year Plans to raise the standard of living of her vast population: I want the narrow conflicts of today in the name of religion or caste, language or province to cease, and a classless and casteless society to be built up where every individual has full opportunity to grow according to his worth and ability. In particular, I hope that the curse of caste will be ended for there is neither democracy nor socialism on the basis of caste.

-A speech by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru

 ii) How many plays Tagore wrote?
 iii) When I got home last night, I found someone broke into the flat.
 iv) Where have you been last evening?
 v) Premchand has written many short stories.

LET'S WRITE

Making a Summary

You have learnt to make notes in earlier lessons. In this lesson, we'll discuss how you can develop notes into a summary for brief reports and presentations.

What is a summary?

Summary is the shortened form of a text. It requires selections of what is important and rejections of what is not. For making a summary it is essential to make notes. You can make notes on a paper or in your mind. Thus, note-making is the first stage of making a summary. But once the summary is made, notes are irrelevant. They could be put aside or discarded as rough work for summary. In a summary, the important points are presented in a logical order in the form of a paragraph or paragraphs. The facts are stated in a straight-forward, direct style – without any ornamentation or examples.

Let us now read the passage given below:

People in the present day civilization have become highly materialistic. Money is the only god they know. Consequently, all their efforts, and most of their waking hours, go into earning money and still more money. The life of a rich businessman, specially in the developed countries is extremely busy. Thousands have to be converted into lakhs and lakhs into crores. There is no end and no respite for him. Alongwith money come the demands of their social life. To keep abreast of the times, they have to throw and attend big parties, meeting powerful and influential people to serve their business ends.

One unfortunate result of their excessively busy and fast life is the total neglect of their children. The rich can provide their children with all that money can buy: rich food; expensive clothes, cars and every other imaginable comfort and luxury. But they simply cannot give them what they need most—parental care and affection on a personal level for which there is no substitute in the whole world. These children who are brought up almost entirely by hired attendants develop a twisted personality. Their rich, busy and well-bred parents are one day shocked to find that their children have developed some of the traits of their own attendants which are, to say the least, considerably less than well-bred.

If you haven't understood the passage, read it again once or twice and then note down important points.

1. people highly materialistic in present day civilization.
2. all time and efforts go into earning money.
3. businessmen, esp. busy.
 - (i) no rest - respite
4. demands of social life
 - (i) giving and attending parties
 - (ii) meeting influential people.
5. Results
 - (i) neglect of their children
 - (ii) luxuries provided but parental love & care not given
 - (iii) children brought up by hired attendants
 - (iv) developing their traits (attendants)
 - (v) develop a twisted personality.

We can, now, develop these points into a summary.

Summary

People are highly materialistic in the present day civilization. They use all their time and effort in earning more and more money without any rest or respite. The life of businessmen, especially in developed countries is very busy. Along with money, come the demands of their social life. They have to participate in parties to keep contacts with influential and powerful people.

Being excessively busy, they neglect their children. They provide them with all possible luxuries and comforts but they cannot give them parental love and care. The children, brought up entirely by hired attendants, develop the less well-bred traits of their attendants. They develop a twisted personality.

Notes

Exercise

Read the passage given below. Identify the main ideas and make a summary. Give it a suitable title also.

There are several distinct dimensions in which our youth must equip itself. The first is the physical. Building a great democracy and defending it from aggressors requires a young generation that is physically strong, with muscles of iron and nerves of steel and for this it must equip itself by undertaking physical training and developing physical fitness to the maximum extent possible.

The second dimension is the intellectual. We live in a highly competitive age of science and technology and can no longer afford the luxury of mediocrity if we are to forge ahead. Therefore every young man and woman studying in schools, colleges and universities must aim at academic ability of the highest order.

The third is the dimension of patriotism. I am concerned here not so much with the routine meaning of this term as with that deeper patriotism which transcends all pettiness and creates in our youth a deep urge for national unity and progress.

NIGHT OF THE SCORPION

Read the poem once. It is about the night when the poet's mother is bitten by a scorpion.

I remember the night my mother
Was stung by a scorpion. Ten hours
Of steady rain had driven him
To crawl beneath a sack of rice.
Parting with his poison – flash
Of diabolic tail in the dark room –
He risked the rain again.
The peasants came like swarms of flies
And buzzed the Name of God a hundred
Time to paralyse the Evil one.
With candles and with lanterns
Throwing giant scorpion shadows
On the mud-baked walls
They searched for him; he was not found.
They clicked their tongues.
With every movement that the scorpion made his poison moved in Mother's blood they said.
May your suffering decrease the misfortunes of your next birth, they said.
May the sum of evil balanced in this unreal world against the sum of good become diminished by your pain.

Notes

May the poison purify your flesh
 Of desire, and your spirit of ambition,
 They said, and they sat around
 On the floor with my mother in the center,
 The peace of understanding on each face.
 More candles, more lanterns, more neighbours more insects, and the endless rain.
 My mother twisted through and through groaning on a mat
 My father, sceptic, rationalist, trying every curse and blessing,
 powder, mixture, herb and hybrid.
 He even poured a little paraffin upon the bitten toe and put a match to it.
 I watched the flame feeding on my mother
 I watched the holy man perform his rites to tame the poison with an incantation.
 After twenty hours
 it lost its sting.
 My mother only said
 Thank god the scorpion picked on me and spared my children.

- Nissim Ezekiel

INTEXT QUESTIONS 18.1

Can you answer the following questions?

1. Was it a dark night?
2. Had it been raining for long?

Let us, now, read the following lines once again.

I remember the night my mother
 Was stung by a scorpion. Ten hours
 Of steady rain had driven him
 To crawl beneath a sack of rice.
 Parting with his poison – flash
 Of diabolic tail in the dark room (-)
 He risked the rain again.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 18.2

2. Where did the scorpion crawl?
3. Choose the correct option to complete the following sentence.
The word 'flash' means —
(i) a cowardly action
(ii) a quick and sudden action
(iii) a wicked action
4. Why does he call the tail 'diabolic'?

Let us read further

The peasants came like swarms of flies
And buzzed the Name of God a hundred
Time to paralyse the Evil one.
With candles and with lanterns
Throwing giant scorpion shadows
On the mud-baked walls
They searched for him; he was not found
They clicked their tongues.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 18.3

1. Who came into the house?
2. What is the scorpion referred to in the third line?
3. Why did the peasants say the name of God a hundred times?

READING WITH UNDERSTANDINGOBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages and
- answer questions on those passages.

19.1 SECTION I

Read the passage and do the activities.

One stormy night many years ago, an elderly man and his wife entered the lobby of a small hotel in Philadelphia. Trying to get out of the rain, the couple approached the front desk hoping to get some shelter for the night.

“Could you possibly give us a room here?” the husband asked. The clerk, a friendly man with a winning smile, looked at the couple and explained that there were three conventions in town. “All of our rooms are taken,” the clerk said. “But I can’t send a nice couple like you out into the rain at one o’clock in the morning. Would you perhaps be willing to sleep in my room? It’s not exactly a suite, but it will be good enough to make you folks comfortable for the night.” When the couple declined, the young man pressed on. “Don’t worry about me. I’ll make out just fine,” he told them. So the couple agreed.

As he paid his bill the next morning, the elderly man said to the clerk, “You are the kind of manager who should be the boss of the best hotel in the United States. Maybe someday I’ll build one for you.” The clerk looked at them and smiled. The three of them had a good laugh. As they drove away, the elderly couple agreed that the helpful clerk was indeed exceptional, as finding people who are both friendly and helpful isn't easy.

Two years passed. The clerk had almost forgotten the incident when he received a letter from the old man. It recalled that stormy night and enclosed a round-trip ticket to New York, asking the young man to pay them a visit.

The old man met him in New York and led him to the corner of Fifth Avenue and 34th Street. He then pointed to a great new building there, a pale reddish stone, with turrets and watchtowers thrusting up to the sky. "That," said the older man, "is the hotel I have just built for you to manage." "You must be joking," the young man said. "I can assure you I am not," said the older man, a sly smile playing around his mouth.

The older man's name was William Waldorf-Aster, and that magnificent structure was the original Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The young clerk who became its first manager was George C. Boldt. This young clerk never foresaw the turn of events that would lead him to become the manager of one of the world's most glamorous hotels.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 19.1

1. Put a tick mark (✓) against the statements that are correct and a cross (×) against the ones that are wrong.
 - (i) On a moonlit night an elderly couple came to a small hotel in Philadelphia. ()

5. Using the theme of the story write a short paragraph on:
One Good Turn Deserves Another

19.2 SECTION II

Read the passage and do the activities:

We live in a wonderful world that is full of beauty and charm and adventure. There is no end to the adventures that we can have if only we seek them with our eyes open. Our own country is a little world in itself with an infinite variety and places for us to discover. I have travelled a great deal in this country and I have grown in years. And yet I have not seen many parts of the country we love so much and seek to serve. I wish I had more time so that I could visit the nooks and corners of India. I would like to go there in the company of bright young children whose minds are opening out with wonder and curiosity as they make new discoveries. I should like to go with them, not so much to the great cities of India as to the mountains and the forests and the great rivers and the old monuments, all of which tell us something of India's story. I would like them to discover for themselves that they can play about in the snow in some parts of India and also see other places where tropical forests flourish. Such a trip with children would be a voyage of discovery of the beautiful trees of our forests and hill sides and the flowers that grace the changing seasons and bring life and colour to us. We would watch the birds and try to recognize them and make friends with them. But the most exciting adventure would be to go to forests and see the wild animals, both the little ones and the big. Foolish people go there with a gun and kill them and thus put an end to something that was beautiful. It is far more interesting and amusing to wander about without a gun or any other weapon and to find that wild animals are not afraid and can be approached. Animals have keener instincts than man. If a man goes to them with murder in his heart, they are afraid of him and run away. But if he has any love for animals, they realize that he is a friend and do not mind him. If you are full of fear yourself, then the animal is afraid too, and might attack you in self-defence. The fearless person is seldom, if ever, attacked.

Perhaps that lesson might be applied to human beings also. If we meet other people in a friendly way, they also become friendly. But if we are afraid of them or if we show our dislike of them, then they behave in the same manner.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages and
- answer questions on those passages.

20.1 SECTION I

Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow:-

Eleven-year-old Mohammad Riyaz Ahmad laughs a lot, plays video games and attends tuition at home to resume his studies in Std. III in Prathmic Vidyalaya of Aminabad, Lucknow. But a year ago, the situation was different. Riyaz, who has been awarded the Sanjay Chopra Bravery Award was in hospital for more than three months. He lost one of his limbs, one arm and the wrist of the other arm while saving a four-year-old girl, Shazia who was standing on the railway track at Daaligaon Bridge, Lucknow, completely oblivious to a fast approaching train.

It happened on January 16, 2003. Riyaz heard the train whistle, he warned the girl's father to remove her from the track, but he, being hard of hearing and mentally challenged, did not pay heed to Riyaz's warning. Seeing the train almost upon her, Riyaz rushed to pull her back. He did but fell holding the girl as his leg got stuck between the lines, and also because, being a frail 10-year-old, he could not bear her weight. The girl also lost one of her limbs as the train ran over them. An eyewitness, Shakeel Ahmad of Gorakhpur, rushed them to King George Hospital in Lucknow. Riyaz's wounds have still not healed properly, but his spirits are high. He says he wants to resume his studies, aims to become a doctor, and loves to

Think about the following questions before you read this lesson _____

- why do we need education?
- what causes stress?
- how does one manage time so that one can do the right things at the right time?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short theme-based passages and
- answer questions on those passages.

21.1 SECTION I

Now read the lesson and see if your views match with the author's. First, why do we need education? What is its purpose?

Education as commonly understood by people means acquiring certain knowledge and skills in order to earn their living. But that is only one purpose of education. You may ask why? This is because humans are much more than just wage-earning machines. They are endowed with emotions and feelings which enrich their life. These emotions and feelings need to be developed so that they can develop into social beings, able to interact with fellow beings who are also members of that society of which they are a part. The process of socialization starts right from childhood and it is the purpose of education to facilitate this socialization and produce responsible and committed citizens who would be able to contribute to the progress of the community, society and the country at large. A country with such citizens becomes a great-nation, well able to hold its head high in the community of nations. It is thus that education serves a loftier purpose than being a mere means of earning one's living to lead a prosperous material life.

Education serves another important purpose by shaping one's personality so that one is able to face challenges of life. This is possible by promoting a sense of co-operation and co-existence, a feeling of love and brotherhood and an attitude of caring and sharing. This process starts right from home and gets strengthened when one receives education with a proper perspective and policy underlying it. As one grows older, one develops the capacity to appreciate the finer aspects of life than merely amassing material wealth. Thus a person becomes a good human being which, after all, is the purpose of education.

So, you see that education prepares every individual to lead a purposeful and meaningful life. However, it cannot be denied that the intellectual inputs equip an individual to earn his or her living. But it should not stop with that. It should teach us to cope with the stresses and strains of modern life and enable us to lead a full life.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 21.1

1. Answer the following questions:
 - a) What is the common view on the purpose of education?
 - b) Does the author agree with the common view on education?
 - c) What are the two purposes of education according to the author?
 - d) How does a country benefit from well educated individuals?
 - e) How does education help a person to face the challenges of life?
2. Given below are some groups of words. They are values which the author talks about. Find out words from the text which mean the same and write them in the blanks given
 - (a) working together _____
 - (b) living together peacefully _____

Notes

Notes

- (c) to be concerned _____
- (d) to have ideals in common _____
- (e) to hold something in esteem _____
- (f) being part of a fraternity _____

21.2 SECTION II

Let's read and find out the author's views on stress and how to manage stress.

Stress is nothing but mental tension or anxiety which is caused by the work at hand. This happens when one is not able to deal with that work. For example, a student who has no aptitude for a subject is compelled to take it up either because of parental pressure or because of pressure from peer groups or due to the perceived importance of the subject itself. When he or she finds it difficult to cope with it and wants a change the external pressures deny him or her such a change. This situation leads to stress. No work is done well when one's mind is under stress. This inability to do well leads to diffidence. Gradually this diffidence leads to a feeling of inferiority. Persons with such inferiority complex isolate themselves and succumb to stress. This leads to inefficiency, loss of interest and above all to a total breakdown—physical, mental, emotional and moral.

Therefore, the moment one notices that one is stressed, that is, one is not able to cope with work, studies, problems etc. the first step one should take is to find out the cause of the problem with a calm and cool mind. One should take a break and allocate time to analyse where one went wrong. If one is not able to do this on his or her own, one should not hesitate to get the help of someone who can help. One should be open-minded and honest about one's weaknesses and deficiencies. It is better to share a problem and find a solution to it than struggle without results and feel miserable.

To see that pressure or tension does not build up and haunt a person, one should programme one's work. One should take up a task which is within one's capacity and find out an easy way to accomplish one's goal. This can be achieved if one has a calm and balanced mind and lots of patience. One must, first complete the task which one finds comparatively easier to do. This will promote self-confidence. Development of self-confidence leads to an improved perspective. This enables one to deal with more difficult problems and solve them. One will then find that there is no problem without a solution. With this realization, stress will automatically vanish.

Another reason that causes stress in today's world is an urge to reach the top and be successful. This rat race is often prompted by greed and jealousy rather than by an estimation of one's own abilities. If ambition is not supported or complemented by suitable ability or capacity it leads to failure thus creating negative feelings and undesirable attitudes. When things do not happen as one wishes, anger takes over. An angry person cannot take right actions. Often actions taken in a fit of anger lead to clashes, quarrels and disputes which cause problems not only to the individual but to his family and friends also.

Change of work now and then makes one feel refreshed. It is here that hobbies play a very important role in shaping one's personality. A long stint of mental work should be followed by some physical work which will reduce the pressure on mind and improve one's mental efficiency. Listening to music which one likes, taking a long walk in congenial environment and pursuing a hobby of one's choice are some of the easier and simpler means to avoid the evil effects of stress.

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 21.2

1. Answer the following questions:
 - a) Give one reason why a student can suffer from stress.
 - b) What happens when a person is stressed? Give three points.
 - c) Mention three ways by which one can overcome stress.

 - (ii) interpret
 - (iii) dissect
- (d) 'Accomplish' in paragraph 3 means—
- (i) realize
 - (ii) perform
 - (iii) complete

21.3 SECTION III

We have so far seen how to manage stress. Let us now find out what the author suggests about doing the right things at the right time, that is managing time so that we are not stressed.

Removal of stress by itself will not lead to unqualified success unless there is efficient utilization of time at one's disposal. In an extremely competitive world, one who manages one's time efficiently scores over others who don't. We should understand that time is precious and valuable and we should be discreet in its use. So, making the best use of time available to us is known as time management. And how does one do it? Get into the habit of making a time plan. A time plan is an advance plan of all the activities to be performed in the allotted time. This is how you can prepare a time plan.

- List all activities to be performed at a certain time, e.g.:- in the morning – preparing breakfast, going to work etc.
- Underline all activities which need to be done at a definite time, e.g.:- reaching office on time or dropping a child at the bus stop.
- Make an estimate of the time required for various activities, e.g.: cooking – 40 minutes, studying – 1 hour etc.
- Arrange the activities in the sequence in which they need to be done.
- Keep in mind the schedule of other family members and make necessary adjustments as and when required.
- Once you have listed out your priorities write them down. This is your time plan.

Notes

However you should remember the following points while making your time plan-

- There should be enough time for rest and entertainment.
- The plan should be practical, feasible and realistic.

All great men who achieved greatness and glory were people who were aware of the value of time. Time was precious to them. When others were idling away and wasting their time, great men put it to good use to meet the challenges of life and achieve success. It follows therefore, that one should have a programme and a schedule for it so that the objectives are achieved. Such programmes should be in conformity with one's skills and mental and physical capacities. It is only then that one will be free from stress or tension.

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- understand short theme based passages and
- answer questions on those passages.

22.1 SECTION I

*T*he Banyan Tree, which is very well known, is a variety of fig tree. The name, Banyan, used in English, needs some explanation. The name seems to have been given originally by Europeans in the Persian Gulf to the tree under which Hindu members of the merchant class (Baniyas) used to assemble for worship or business, and gradually the name spread to other parts of India and Asia. For centuries, poets and writers in India, have sung and written about the Banyan Tree.

The Banyan tree seems to be common to the sub-Himalayan forests and the slopes of the hill ranges in Peninsular India. At present it is commonly seen, planted along many of the roads of India, near temples and shrines, and on open grounds near villages. Often the tree is the rallying point for the village, a kind of club-house where much of the social life and business of the community is carried out, and much of the gossip exchanged. Its cool shade affords welcome relief from the burning sun in the hotter parts of the country.

It is an enormous tree, 70 to 100 feet high, sending down roots from the branches, which enter the ground and form trunks, thus extending the growth of the tree indefinitely. These roots that come out of the branches are at first as slender as cotton threads, but once they become attached to the ground, they grow into mighty pillars that support the weight of the heaviest branches. The leaves are oval in shape, and smooth and shining.

The Banyan Tree is frequently planted along streets and roads. But it is in open places in the villages that it reaches its full glory. As the tree grows in size, the number of roots from the branches increase, and the spread of the tree becomes greater until a whole battalion can shelter under the shade of some of the older trees. There are some famous Banyan Trees in India – in the Royal Botanic Garden Sibpur Calcutta, for example, which is 3.6 metres around the trunk and the crown of roof of which covers 416 m.

An even larger one in Satara Maharashtra, is 483 m. in circumference.

22.2 SECTION II

All vertebrate or back-boned animal life in the world is divided into two classes, the warm-blooded animals and the cold-blooded. The former group includes those whose blood keeps a constant temperature and is little affected by the temperature of the surrounding air. The latter group includes fishes, frogs and reptiles whose blood temperature changes with the temperature of the surrounding atmosphere. The warm-blooded animals are further subdivided into Mammals (including human beings) which are covered with hair, bear live young and suckle them, and Birds, which are covered with feathers, lay eggs and as a rule make them hatch with the heat of their bodies.

Birds are the only feathered creatures in the world. At first sight it might seem that all birds are the same. They all fly about, build nests and lay eggs. A closer look will show that in fact birds life includes many forms which are very different from one another and which sometimes seem to bear very little relationship to one another after all. It includes the tiny humming bird which is not bigger than a man's thumb, and the ostrich which stands as high as a pony. It includes birds which can fly thousands of miles, and others like the penguins which cannot raise themselves off the ground. It includes birds which weave elaborate nests like the weaver birds, and other which lay their eggs straight on the ground without any preparation. It includes birds which require highly specialized foods, like vultures which will only eat dead animals, and still others like crows, which eat practically anything except metal. It includes birds like the domestic hen whose chicks start running about and scratching for themselves as soon as they are hatched, and others like parakeets and eagles whose chicks cannot leave their nests for several weeks. And finally, it includes birds which seem to be unable to live away from the company of man, and others which retreat and become extinct as soon as human beings come near the areas in which they live.

READING WITH UNDERSTANDING

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand short themes-based passages and
- answer questions on them.

23.1 SECTION I

Read the following case history of a man called Rajamani.

Rajamani is a young boy of 12 years. He comes from a village in Tamil Nadu. His father is dead. Rajamani discontinued his education after class 6 to help his mother in running a tea shop. He has two elder brothers and two elder sisters.

About six months ago, he developed an eye infection for which he sought medical attention. He was given several intramuscular injections. During the course of the treatment he developed an abscess at the injection site.

A couple of months later, he got a pimple on his nose which remained for several weeks and then developed into septicemia which spread to the rest of his face. Meanwhile he also began to get skin lesions on his legs, along with getting ill with T.B.

When he came for treatment to Chennai with his family he was referred to the skin department of the Government General Hospital. His blood was tested for HIV at the AIDS cell of the Madras Medical College, and found to be positive. This pointed to contaminated needles or syringes as the likely source of HIV infection for Rajamani.

He has not progressed to AIDS yet, but is being treated for the last two months for the Septicemia, skin lesion, and TB. He appears to be responding well to the treatment and will be discharged shortly.

This is a very sad case in point of infection through unsterilised needles and syringes which could have been easily avoided.

2. Find words used in the passage which mean similar to the following. Write those words/phrases

- a) tried to obtain (Para 2)
- b) a swollen and infected area (Para 2)
- c) damage to skin (Para 2, 4)
- d) dirtied (Para 4)

23.2 SECTION II

Finding alternative solutions has been a problem plaguing the medical community since HIV/AIDS was discovered. Let’s read and learn about some such solutions.

Notes

A theatre troupe in Seshego township near Petersburg, South Africa uses theatre to educate the public about HIV/AIDS. Phakama, which means 'Rise, stand up,' travels throughout the township, bringing its message to the local population and encouraging participation. This is one of the many ways AIDS education has diversified to reach a wider audience and help stop the epidemic spread of the disease. Other methods of prevention have been sought, because creating a vaccine or even providing treatment for a disease that is constantly mutating and becoming resistant to drugs may take many more years.

The United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization has chosen to take a different approach in the fight against AIDS by using education, not medicine to stop its spread. UNESCO's strategy for HIV/AIDS preventive education states that the impact of the disease on society could be reduced by battling complacency, advancing commitment and improving care. It has created a five-part strategy based on advocacy at all levels, customizing the message for various socio-economic groups, changing risk behaviour and vulnerability, caring for the infected and the affected, and coping with the institutional impact of AIDS on society.

The critical factor for a renewed and effective strategy for preventive education is massive, unflinching and unrelenting advocacy at all levels and support of political authorities at the highest national level, according to UNESCO.

To achieve this, audiences worldwide, starting with those most at risk, must be reached in culturally appropriate ways, and preventive education must be interconnected with the local way of life.

Uneven distribution of knowledge is the main factor in the uneven distribution of infection rates worldwide. Comprehension and appreciation of prevention depend on many social factors, such as age, gender, education, economic conditions and religious beliefs.

The message must be tailored for different groups in order to enable them to understand and pass on the message. UNESCO believes that by disseminating information to help people understand what AIDS does to the body, it can reduce misconceptions and lessen vulnerability to the disease. However, it is important not to have negative campaigns as these often lead to stigmatization and discrimination.

AIDS can be prevented if children and young people learn how the virus spreads and do not participate in risky behaviour. No institution has a greater ability to affect all aspects of a community than schools, as they can reach the age group between 10 to 25, where most new infections occur each year.

Caring for both the infected and the affected has become more important, as AIDS has a greater effect on the population worldwide.

AIDS could undermine all health services, educational institutions and public services, making it increasingly difficult to maintain government and stability because of the loss of human capital. As UNESCO stated, the critical task is to protect the core functions of the key social, economic and political institutions from the onslaught of HIV/AIDS. By using education to prevent AIDS rather than relying on medicine to treat it, UNESCO has placed the responsibility to Governments, the education systems and people themselves. Only through commitment can this strategy be given the opportunity to save lives and lessen the impact of AIDS on society.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

- understand short themes-based passages and
- answer questions on them.

24.1 SECTION I

On this International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, we celebrate the choice that millions of people around the world have made to live healthily, and we applaud the courage shown by those who have stopped using drugs. In doing so, we send a positive message to all people who use or might be tempted to use drugs: ‘Value yourself... make healthy choices.’

This day is also an occasion to highlight the fact that nearly 200 million people are still consuming illegal drugs. These drugs might have names that sound colourful or enticing, such as crack, pot, junk, crystal meth, and disco biscuits. But these are little more than tickets to a dead end. For those trapped by addiction, treatment is a way out, and the choice to seek treatment is not only courageous, but often life-saving. Those who have not ventured down the path of drug abuse should learn the lesson from those who have, and firmly choose not to.

Making healthy choices also means choosing a lifestyle that has positive effect on the body and mind, including, for example, participation in sports to improve health and well-being, teach the value of teamwork and discipline, and build self-confidence.

(Message by The Secretary General, UN on the occasion of the International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, 26th June, 2005)

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 24.1

1. Based on your understating of the message given above, answer the following questions.
 - a) What is the occasion for this message?
 - b) What message has been conveyed through this passage? To whom is the message addressed?
 - c) Why does the writer say that those who are not drug addicts should firmly choose not to fall victim to drug addiction?
 - d) To what healthy choices does the author refer?
 - e) What should people resolve on the occasion?
 - f) What does the author mean when he says, "Let us encourage all our fellow human beings to make personal choices to lead healthy lives?"
2. Which words in the message means similar to the following:
 - a) not allowed by law (Para 1) _____
 - b) to express praise/appreciation (Para 1)
 - c) falling victim to an evil design (Para 2) _____
 - d) taking step into danger knowingly (Para 2) _____

24.2 SECTION II

1. Drug addiction is a treatable disorder. Through treatment that is tailored to individual needs, patients can leave their condition and live normal, productive lives. Like people with diabetes or heart disease, people in treatment of addiction learn behavioural changes and often take medications as part of their treatment regimen.
2. Behavioural therapies can include counselling, psychotherapy, support groups, or family therapy. Treatment offers help in suppressing the withdrawal syndrome and drug craving and in blocking the effects of drugs. Studies show that treatment for heroin addiction using methadone at an adequate dosage level combined with therapy reduces death rates and many health problems associated with heroin abuse.
3. In general, the more treatment given, the better the results. Many patients require other services as well, such as medical and mental health services and HIV prevention services. Patients who stay in treatment longer have better outcomes than those who stay less time. Patients who go through medically assisted interventions with minimized discomfort but do not receive any further treatment, perform about the same in terms of those who were never treated. Over the last 25 years, studies have shown that treatment works to reduce drugs and crimes committed by drug-dependent people. Researchers also have found that drug abusers who have treatment are more likely to have jobs.

4. The ultimate goal of all drug abuse treatment is to enable the patient to achieve lasting abstinence, but the immediate goals are to reduce drug use, improve the patient's ability to function, and minimize the medical and social course of drug abuse.
5. There are several types of drug abuse treatment programmes. Short-term methods last less than 6 months and residential therapy, medication therapy, and drug-free outpatient therapy. Longer term treatment may include for example, methadone maintenance outpatient treatment for opiate addicts and residential therapeutic communication treatment.

Notes

BHOLI

Notes

A little girl Bholi fails to develop self confidence due to her parental attitude. Read the lesson and find out, how?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of the lesson, you will be able to:

- explain the importance of emotional security and family support for children;
- indicate the need of love, encouragement and education for the disabled to fight against their odds;
- demonstrate the use of simple past and past perfect tense in speech and writing.
- use appropriate form of words in context.

25.1 SECTION I

From her very childhood Bholi was a little slow. She had smallpox marks on her face and she stammered. Why did her teacher take special interest in her? Did Bholi measure up to her teacher's expectations?

Her name was Sulekha, but since her childhood everyone had been calling her Bholi, the simpleton.

She was the fourth daughter of Numberdar Ramlal. When she was ten months old, she had fallen off the cot on her head and perhaps it had damaged some part of her brain. That was why she remained a backward child and came to be known as Bholi, the simpleton.

Notes

At birth, the child was very fair and pretty. But when she was two years old, she had an attack of small-pox. Only the eyes were saved, but the entire body was permanently disfigured by deep black pock-marks. Little Sulekha could not speak till she was five, and when at last she learnt to speak, she stammered. The other children often made fun of her and mimicked her. As a result, she talked very little.

Ramlal had seven children — three sons and four daughters, and the youngest of them was Bholi. It was a prosperous farmer's household and there was plenty to eat and drink. All the children except Bholi were healthy and strong. The sons had been sent to the city to study in schools and later in colleges. Of the daughters, Radha, the eldest, had already been married. The second daughter Mangla's marriage had also been settled, and when that was done, Ramlal would think of the third, Champa. They were good-looking, healthy girls, and it was not difficult to find bridegrooms for them.

But Ramlal was worried about Bholi. She had neither good looks nor intelligence.

Bholi was seven years old when Mangla was married. The same year a primary school for girls was opened in their village. The Tehsildar sahib came to perform its opening ceremony. He said to Ramlal, "As a revenue official you are the representative of the government in the village and so you must set an example to the villagers. You must send your daughters to school."

That night when Ramlal consulted his wife, she cried, "Are you crazy? If girls go to school, who will marry them?"

But Ramlal had not the courage to disobey the Tehsildar. At last his wife said, "I will tell you what to do. Send Bholi to school. As it is, there is little chance of her getting married, with her ugly face and lack of sense. Let the teachers at school worry about her."

The next day Ramlal caught Bholi by the hand and said, "Come with me. I will take you to school." Bholi was frightened. She did not know what a school was like. She remembered how a few days ago their old cow, Lakshmi, had been turned out of the house and sold.

"N-n-n-n NO, no-no-no," she shouted in terror and pulled her hand away from her father's grip.

"What's the matter with you, you fool?" shouted Ramlal. "I am only taking you to school." Then he told his wife, "Let her wear some decent clothes today, or else what will the teachers and the other schoolgirls think of us when they 'see her?'"

New clothes had never been made for Bholi. The old dresses of her sisters were passed on to her. No one cared to mend or wash her clothes. But today she was lucky to receive a clean dress which had shrunk after many washings and no longer fitted Champa. She was even bathed and oil was rubbed into her dry and matted hair. Only then did she begin to believe that she was being taken to a place better than her home!

Notes

INTEXT QUESTIONS 25.1

- A. 1. What incident made Bholi a backward child?
- 2 At what age did Bholi have an attack of small pox? What was its effect on her looks?
 - 3 Why did Bholi talk very little? Give two reasons.
 - 4 What kind of farmer Ramlal was? What was his worry about Bholi.
 - 5 Why did the Tehsildar ask Ramlal to send his daughters to school? Give two reasons.
 - 6 Why Ramlal's wife disagreed when he consulted her for sending Bholi to school?
 - 7 How finally Ramlal's wife agreed to send Bholi to school?
 - 8 Why Bholi felt frightened at the idea of being taken to school? Give two reasons.
 - 9 New clothes had never been made for Bholi. The old dresses of her sisters were passed on to her. What light does this statement reflect about her parents behaviour.

B. Activity

You noticed your younger brother mimicking his friend (who limps) and making fun of him. Write a paragraph in about 100 words to make him understand that it was not desirable. You may use the following clues:

- it can happen to any body,
- he cant help it.
- it will hurt him emotionally and move his self confidence.

C. Inferential questions

1. Pickup the relevant facts from the unit which suggest that the society was against girls education.

Notes

2. Pick up two examples from the unit that suggest discriminatory behaviour of Bholi's parents.
3. Going to school was turning point in Bholi's life. Elaborate the statement with examples from the story

25.2 SECTION II

A girl who had not heard the name of school or who did not know what a school was and who felt terrified to go to school developed attachment with the school. How did it happen? Read the second unit of the story.

When they reached the school, the children were already in their classrooms. Ramlal handed over his daughter to the headmistress. Left alone, the poor girl looked about her with fear-laden eyes. There were several rooms, and in each room girls like her squatted on mats, reading from books or writing on slates. The headmistress asked Bholi to sit down in a corner in one of the classrooms.

Bholi did not know what exactly a school was like and what happened there, but she was glad to find so many girls almost of her own age present there. She hoped that one of these girls might become her friend.

The lady teacher who was in the class was saying something to the girls but Bholi could understand nothing. She looked at the pictures on the wall. The colours fascinated her—the horse was brown just like the horse on which the Tehsildar had come to visit their village; the goat was black like the goat of their neighbour; the parrot was green like the parrots she had seen in the mango orchard; and the cow was just like their Lakshmi. And suddenly Bholi noticed that the teacher was standing by her side, smiling at her.

“What’s your name, little one?”

“Bh-Bho-Bho.” She could stammer no further than that.

Then she began to cry and tears flowed from her eyes in a helpless flood. She kept her head down as she sat in her corner, not daring to look up at the girls who, she knew, were still laughing at her.

When the school bell rang, all the girls scurried out of the classroom, but Bholi dared not leave her corner. Her head still lowered, she kept on sobbing.

“Bholi.”

The teacher’s voice was so soft and soothing! In all her life she had never been called like that. It touched her heart.

“Get up,” said the teacher. It was not a command, but just a friendly suggestion. Bholi got up.

“Now tell me your name.”

Sweat broke out over her whole body. Would her stammering tongue again disgrace her? For the sake of this kind woman, however, she decided to make an effort. She had such a soothing voice; she would not laugh at her.

“Bh-Bh-Bho-Bho,” she began to stammer.

“Well done, well done,” the teacher encouraged her. “Come on, now — the full name?”

“Bh-Bh-Bho-Bholi.” At last she was able to say it and felt relieved as if it was a great achievement.

“Well done.” The teacher patted her affectionately and said, “Put the fear out of your heart and you will be able to speak like everyone else.”

Bholi looked up as if to ask, “Really?”

“Yes, yes, it will be very easy. You just come to school every day. Will you come?” Bholi nodded. “No, say it aloud.”

“Ye-Ye-Yes.” And Bholi herself was astonished that she had been able to say it.

“Didn’t I tell you? Now take this book.”

The book was full of nice pictures and the pictures were in colour — dog, cat, goat, horse, parrot, tiger and a cow just like Lakshmi. And with every picture was a word in big black letters.

“In one month you will be able to read this book. Then I will give you a bigger book, then a still bigger one. In time you will be more learned than anyone else in the village. Then no one will ever be able to laugh at you. People will listen to you with respect and you will be able to speak without the slightest stammer. Understand? Now go home, and come back early tomorrow morning.”

Bholi felt as if suddenly all the bells in the village temple were ringing and the trees in front of the school-house had blossomed into big red flowers. Her heart was throbbing with a new hope and a new life.

Thus the years passed.

25.3 SECTION III

You have read that the simple little girl Bholi who had deep pock marks was regarded as a backward child. Her father sent her to school where she sat in a corner and looked around with fear. The teacher tried to encourage her to speak. Over the years Bholi had learnt a lot and also gained a lot of confidence.

Read the unit III to find out how Bholi showed her confidence and her decision making faculty.

The village became a small town. The little primary school became a high school. There were now a cinema under a tin shed and a cotton ginning mill. The mail train began to stop at their railway station.

One night, after dinner, Ramlal said to his wife, "Then, shall I accept Bishamber's proposal?"

"Yes, certainly," his wife said. "Bholi will be lucky to get such a well-to-do bridegroom. A big shop, a house of his own and I hear several thousand in the bank. Moreover, he is not asking for any dowry."

"That's right, but he is not so young, you know — almost the same age as I am — and he also limps. Moreover, the children from his first wife are quite grown up."

Notes

“So what does it matter?” his wife replied. “Forty-five or fifty —it is no great age for a man. We are lucky that he is from another village and does not know about her pock-marks and her lack of sense. If we don’t accept this proposal, she may remain unmarried all her life.”

“Yes, but I wonder what Bholi will say.”

“What will that witless one say? She is like a dumb cow.”

“May be you are right,” muttered Ramlal.

In the other corner of the courtyard, Bholi lay awake on her cot, listening to her parents’ whispered conversation.

Bishamber Nath was a well-to-do grocer. He came with a big party of friends and relations with him for the wedding. A brass-band playing a popular tune from an Indian film headed the procession, with the bridegroom riding a decorated horse. Ramlal was overjoyed to see such pomp and splendour. He had never dreamt that his fourth daughter would have such a grand wedding. Bholi’s elder sisters who had come for the occasion were envious of her luck.

When the auspicious moment came the priest said, “Bring the bride.”

Bholi, clad in a red silken bridal dress, was led to the bride’s place near the sacred fire.

The bridegroom lifted the garland of yellow marigolds. A woman slipped back the silken veil from the bride’s face. Bishamber took a quick glance. The garland remained poised in his hands. The bride slowly pulled down the veil over her face.

“Have you seen her?” said Bishamber to the friend next to him “She has pock-marks on her face.”

“So what? You are not young either.”

“May be. But if I am to marry her, her father must give me five thousand rupees.”

Ramlal went and placed his turban — his honour — at Bishamber’s feet. “Do not humiliate me so. Take two thousand rupees.”

“No. Five thousand, or we go back. Keep your daughter.”

“Be a little considerate, please. If you go back, I can never show my face in the village.”

“Then out with five thousand.”

Tears streaming down his face, Ramlal went in, opened the safe and counted out the notes. He placed the bundle at the bridegroom’s feet.

On Bishamber's greedy face appeared a triumphant smile. He had gambled and won. "Give me the garland," he announced.

Once again the veil was slipped back from the bride's face, but this time her eyes were not downcast. She was looking up, looking straight at her prospective husband, and in her eyes there was neither anger nor hate, only cold contempt.

Bishamber raised the garland to place it round the bride's neck; but before he could do so, Bholi's hand struck out like a streak of lightning and the garland was flung into the fire. She got up and threw away the veil.

"Pitaji!" said Bholi in a clear loud voice; and her father, mother, sisters, brothers, relations and neighbours were startled to hear her speak without even the slightest stammer.

"Pitaji!" Take back your money. I am not going to marry this man."

Ramlal was thunderstruck. The guests began to whisper, "So shameless! So ugly and so shameless!"

"Bholi, are you crazy?" shouted Ramlal. "You want to disgrace your family? Have some regard for our izzat!"

"For the sake of your izzat," said Bholi, "I was willing to marry this lame old man. But I will not have such a mean, greedy and contemptible coward as my husband. I won't, I won't, I won't."

"What a shameless girl! We all thought she was a harmless dumb cow."

Bholi turned violently on the old woman, "Yes, Aunty, you are right. You all thought I was a dumb-driven cow. That's why you wanted to hand me over to this heartless creature. But now the dumb cow, the stammering fool, is speaking. Do you want to hear more?"

Bishamber Nath, the grocer, started to go back with his party. The confused bandsmen thought this was the end of the ceremony and struck up a closing song.

Ramlal stood rooted to the ground, his head bowed low with the weight of grief and shame.

The flames of the sacred fire slowly died down. Everyone was gone. Ramlal turned to Bholi and said, "But what about you, no one will ever marry you now. What shall we do with you?"

And Sulekha said in a voice that was calm and steady, "Don't you worry, Pitaji! In your old age I will serve you and Mother and I will teach in the same school where I learnt so much. Isn't that right, Ma'am?"

COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage and answer questions that follow:

Do you remember the arguments that you had with your parents during adolescence? How you disagreed on various issues? You must have expected to be treated as a 'grown up', to be allowed to take your own decisions, to be given more freedom, and so on and your parents may have refused. You must have resented the restraints imposed by them. You must have not liked your parent's objections to the things that you wanted to do. You may have felt at that time that your parents do not understand you; that they do not love you, and this may have made you feel irritated and miserable.

So, what would you suggest to the parents of adolescents? Yes, first of all, as has been mentioned earlier, they should educate their children about the rapid changes during adolescence; they should appreciate the adolescent's troubled emotional state due to the physical changes and be more tolerant; they should stop treating the adolescent as if she is still a child; they should be understanding, and should be both friends and guides to the adolescent.

Lack of control by parents is also harmful. If parents do not impose any constraints on the adolescents, then they have a tendency to go astray and choose the wrong path, and later become difficult to discipline. Such adolescents feel let down and think that nobody cares for them. Hence some discipline from parents is necessary.

The kind of disciplinary techniques that parents use has a great impact on the adolescent. If parents are very strict and do not give the adolescents a chance to speak on any matter, then the adolescents may go against their wishes. On the other hand, if they would reason out and give the adolescents a chance to express their opinion, adolescents would also listen to and respect their parents.

1. Read the passage and give it a suitable title.
2. Adolescents like to be treated as _____.
 - a) children

- b) grown-up
c) equals
3. The resentment of adolescents stems from their parents _____
- a) refusing to talk to them
b) refusing to advice them
c) putting restrictions on them
4. Many adolescents feel miserable and irritable because they think _____
- a) their parents do not love them
b) their parents do not understand them
c) their parents put too much responsibility on them
5. Parents ought to _____
- a) allow adolescents to go their way
b) impose a strict discipline on adolescent
c) impose a reasonable amount of discipline on adolescent
6. Read the passage again and state whether the following statements are True or False.
- a) Parents should educate their children about the changes that occur during adolescents.
b) They should treat adolescents as children.
c) When there is not discipline adolescents feel let down.
d) Parents should give a patient hearing to their children and hear their views.
e) Adolescents never listen to reason.
7. Complete these sentences based on your understanding of the text.
- a) often a clash of _____ gives rise to disagreement between adolescents and their parents.
b) Too much of _____ affects the adolescents adversely. They might become rebellious.
c) Parents should handle the adolescents with (i) _____ and (ii) _____. They should act as _____ and _____.
d) If parents give the adolescents a very long rope they might be in the danger of going (i) _____. Hence a bit of (ii) _____ is necessary.
e) Adolescents respect parents who give them a chance to express their (i) _____. This leads to mutual (ii) _____ and (iii) _____.

THE RECEPTION DESK AND YOU

Most organizations are run by a group of individuals or by a team, and the receptionist is a member of that team. The receptionist works in what is called the 'Front Office'. The Front Office staff have a direct and personal contact with all guests and visitors. This makes the reception desk the focal point of any organization.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- list front office jobs; and
- distinguish different kinds of conversation.

26.1 FRONT OFFICE DUTIES

Usually, the duties of a receptionist are to:

- Welcome the guests/visitors and offer them help
- Answer telephone calls effectively
- Attend to routine enquiries
- Take down messages left by visitors and callers and pass them on to the right persons as soon as possible
- Note down messages, make bookings, reservations, cancellations and plan schedules
- Help the guests/visitors with any queries or problems that may arise.

Notes

Though all receptionists have much in common, their specific duties may vary from organization to organization. It is quite likely that in a big hotel a receptionist has only to receive guests, whereas in a small hotel she attends to enquiries, reservations and book-keeping as well. Sometimes the receptionist does the work of a telephone operator.

A receptionist is briefed about her duties at the time of appointment. But there are certain other bits of information that she will have to learn on the job. A good knowledge of the structure of the hotel/office, the main departments of the employees, and office procedures are among the other things a receptionist also knows.

KEEP HANDY

To do her job efficiently, a receptionist should keep the following items on her desk:

- A telephone directory
- An internal telephone directory
- An index book of telephone numbers frequently used
- Names and addresses of hotels nearby
- Information about places of tourist interest and local sightseeing tours
- A railway time table
- Flight schedules
- Forms and brochures like reservation voucher, 'C' form etc.

An office receptionist will also need:

A register of callers

An appointment diary (a list of who is coming to see whom and when)

A list of staff on leave/tour

YOU SHOULD REMEMBER

Courtesy and good manners are the two prime requirements of a receptionist's job. The guests and the visitors should be treated courteously even when they are impolite. This, plus a friendly tone of voice, becomes all the more important in case of unavoidable delays. A certain amount of tact and diplomacy is also needed in dealing with complaints or awkward situations and in handling difficult guests.

A receptionist represents her organization; she is the contact point between her organization and the outside world. Therefore, she should be formal, pleasant and efficient. She has to maintain the right tone through her voice, gestures and language.

Study the following dialogues to decide whether each dialogue is (i) a telephone conversation or face-to-face interaction; and whether (ii) the tone is polite or rude.

EXAMPLE A.

- Receptionist (R) : Hindustan Petroleum, Can I help you?
Man (M) : This is Ranjit Malik. Can I speak to Vikram Yadav, please?
Receptionist (R) : Hold the line, please.

EXAMPLE B.

- R : (off-hand): Yes.
M : Good morning, my name is Vinod. I am here to see Mr. Vikram Yadav.
R : Who?
M : Mr. Yadav.
R : Oh, he's busy I think,
M : Could you let him know I'm here, please?
R : Okay.

EXAMPLE C

- Operator : Telco
Woman : This is Pillai for Maruti Udyog. I'd like to speak to Mr. Antony.
Operator : Sorry, who is calling?
Woman : My name is Deepa Pillai. P.I.L.L.A.I.

Notes

Notes

- Operator : Hold the line, Ms Pillai, I'll try to put you through to Mr. Antony ... (a pause) I'm afraid his line's engaged.
- Woman : Oh, I'll call again.
- Operator : Do you have his extension number?
- Woman : No, I don't.
- Operator : It's 250
- Woman : Thank you very much. Good bye.

You may have noticed that there is a difference in the way the receptionist and the visitor speak when they are not face to face. You should also have observed that the receptionist was not very polite in one of the examples.

FACE TO FACE COMMUNICATION IN BUSINESS

*I*t is important to have good communication skills to be successful at your work place. In this unit we suggest some ways and rules to be followed in face to face interaction.

OBJECTIVES

An the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- greet each other and build relationships through friendly conversation;
- introduce yourself and others;
- end a conversation politely; and
- be alert to body language, eye contact, etc.

26.1 GREETINGS

In face to face communication your body language is as important as speech. At your work place, it is important that you dress neatly, sit or stand erect and have an alert smiling face. When you speak, you should speak softly yet clearly, you should be polite and courteous.

Every time you meet, there are certain expressions to be used. We choose them on the basis of certain criteria:

Notes

- degree of closeness/distance/ family/ new colleague
- Nature of relationship-friendly/official
- Status of speakers-equal/seniors

The expressions to be used can be divided into two categories. They are:-

informal- those used with friends, long time colleagues, team mates, etc.

formal- those used with strangers, and seniors.

It is important to understand the degree of formality and respond accordingly. While greeting others, we use formula, which are fixed.

Greetings And Their Responses

	Greetings	Responses
FORMAL	1. Good morning, Mr. Das!	1. Good morning, sir!
	2. Good afternoon (sir/ma'am)! (from 12 noon to end of working day)	2. Good afternoon, Mohan / Mira!
	3. Good evening (gentlemen/ladies)! (6 p.m. Onwards)	3. Good evening
INFORMAL	Hello! Hi! How are you?	Hello! Hi! Fine, thank you!
	Hi there! Long time no see!	Yeah, long time no see!
	What a pleasant surprise!	Same here!

1. Greetings are generally returned in the same form. In reply, the listener usually uses a slightly different intonation.
2. The response for a greeting like "How are you" should be "I'm fine, thank you". Do not give a long account of your illness or problems.
3. We say "good evening" when we meet a person late in the evening like 8 or 9 o'clock. We use "good night" only at the time of parting.

26.3 BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS

Social behaviour is an important aspect of dealing with people face to face. There are some broad rules that are universally followed.

It is important not to start talking about business or the work at hand, immediately after the greeting. To build a warm friendly relation you must show some interest in your client or colleague without becoming too personal. Generally this kind of conversation is called "small talk". You can talk about your client or client's journey, family, common friends. It is often best to offer some drink (tea/coffee) or offer to do any little job like making a phone call, sending a fax, etc. Similarly, before ending the conversation and bidding good bye, small talk about coffee, lunch, snacks, travel, etc. often occur. At a party or lunch, is best to avoid politics, religion and other personal private details. It is safe to talk about holidays, travel, traffic, public transport, tourist interest, etc. The purpose of a social exchange with a new person is to discover what you have in common, so that you can exchange experiences. With a senior or older person, it is best to respond politely to queries.

Notes

26.4 BEING ALERT TO SIGNALS

Speakers send out signals in a variety of ways: sighing, clicking the tongue or pen, tapping the foot, looking at a watch, clock, etc. These show the extent of concentration, mood, desire to leave, etc. An alert and efficient speaker must respond to these non-verbal signals.

Statements like:

“Shall we get started?”

“Now to business.....”

“Right, lets get down to business, shall we?”

“We won’t finish by one if we aren’t brisk”, etc usually signal a change from small talk to the work/ task at hand. Similarly, looking at the door or watch signal a need to end or break. The switch can be signalled with statements like:

“Shouldn’t that do for now/today?”

“Don’t you think we should call it a day?”

“I’d like to stretch my legs for a bit.”

“You will notice that these signals come as suggestions.”

26.5 LEAVE TAKING

Ending a conversation normally involves two steps: signaling that the conversation is coming to an end, and the actual leave taking.

Signals of ending usually consist of thanking a person. Often you may give a reason or make an excuse for leaving. It is important to be able to recognise these signals, for it would be considered rude to ignore them.

While parting, like greetings, we use set phrases. People who meet regularly leave informally.

Formal leave takings are more elaborate. On leaving a meeting or at a gathering, you must seek out the organiser, thank him/her and bid him/ her good bye.

Notes

	Pre-Closing	Responses
FORMAL	Thank you very much for your attention/ interest/ support	The pleasure has been mine.
	Well, I think that's all Thank you for giving me this opportunity.	It's been a pleasure. Thank you for coming.
INFORMAL	Well, I'd better be going.	Oh? What a pity. Thanks for coming.
	It's been very interesting talking to you, but	Yes, I've enjoyed it too.
	Well, I must leave/ be off Great seeing you.	Same here.
	Sorry I've got to go now. Come over. Drop in some time.	Sure/ Yes, I will.

	Closing	Response
FORMAL	Good bye! Hope to see you again.	Good bye!
	Look forward to seeing you soon. Good night.	Good night.
INFORMAL	Bye! See you soon/later.	Bye! Take care!
	Look after yourself.	And you.
	So long. Take care.	you too!

1. We usually repeat the expression used by the leave taker while bidding good bye.
2. For "Take care" and "Look after yourself" the response is "And you" or "you too".

MANAGING THE TELEPHONE

The telephone is the most frequently used means of communication today. And, managing the telephone requires skill, tact and training.

You have to be a good speaker and need to speak clearly and distinctly in a polite courteous tone. You must be brief and to the point without sounding abrupt or rude.

You need to be a good listener too. So hold the earphone close to your ear and listen carefully. You will be required to take definite decisions or actions according to what you hear. And your decision has to be made quickly to save time and money.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- practise calling out telephone numbers; and
- analyse steps/ stages in receiving calls.

27.1 CALLING OUT TELEPHONE NUMBERS

A receptionist often does the work of a telephone operator – receiving incoming calls, transferring out-going calls, helping people to get in touch. And, in all this, telephone numbers play a very important part.

You very often have to mention your telephone number and the name of the organisation in the beginning of a call; ask for the caller's to verify identity or pass on a number to someone in the office as requested. So it is necessary for you to repeat telephone numbers and communicate them in a well defined manner.

Notes

The following general rules should be followed:

1. Figure '0' should be pronounced as 'zero' or "oh".
2. Numbers should be grouped in two digits, giving a slight pause between each pair. So 432 is, four/pause/three two.
3. Within the pairs refer to numbers in digits. Eg: 32 is; three two not thirty two 5642 is five six/pause/four two.
4. When the same number/figure occurs in a pair between two pauses, use 'double'. Eg: 14456 is one/pause/double four/five six.
5. But when a pause falls between repeated digits- i.e. each number forms a part of another group – pronounce each number separately. Eg. 500222 is five/zero/zero/two double two.
6. When you give or ask for a telephone number, always repeat it to confirm if you have the right number. Ask for confirmation if the caller does not give it.

Example A

Chris : I'll give you my number. It's 6416673.

Mary: Sorry, did you say 6416673?

Chris : Yes, that's right.

Mary : Thanks.

B. Paul : Could you call me on 301757595?

Ravi: Just a minute, I'll repeat it ... 301 757 595.

Paul : Right, Bye.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 27.1*Repetition Practice:

Repeat these numbers aloud. Work in pairs, whenever possible.

1. 707 – seven zero seven
963354 – nine six double three five four 63220 – six three two two zero
80543 – eight zero five four three.
0046887 – zero zero four six eight eight seven.
2. Now write how you will say these numbers. Indicate the pause with '/'.
388211. 182, 320420, 344010

3. Select 7 digit phone numbers of different areas. Group them correctly and say them aloud to your partner.
4. Turn to any page in the telephone directory and ask your partner to find at least 5 telephone numbers. Give her the name of the person or place and their address. Then switch roles and let her ask you. See who is faster and better at saying the numbers clearly.
5. Go around your institute or office and find out the name of the section-in-charge, managers, etc. Make a list of their names in an alphabetical order. Also write their designations and extension numbers.

Notes

27.2 IN-COMING CALLS: PRACTICE

Receptionists have to attend to a number of calls everyday. Each involves some giving and taking of information which has to be noted down, conveyed and acted upon. In this section you will read three pieces of conversation. Study each carefully and note the expressions, vocabulary and turns (exchanges).

CONVERSATION A

- Air India Assistant : Air India. Reservations. Krishna Roy speaking. Can I help you?

WRITING MEMOS AND LETTERS

Communication in office is quite different from personal communication. In office we need to keep in mind office procedures and rules. Written communication in office is meant as much for record as for reference. Two very important kinds of written communication in office are memos and letters.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- write memos;
- write letters of enquiry, and
- write letters of complaint.

27.1 MEMO

The Long man Concise Dictionary of Business English defines memo as “an informal written or typed message to someone in the same office or organisation, sent in place of a letter.”

Or

“a short informal note or report-on some deal or event or conversation.”

A memo is generally used for sending messages from one department to another within the same organization. Given below is an example of a memo.

MEMORANDUM

4 th Nov. 2000

From:- Director (Building)

Subject:- Security Measures

To:- The Security Manager

After three incidents of theft of scooters in the previous week from our parking shed, it is important that security measures should be tightened with immediate effect. A strict check at the entrance and exit gates is required. Only permanent token holders should be allowed to park their vehicles in the parking shed.

1. (a) Please issue identity cards to all the employees of the establishment with their recent photographs.
(b) Each employee should be given a token for his/her vehicle.
2. A full time parking shed caretaker should be appointed with immediate effect. Financial sanction be obtained. Manager (Personnel) be consulted about the recruitment rules.
3. Please discuss these and other security measures with members of the staff. Their suggestions will be welcome.

Director (Building)

The short form of memorandum is memo.

So, office memos are:

- neither letters nor notices
- they give instruction and information.

HOW TO WRITE A MEMO?

While writing a memo you should keep in mind the following points:-

- state the subject clearly and precisely.
- get to your main message directly.

Notes

- make your sentences short and simple.
- give preference to direct statements using personal pronouns if necessary. e.g. instead of saying,

“The chairman has desired that all section heads prepare monthly reports on the implementation of the project and submit the same to the undersigned for compilation.” You can say- “I have been asked by the Chairman to compile all monthly reports on the implementation of the project. Please send me a report pertaining to your section by the 7th of the month.”

- break up your message into points.
- make it brief because your reader may be a busy person and may not have time to read a long message.

27.2 LETTER OF COMPLAINT

We often have to write letters of complaint to various organizations. While drafting letters of complaint we have to state the complaint clearly and be polite without blaming anyone. We also have to give relevant references and details. We must state very clearly what we want the company to do.

Here is an example:

From:-	24th Dec, 2000
Rocky Pens Mayapuri Industrial Area, New Delhi
To:-
Neverlock Fountain Pens Okhla Estate, New Delhi
Subject:- Defective supply.
Dear Sir,
We wish to complain about the 500 ball point pens supplied vide your invoice letter No. NL/RP/. FP/ 2000 dated 28th Nov, 2000.
We regret to inform you that only 100 pens are in working order. Rest of the supply has one or two of the following defects:
Cracks in caps Loose clips Dry refills
Please replace the 400 defective pens at the earliest.
Looking forward to your early action.
Your sincerely
A.D. Gupta.

Subject:- Enquiry about the progress of printing and supply of lessons.

Ref.:- (i) Your letter No. ICC/L/Eagle/2000, date 19th Dec.
(ii) Your letter No. ICC/L/Eagle/2000, date 12th Nov.

Dear Sir,

With reference to the above subject you are requested to let us know the following:

1. No. of lessons yet to be printed.
2. No. of illustrations yet to be made.
3. Date of despatch of the printed material.

We would like to inform you that you are already late by two weeks.

As per clause 3 (b) of the agreement a fine of Rs. 100/- per day will be charged for delay in completion of the assignment.

Kindly treat this matter as most urgent and send us the material immediately.

Yours sincerely,

(Vinod Mankad)
Dy. Director

Notes

While writing a letter of enquiry remember the following points:-

- the contents of the letter should mention references (letters and agreements) of both parties (sender and addressee)
- the enquiry should be specific.
- it should make clear that the matter is urgent and needs special attention.

ANALYSING TURNS IN TELEPHONING

Your study of the first two units emphasizes politeness and efficiency on the phone. Which of the options will you choose?

Would you like ____? OR Do you want.....?

Could you tell him I called? OR Tell him I called?

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- use appropriate expressions at different stages of handling a call.

28.1 DIALOGUE ANALYSIS

You are aware that a telephone conversation goes through certain well-marked stages.

On receiving a call, a receptionist goes through the following steps:

1. Greets and gives identity
2. Offers help
3. Obtains caller's name
4. Acknowledges the call
5. (a) Gives message and asks if willing to receive
(b) Connects the parties
(c) Apologizes to the caller
(d) Takes down a message.

Notes

Some phrases and expressions that are used to perform the following tasks/steps are listed below:

1. Greets and gives identity :
- Good morning, NIOS.
 - ◆ National Bank, good morning.
 - ◆ 7018131, CIEFL Reception, please.
 - ◆ Universal Engineers, Miss Rosy.
- The operator speaking.

(You will notice that 'Hello' is not used. It gives no exact information and it wastes time and money.)

2. Offers help :
- Can I help you?
 - ◆ May I help you?
 - ◆ What can I do for you?
 - ◆ Who shall I call on the line?
 - ◆ Is there any particular person you want to speak to?

The star indicates that it is the least used expression.

This is an important step because it gives a helpful, friendly touch and it also saves time.

3. Obtains caller's name :
- Please may I know who is calling?
 - ◆ (If not already provided) May I have your name, please?
 - ◆ May I ask who is calling?
 - ◆ Who shall I say is calling, sir?
 - ◆ From where are you speaking, sir?

This is important depending on the situation. In a business concern, a particular person, say a Sales Manager may not wish to meet a buyer whose goods he could not deliver. He will be very angry with you if you send the call in and put him into an embarrassing situation. So it is necessary to obtain the caller's name and give it to the person called before saying he's in and can accept the call.

4. Acknowledges the call :
- Hold the line, please.
 - ◆ Please hold on the line. I'll find out if Mr/Ms. _____ is in.
 - ◆ Would you hold the line a moment Sir/ Madam?

Notes

If the concerned party is in —

5(a) Gives message and asks if willing to receive

- ◆ I'll put you through in a minute.
- ◆ Thank you. I'll ring Mr. – for you.
- ◆ May I tell Mr. – who is calling?

- ◆ Mr. – from – wants to speak to you, sir. Shall I send the call in?
- ◆ Mr. – is on the line. Shall I hand in the call?
- ◆ There is a local call from -, sir/madam. Can you take it now?
- ◆ There is an STD/long distance/out-station call from (place), (name of person) for you. Shall I connect it right now?

5(b) Connect the parties

- ◆ Shall I hand in Mr. – 's call just now?
- Mr./Ms. - is on the line. Please speak on, Mr. (caller).
- ◆ Your party is on the line. Speak on please.
- ◆ Mr./Ms. – is here for you.
- ◆ The (Manager) in on the line for you.

If the concerned party cannot take the call:

5(c) Apologizes to the caller

- Sorry, Mr./Ms. – is not in.
- ◆ Sorry, Mr./Ms. – is at a meeting until 3 p.m.
- ◆ Mr./Ms.– is out of the office at the moment.
- ◆ Mr./Ms. – is out of town.
- ◆ Mr./Ms. – is busy on another line.
- ◆ There's no reply from his room sir.
- ◆ There's no response right now.
- ◆ That station does not answer.

5(d) Takes down a message

- Will you leave a message behind?
- ◆ May I take a message please?
- ◆ Would you like to talk to some one else in the Department?

Notes

- ◆ Would you care to leave a message?
- ◆ If you care to leave a message I'll see that Mr./Ms. – receives it.
- ◆ Could you leave your number with me. I'll ring back when Mr./Ms. – returns.
- ◆ Shall I tell Mr/Ms – to ring back when she/he returns?

For taking down messages efficiently most large firms and offices have printed Telephone Memos. Even if they are not available, remember to take down the following details and send the message without delay.

To: _____	Time: _____
From: _____	Dt.: _____
URGENT/NOT URGENT
IMPORTANT DETAILS IN POINT FORM.
COMPLETE SENTENCES NOT NEEDED.
COMMON SHORT FORM ALLOWED.
Taken by: _____

OVERALL QUESTIONS

These tasks should be done in groups of three. Work with your friends. In each group try to choose one person who can speak English better than you to play the role of a teacher. Practice speaking out the dialogues in each case.

- (a) Mr. David Horsburgh who has an appointment with Mr. Mehta, the Advertising Agent, Pratibha Arts at 3.30 p.m., rings up to cancel the appointment. Mr. Mehta is not at his desk. You are the Receptionist at Pratibha Arts.
- (b) The receptionist in Hindustan Times, Delhi Office receives a call from one of its reporters in Hyderabad for the Sub-Editor. It is an urgent call and must be connected immediately.
- (c) An operator in Usha Fans receives a call from a customer who has bought two fans. They are defective and she wants to get them changed. She wants to know the procedure. Give her some information and connect her to the concerned person.

- II. Using the Telephone Memo format given in the Unit, write out the MESSAGE, that you as the Operator/Receptionist will note down.

WRITING e-Mails

*T*he use of e-mail or electronic mail is steadily increasing. E-mails is cheaper and faster than a letter, less interfering than a phone call and easier to send than a fax. While using e-mail, differences in location and time zone do not remain an obstacle. For example if you send an e-mail from India to a firm in America, they will get it immediately.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- understand how to adjust your style for e-mails; and
- write an e-mail.

28.1 WHAT MAKES E- MAIL DIFFERENT

Electronic communication is fundamentally different from paper based communication because of its speed and broadcasting ability.

On paper, it is essential to make everything clear because your audience may not have a chance to ask for clarification. With e-mail, the receiver can ask questions immediately. E-mail thus tends to be loosely structured, like conversation. This has its advantages-you save time and effort. Why should you spend hours on correct spellings, perfect grammar and appropriate words when the message is only to tell your colleague that you are ready to go to lunch. Of course, you must know when you can be careless and when you have to be meticulous.

Notes

Another difference between e-mail and older media is that what the sender sees when composing a message might not look like what the reader sees. With e-mail, the software and hardware that you use for composing, sending, storing, downloading, and reading may be completely different from what your correspondent uses. The visual quality of your message may be quite different by the time it gets to someone else's screen. Since these differences exist, it is necessary for you to tailor your message to this new medium.

28.2 HOW TO WRITE AN E-MAIL

In this section you will learn some of the major features of communicating through e-mail.

Ways Of Establishing Context

With e-mail, you cannot assume anything about a sender's location, time, state of mind, and profession, interest or future value to you. This means that you need to be very careful about giving your receiver some context. Furthermore, your receiver may get a few hundred messages all at once. This section will give specific ways for establishing context so that your message becomes meaningful and receives attention.

(a) Useful Subject Lines

A subject line that relates clearly to the body of the e-mails will help people mentally shift to the proper context before they read your message. The subject line should be brief, and needs to be a complete sentence. It should give a clue to the contents of the message. For example:

SUBJECT: BOOK ORDER – TEACHER TRAINING

Dear Mr. Mishra,

Please send one copy of the following CUP titles by 26th March latest.

Here the subject line summarizes the most important details of the message.

If your message is in response to another piece of e-mail, preface the subject line with Re: or RE: (for Regarding).

Subject: RE: Book order-Teacher Training

When you know the person gets a lot of mail and you want him/her to act on your message without delay:

Subject: URGENT: Book Order- Teacher Training

If you are offering non-urgent information that requires no response from the other person, prefacing the subject line with FYI: (For your information) is not a bad idea, as in

Subject: FYI: Passes for The Wild Duck

21 passes for the 18th 3 p.m. show are at the Reception Desk, First come, First served!

Do not use 'information' for your subject line. Instead ask clearly for the specific piece of information you need.

(b) Quoting references

If you are referring to previous e-mail, you should explicitly quote that document to provide context. Instead of sending e-mail that says:

"Are passes for 18th, 3 p.m. show gone?"

You can make your e-mail specific by beginning with the subject line. In the subject line if you are referring to the show on the 18th you can say',

"Re: Show on 18th and . Your e-mail can read:

"Are passes for 18th, 3 p.m. show gone?"

Referring to previous document becomes necessary because you may have sent the message on Friday and might not remember it on Monday morning when you see the response. But you must also avoid giving too much context. Look at the two examples given below and decide which is better and why?

A: >I've talked to Rakesh about > price quoted by BPL. He thinks >its too high. Neha promised > to contact HL and LG> Any news?
> What do I do now?

Notes

Notes

B: > Rakesh has Bp: quotation. Compare > it with those of HL and LG available > with Neha.
> Respond with the line of action.

The second (B) is better because it is shorter and is action oriented. It tells the receiver precisely what he should do-

- (i) compare prices form different sources
- (ii) decide and convey subsequent action.

You must remember that the greater than sign (>) appears only when you are forwarding a mail or replying to a mail without going through the process of composing a reply afresh. This sign (>) appears only at the recipient's end.

(c) Page Layout

Words on a computer screen look different from the words on paper and usually people find it difficult to read things on a screen than on paper. For instance, you may have put some of your information in boxes but your recipient's computer may not receive it in that form. This means that good e-mail page layout is different from good paper document page layout.

(d) Shorter Paragraphs

Frequently e-mail messages will be read in a document window with scroll bars. It is difficult to read a very long paragraph because half of it will be outside the screen. Therefore, it will be difficult to remember the information.

(e) Line Length

Most softwares that read mail do not automatically wrap i.e. adjust what words go on what line. This means that if there is a mismatch between your software's and your correspondent's in how they wrap lines, your correspondent may end up with a message that does not look good; especially in formal business communications.

If a line is longer than 76 characters (Anything typed including a space is a character), it is split after the 75th character and the line ends with an equal sign. Some e-mail reading software can automatically reconstruct your message but others may completely change the alignment. You should try to keep your lines under seventy characters long. Why seventy and not, say seventy six? Because you should leave a little room for the indentation or quote marks your correspondents may want if they need to quote pieces of your message in their replies.

Notes

(f) Clear and precise prose

Keep everything short. Keep your lines short, keep your paragraphs short and keep the message short. If your correspondents want more information, they can ask for it. Also note that some of your correspondents may have limits on how much disc space their e-mail can use.

If you are sending a report to many people then you may need to put more details into the e-mail so that you aren't flooded with questions from everyone on the recipients list. You should ask yourself carefully, if all the people really need to be on the list.

The fewer the people there are on the recipient list, the shorter the message should be. Keep everything on one "page". In most cases this means twenty five lines of text.

People usually use short forms when sending e-mails. Here are a few of them.

E-mails acronyms and abbreviations
BBL	-	be back later	IMO	-	in my opinion
BFN	-	bye for now	IOW	-	in other words
BRB	-	be right back	LOL	-	laughing out loud
BTW	-	by the way	NBD	-	no big deal
FYI	-	for your information	RPFL	-	rolling on floor laughing
<g>	-	grin	TIA	-	thanks in advance
<G>	-	big grin	TIC	-	tongue in cheek
HSIK	-	how should I know?	TTFN	-	ta ta for now
IAE	-	in any event	TTYL	-	talk to you later
			WYSIWYG-		what you see is what you get.

(g) Greetings and Signature

Every new medium develops its own rules for opening and closing. Because e-mail is so new, there aren't firm customs on how to open and close.

Most often start with 'Dear-(First name)' and close with 'Regards' or 'Thanks' and your signature. In the USA, they often begin with 'Hi' Many people do not give either a salutation or a signature because the addressing information is a part of an e-mail message. The e-mail message itself says who it is to and from.

All the same, it is good to have greetings and signatures. Many e-mail programmes allow you to set up a default signature to be included at the end of every message. Many people use these signatures as an easy way to give their name and alternate ways of reaching them.

for example:

Antony John Kunnan,
 Assoc. Prof, TESOL Program,
 King Hall C 2098, CSULA,
 5151 State University Drive,
 Los Angeles, CA 90032-8143, USA.
 +1 (323) 343 4344 voice
 +1(323) 343 5336 Fax
http:// www.calstatela.edu/dept/tesol/kunnan.htm

Of course, you have to decide whether all this information is necessary with a particular message. Such a heavy signature may be inappropriate for a one-line casual e-mail.

(h) Identification

It is important to identify yourself especially when you are e-mailing a stranger. Your e-mail must answer the questions that will come to the receiver's mind.

They are:

- How did she/he find out about me?
- What does she/he want from me?
- Who is he/she?
- Why should I pay any attention to him/her?

It is best to put all identification information at the top instead of the bottom because:

- Your identity is an important clue to the context of the message.
- If there is a problem with the transmission of the mail, the end is much likely to get lost than the beginning

- If you don't establish quickly who you are, your correspondent may delete your message before he gets to the bottom.

WHAT YOU HAVE LEARNT

In this unit you have learnt how e-mail is different from older media, To write a good e-mail:

- Provide your audience with adequate context:
 - Use meaningful subject lines.
 - Quote the e-mail to which you are responding
- In doings you use page layout:
 - Short paragraphs
 - Lines under 75 characters long
 - Messages under 25 lines long
 - Plain prose.
- In the body of the e-mail pay attention to:
 - Greetings and signature.
 - Identifying yourself at the beginning

OVERALL QUESTIONS

I. Say whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F) Correct the false statements.

- (i) E-mail is no different from older forms of communication.

- (ii) With e-mail, the receiver can ask for and get clarifications.

- (iii) We must always spend time and effort in correcting the language and style of our e-mail.

Notes

Notes

(iv) The e-mail always looks well composed and well formatted when it is received.

(v) Since many messages come all at once we must use ways to make our message stand out and be read

(vi) Reference to previous letter/mail is carried below the subject line.

(vii) Mark all mail "URGENT", its the surest way of having your message read.

2. write e-mail message for each of the following situations.

(a) You receive the following message on 21/04/2001

Dear Harish,

Last night the new central cooling system installed by Aqua Cool exploded. Our complete spring stock has been destroyed. Damage-minimum Rs. 4 lakhs.

CONTROLLING STRATEGIES AND OUT-GOING CALLS

Keeping control over conversation is an important skill. This is required to ensure effective communication and message taking and giving. You will learn some such strategies in this lesson.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- keep control over the conversation;
- use expressions appropriately; and
- identify stages in out-going calls.

29.1 CONTROLLING STRATEGIES

Often callers tend to chat, talk irrelevantly and keep the telephone lines needlessly engaged. It is, therefore, very important that you keep control of the conversation. It is important to know what you want and how to say it briefly and directly without giving offence. There are difficult situations that you may face. Some of the common problems are listed below. You also have tips on how to deal with them.

Notes

A. Problem –1 Message Not Clear

Often there are disturbing sounds and noises in the background that do not allow you to hear the message. Some times people give long or difficult answers, so you have to check whether you have really understood the important details.

Example – I

Mariam : Well, when do people start work in Japan?

Nakatane : Most Japanese companies are open from nine to five. Some open earlier and some open later, but they don't usually close later than six.

Mariam : So the normal hours of business are nine to five?

Nakatane : Yes, that's right.

Mariam : I see, thanks.

Example – II

Receptionist : Hard Rock Café. May I help you?

Carl : Yes, can I make a reservation for two for Saturday, the 16th, please?

Receptionist : Certainly, for what time?

Carl : Well, five or half past five is still early. Six might be all right.

Receptionist : Shall I put it down as six then? And could I have your name and telephone number?

Carl : Sure. My name is Carl Maro and the telephone number is 590-3442.

Receptionist : Sorry, I didn't catch that.

Carl : It's 590-3442.

Receptionist : OK, Mr. Maro, a table for two at 6 on Saturday, the 16th will be reserved for you.

Carl : Thank you. Goodbye.

Receptionist : Good bye.

You will notice that in a situation where the message is not clearly stated or heard, you have to ask again; and repeat the message or use ways to indicate that you have the right message. Correct them and give the right information again, if necessary.

Notes

B. Problem –2, Multiple Enquiries

Receptionists at reservation and cancellation counters, newspaper offices, hospitals, etc. often need exact details on several heads. Noting down while attending to other tasks (for e.g., collecting gate-passes, handing over brochures etc.) is difficult. Often callers are not aware of the problems involved. For example, one may speak too quickly or too softly.

To keep control of the conversation, you may have to do the following:

Ask the other person to slow down.

— Could you speak a little more slowly, please?

Ask the other person to repeat key facts.

— Could you repeat the dates, please?

— Can I have your name again, please?

Ask for information in the order you need it.

— Can I have your flight number first, please?

Ask the other person to spell his/her name or place names in addresses.

— Could you spell that, please?

Make a check – list of points you want to ask before you make your call.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 29.1

I. Study the following dialogues and indicate the controlling strategies used in them. Please Note: More than one strategy may be used in each.

A. Mariam : What's the average cost of a hotel in Tokyo?

Nakatane : I'm not sure, as I don't live in Tokyo. I suppose about 15,000 to 30,000 (yens), but I never stay in hotels so I can't be sure about it.

Mariam : So that's 15,000 yens for a good hotel?

Nakatane : No, that's not quite right. For a good hotel you pay about 30,000 yens.

Mariam : I see. Thanks.

Notes

- B. Journalist : I see. What about sales outside Europe?
- Industrialist : Twenty million. OK.
- Journalist : I've got one final question. Is it true that M.F. Hussain designed your wrappers?
- Industrialist : Absolutely. It was in the late 70's (Seventies).
- II. Write the dialogue you will have with the caller in each of the following situation:
A client calls your office and asks to speak to a colleague who isn't in the office.

29.2 OUT-GOING CALLS

Dialogue Practice

I.

- Ist Operator : Switch board, can I help you?
- Manager : Good morning, Deepak Sharma here. Could I have an out-side line, please?
- Ist Operator : Sure. What's the number, sir? (notes the number in a pad) Please hold on, sir. I'll find out if Mr. Yadav is available.(dials) 507822. (engaged tone) Sorry sir the Cooper line is engaged I'll call you back later when Mr. Yadav is on the line.
- Manager : That suits me. I'm in my office for the next half an hour (rings off).
- Ist Operator : Is it 507822?
- 2nd Operator : Wrong number. This is 50 87 22.
- Ist Operator : Oh sorry (dial Again) Is this 50 78 22, Coopers Ltd.?
- 3rd Operator : Yes, may I help you?
- Ist Operator : Mr. Deepak Sharma from Escort Ltd. wishes to speak to Mr. Vikram Yadav, Assistant Manager, Production.
- 3rd Operator : Please hold on. I'll check if he's in (through Extn.) Mr. Deepak Sharma from Escorts wishes to speak to you, sir. Shall I send the call in.
- Yadav : Yes, put him on.

Notes

3rd Operator : Please hold the line. The call will be through in a moment. (to Deepak) Mr. Yadav is on the line.

Manager : Mr. Sharma, Mr. Yadav from Coopers is on the line for you. Please speak to your party.

(Through Extn.) (Connects the two).

II.

Deepa : Good morning, Operator, What can I do for you?

Director : Good morning. This is the Director. I would like you to ring Air Travel and book me a ticket by the morning flight to Bombay tomorrow.

Deepa : Yes, sir, I'll ring back after I've heard from them.

Director : That should be fine, thank you.

Deepa : (Refers to directory or personal list for the no.) Is this 619434, Air Travels, please?

Operator : Yes, what can I do for you?

Deepa : I would like to book an air ticket to Bombay by tomorrow's morning flight. Could you connect me to the concerned person?

Operator : Mr. Kukreti, Booking In-charge handles this. I'll call him on the line. Please hold on.

Deepa : Thank you (pause).

Operator : Mr. Kukreti is on the line.

Kukreti : Good morning what can I do for you?

Deepa : I'm speaking from Escorts Ltd. Mr. Malhotra the Director would like to book an air ticket to Bombay by Indian Airlines early morning flight tomorrow. Would it be available?

Kukreti : Well, I'll be with you in a moment. I'll check the reservation chart to see if there have been any cancellations. I think we are full up. (After some delay).

Notes

Well, your director is lucky. There's only a single seat available. Who should I book it for?

- Deepa : Mr. D. V. Malhotra. M-A-L-H-O-T-R-A. Managing Director, Escorts Ltd. Did you get the name please or shall I repeat?
- Kukreti : No thanks. I got it – D.V. Malhotra.
- Deepa : How much would that cost?
- Kukreti : Rs. 9550/-
- Deepa : Do you accept cheques?
- Kukreti : Yes, till 3 o'clock only.
- Deepa : Thank you very much Mr. Kukreti. I'll have a man sent for the ticket by noon. Please hand it over to him.
- Kukreti : You're most welcome.

29.3 DIALOGUE ANALYSIS

Largely similar expressions are used in out-going and in-coming calls. But you will notice a few differences as indicated below:

Giving Identity: Good morning, Operator here. Can I help you?

Switch board, what can I do for you?

Reception, Operator speaking.

Since you are beginning the conversation with someone inside your own factory or office, it is not necessary to give your complete identity as in the case of in-coming calls. However, you must give your identity to let the caller know that he has got the right extension.

Caller giving identity: Sharma here.

That is the director speaking.

Hello, there's work for you.

The caller need not give his full name or designation. An operator who has worked in a place for sometime will recognise persons from their voices.

Caller excuses himself: — Please hold the line while I find out.

And gives reasons before— Would you mind holding on while I look into the...

Leaving a call hanging:

You must have noticed that in dealing with out-going calls, the operator may be asked to perform a particular task – find out a particular number, get information and then pass on the message. Here it will be useful for you to have a list of the most frequently needed numbers for easy reference in front of you:

Name	Place/Designation	Number
Air Travels	Mr. Kukreti, Reserv. In-ch.	619434
Bombay Decorators	Miss Krishnan, Int-dec.	5422

Lastly, you have also to decide on your priority list-when you are busy and the board is full, whose work do you do first? Usually the Director's and Manager's work get priority over other staff members, and official calls are handled before personal ones.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. You are the operator in Sasson Hospital, Pune. The head of Plastic Surgery Department asks you to put a call through to a friend who is getting married. At the same time there's call from the Emergency. Which one will you attend first? Decide and prepare the conversation.
2. You are the operator in a University. The Head of the Physics Deptt. has asked you to find out where some books (give names, authors, publishers) are available with the local book sellers.
3. The Personnel Manager wants you to find out all necessary details and make arrangements so that he will be able to reach Delhi from Hyderabad by 1st Jan. 99, 10.30 a.m. for a labour Union Meeting.

WRITING REPORTS

Look at the following:

RAVI INDUSTRIES

16, Pragati Tower,
Nehru Place,
New Delhi

To Mr. S.K. Singh (Managing Director)

From C. Rao (Office Manager)

Date: 7 July, 2000

Subject: Report on suitable premises for shifting the office of the company.

As suggested in your letter of 4 June, 2000 I inspected a number of buildings in South Delhi. After careful consideration, I recommend Jain building, which is situated in Kailash Colony. This building, I feel, would be the most suitable for our requirements.

The building consists of two storeys, and has 15 rooms in all. The rooms are fairly large (30' 20') well lit and airy. Since the rooms are fairly large, we shall be able to put partitions in some of them.

The toilet facilities for both men and women are adequate. There are also watchmen's quarters comprising two rooms each, and situated to the left of the main gate.

Notes

The only disadvantage that I visualize is that there is not much open space around the building and the parking space may be inadequate for all the cars. But for the junior office staff there is a bus stop two hundred yards away.

I have started preliminary negotiations with the owner, Mr. Anupam. He is likely to accept the offer. Restructuring to alter the layout of the building to suit our specifications will cost no more than Rs. 40,000/-.

The Directors may like to inspect the building before any decision is taken.

The above is an example of what a report is. Reports are a form of written communication. In a business organisation reports provide information regarding progress, implementation of plans and programmes. These are sent to senior officers.

OBJECTIVES

After studying this lesson, you will be able to:

- write various types of short reports using different formats.

29.1 HOW TO WRITE A REPORT?

Before you begin to write a report you must ask yourself a few questions. What is the purpose of the report? Are you expected to present facts only? Are you expected to provide an analysis and make recommendation as well? When is the report due?

Once you have answers to such questions you can start writing the report. The process of writing a report involves the following stages:-

- (i) investigating the sources of information

Notes

- (ii) taking notes
- (iii) interpreting and analysing the facts
- (iv) writing the outline of the report
- (v) editing and revising the report
- (vi) Submitting the report

Now consider this example. Mr. Ramesh works in a firm in Delhi. He has been asked to visit the firm's Allahabad office and submit a report on how that office is functioning.

Here is Mr. Ramesh's tour report.

11.03.2004

To : Mr. J.P. Singh (Joint Director)

From : P. Ramesh (Assistant Director)

Subject : Report on the working of our Allahabad office.

As per instructions I left for Allahabad on the 7th March and arrived there on the 8th, I spent two days at Allahabad. My report is as follows:-

- (i) Attendance: Although staff is required to reach office by 9.00 a.m. Generally, no one observes the timing and members of the staff arrive after 9.30 a.m.
- (ii) Leave Record: The leave record is not maintained as per company manual.
- (iii) Cash Book: The Cash Book has not been updated since 28.02.2001. It was behind by about two weeks.
- (iv) Inward/ outward mail register and postage register: These are not being maintained and therefore there is no record of expenses incurred on postage.
- (v) Office maintenance: The office was generally well maintained.

Recommendations: Regional incharge and some senior associates should be called to the Head Office and given a briefing on office procedures and norms as per company manual.

Sd/-

P. Ramesh

Notes

You must keep in mind the following points while writing a tour report.

- A tour report is generally written in the form of a memo.
- It is addressed to one's superior.
- In the subject line give the destination and dates of the tour.
- In the body of the report you should explain why you made the tour and what you achieved.
- Each major piece of information may be listed under a separate heading.

Here is another example of a report.

This is an accident report:

To : Mr. H. Gonsalves (Manager)

From : Mr. S. Abida (Supervisor)

Date: 25 February, 2000

Subject: Fire at the Lucknow office Warehouse.

On 22nd February 2000, at approximately 4.15 p.m. there was a fire at the Lucknow office warehouse, resulting in loss of company's property worth 25 lacs.

We got the information in the Delhi office by fax at 5.10 p.m., the same day. I proceeded to Lucknow by train that evening, and was there on the morning of 23 rd February.

Company's Instructions Flouted

While it is difficult to ascertain the cause of the fire, my enquiries revealed that many of the Company's standing instructions had been flouted. For example:

- i) Smoking is strictly prohibited in the warehouse, but this rule is never followed.
- ii) During lunch hour, it is common practice to switch on an electric stove to heat food.
- iii) Visitors/dealers are often allowed to enter the warehouse, and they can even smoke if they wish.
- iv) There were four fire-extinguishers in the warehouse, besides the eight in the office, but not a single fire-extinguisher was in proper working condition. Fire-extinguishers must be 'charged' every year, but in the case of the Lucknow office, these had not been 'charged' for nearly four years.

Notes

Extent of Damage

No member of the staff was hurt, but the total damage to the company's stock in trade amounts to Rs. 25 lacs. This includes Rs. 5 lac worth of goods damaged by water.

Explanation Asked For

I have called for a written explanation from the storekeepers, which I expect to get by tomorrow. Action will be taken after I receive their explanations.

Sd/-

S. Abida

While writing an accident report keep in mind the following points:-

- Get immediately to the point.
- Describe in detail any physical injury to any person or damage in property. This is required to settle insurance claims or compensations.
- Mention what caused the accident.
- Present your recommendations.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 29.1

You have made a surprise visit to a hospital. Write a report on the working of the hospital. You may address your report to your senior supervisor. Use your exercise book to write this report.

You may use the following points.

Cleanliness and hygienic condition of the hospital, stock of medicines, number of doctors and nurses on duty, Cash book etc.

WHAT YOU HAVE LEARNT

While writing reports you should keep in mind the following do's and don't's.

Don't's

- don't let your personal feelings interfere while writing the report
- don't base your analysis on a single piece of evidence

Do's

- be objective
- provide substantial evidence

- don't generalise without proper and logical evidence
- don't jump to conclusions
- use valid arguments

Notes

Here is something interesting.....

'Brevity' Memo to the War Cabinet

To do our work, we all have to read a mass of papers. Nearly all of them are far too long. This wastes time, while energy has to be spent in looking for the essential points.

I ask my colleagues and their staff to see to it that their reports are shorter.

1. The aim should be reports which set out the main points in a series of short, crisp paragraphs.
2. If a report relies on detailed analysis of some complicated factors, or on statistics, these should be set out in an Appendix.
3. Often the occasion is best met by submitting not a full-dress report, but an 'Aidememoire' consisting of headings only, which can be expanded orally if needed.
4. Let us have an end of such phrases as these: 'It is also of importance to bear in mind the following considerations' or 'Consideration should be given to the possibility of carrying into effect'. Most of these woolly phrases are mere padding, which can be cut out altogether or replaced by a single word. Let us not shrink from using the short expressive phrase, even if it is conversational.

Reports drawn up on the lines I propose may at first seem rough as compared with the flat surface of official jargon. But the saving in time will be great, while the discipline of setting out the real points concisely will prove an aid to clearer thinking.'

Sir Winston Churchill, 9 August 1940

AIDS FOR A RECEPTIONIST

A receptionist is a person who needs many attributes and skills. She is presentable, alert, polite, tactful and works efficiently with warmth and easy grace. Anyone with a problem in the work place comes to her. And, to aid her in her work, she has several reference list numbers, etc. After repeated use, she begins to carry the information in her head.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

- use materials that help a receptionist do a good job.

30.1 BROCHURE, BOOKLETS, PRINT MATERIAL

A receptionist has to be familiar with a great deal of information. Often she picks them up from leaflets, guides, brochures and other print material. The information given below about HOTEL IMPERIAL is a typical example.

Location

Situated in the heart of the Capital, is a Five Star Luxury Hotel that offers every comfort within easy reach of all government and commercial buildings and adjacent to main shopping centres, quiet and reposeful with extensive grounds and spacious gardens. It's twenty minutes drive from the Airport and ten minutes drive from New Delhi Railway Station.

Notes

Accommodation

160 magnificently furnished luxurious rooms and suites, centrally air-conditioned and centrally-heated. All rooms have private bath with running hot and cold water, telephone, 4-channel music. All rooms have colour television with in-house movie system. There are refrigerators in all the rooms.

Special Services

Safe deposit lockers, hair dresser, beauty parlour, medical assistance, baby sitting service, travel agencies, same-day laundry service, complete shopping arcade, 24-hour room service.

Tavern Bar and Restaurant

Offers superb cuisine – Indian, Chinese and continental, band in attendance.

Garden Park Restaurant and Bar

Coffee Shop for quick lunches, snacks, tea/coffee, offers Indian, Continental and tandoori delicacies.

Gold Room

Banquet hall for large gatherings.

Ball Room

Convention hall where conferences can be arranged. It can seat 500 persons.

Raja Room

Ideal for small meetings for 35 to 40 persons.

Tennis court

Well maintained hard court with tennis marker in attendance.

Swimming Pool

Situated – amidst picturesque surroundings under palm trees, perfect place for relaxation and sun bathing.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 30.1

1. Study the five dialogues given below. In each case indicate (a) which “aid” is being referred to; i) brochure or ii) reservation chart and (b) is the information given correct?

R (receptionist) : Hotel Imperial, Good morning.

C (caller) : Could you tell me the check-out time please?

R : The check-out time is 12 noon.

C : Oh! But my flight is at 3.00 Would it be all right if I check out a little earlier, say at 1.30 or so?

R : Yes... it should be possible. And if another guest is checking into your room, you could keep your luggage in the lobby.

C : That sounds fine. Thanks.

R : You're welcome.

II.

R : Good evening, can I help you?

C : Good evening. One of my friends is booked into your hotel ... it seems his flight is going to be delayed.

R : How long?

C : Seems he won't be in before 7 p.m. Will you keep the room till then?

R : Since you have informed us we will. Otherwise we are strict about the 6 p.m. release. What is his name? and the dates he has been booked for?

C : (Gives her all the details)

Notes

III.

R : Hotel Imperial, Good afternoon.

C : Good afternoon. I would like to book a room for five days sometime next month. Could you tell me what the daily rate is?

R : It is 1000 for a single room and 1100 for a double room.

C : 1000! O.K. Thank you.

R : You're welcome.

IV.

R : Hotel Regent. Good morning.

C : Good morning, I wanted to find out if Mr. J. Grover has checked in?

R : Mr. Grover.... Yes He checked in this morning. He is in room 103

C : 1-0-3. Thank you very much.

V.

R : Reception Good morning.

Mr. Bhatia : This is Raj Bhatia from 105, I received a call from my office this morning. They would like me to stay here for three more days. I wonder if it is possible for you to extend my booking.

R : It should be possible. Let me check the booking situation Would you hold the line please? Yes, that will be all right just a moment We might ask you to change the room though. Would that be acceptable?

Mr. Bhatia : Oh Yes! No problems. Thank you so much.

30.2 FLIGHT SCHEDULES, RAILWAY TIME-TABLES, ETC.

The hotel receptionist has to very often answer enquiries about flight timings and rail journeys. If the receptionist also happens to be a senior official's personal assistant, as it very often the case in small offices, she has to make arrangements for his rail or air travel. To be able to do it, she should know how to read the flight schedule and the railway time table. The visitors too may often seek her assistance in reading these.

Notes

Flight Schedule

Here are some tips to interpret flight schedules.

- ◆ The flight numbers are given at the top of every column.
- ◆ Right below these numbers the aircraft type is mentioned — AB3 stands for Airbus A 300; 737 for Boeing 737, 747 for Boeing 747, FKF for Fokker Friendship and HS 7 for 748 AVRO.
- ◆ Below these are given the days on which a particular flight operates, D stand for daily, and the numbers for the days of the week. For example if it is 1 2 4, it indicates that the flight is available on Mondays (1), Tuesdays (2) and Thursday (4).
- ◆ D and A along the sides of the centre column stand for Departure and Arrival respectively.
- ◆ The hours are written clockwise 0100 to 2400.

With the help of these tips it should be easy for you to read the flight schedule. Now, if you were asked to find out which flights go to Bangalore from Delhi, Calcutta and Madras, you will see that there is a daily flight from Delhi (IC 403) which departs at 0900 and reaches Bangalore at 1130. There are two flights from Bombay IC 407 and IC 105, and there is a direct flight from Calcutta also i.e. IC 271.

Similarly, you can read the railway time-table and answer enquiries/make bookings. In the railway time table, the days (on which a particular train is available) are mentioned in one of the top columns. If this information about a particular train, for example 20 Dehradun Express is not mentioned in any of the top columns, that means that it is a daily train and operates on the route detailed in the table.

30.3 IMPORTANT FORMS AND DOCUMENTS

Some offices and hotels keep a register at the reception. All the incoming visitors are supposed to write their names, address etc. in this register. What purpose does it serve?

— It helps the office keep a record of all the incoming visitors.

It is called the Register of callers. It is maintained by the receptionist. There are a number of other documents and forms which a receptionist constantly needs. These are:

- ◆ Message Forms
 - ◆ Reservation Vouchers
 - ◆ Registration Form/ 'C' Form
 - ◆ Internal Telephone Directory
 - ◆ Early Morning Call Sheet
 - ◆ Flight Schedule
 - ◆ Railway Time Table

The receptionist needs these forms and documents to (a) do her job efficiently and (b) help the smooth functioning of the office/hotel. She has to maintain and regularly update these documents (e.g. Internal Staff Directory). She should always make the entries (e.g. in the message Form and Reservation Voucher) in neat and legible handwriting. This will not only help the receptionist if she has to read something again, but also others who have to follow the instructions and act accordingly. Samples of some of these documents are given in the following pages.

- (1) Register of callers: This is a register in which all the callers have to write their names, addresses, purpose of visit, date and time of arrival. If a caller represents a firm and has a visiting card, then his card can be attached to the register.

Date	Name	Firm/ Address	Time of Arrival	Purpose of visit	Time of Departure
15 May 1989	J.K. Sharma	VM Electronics	10.30 a.m.	To meet Prem Wahi	11.30 a.m.
15 May 1989	R. Malhotra	Goyal stores	11.05 a.m. Stationers	To meet Admn. Officer	12.05 p.m.
15 May 1989	Dr. S. Kumar	M-8 House	11.15 a.m. Vikaspuri	To meet Anu Kapoor	11.50 a.m.
15 May 1989	K. Shantha	Allwyn Publishers	12.10 p.m.	To see Sales Manager	12.55 p.m.

Notes

Notes

(2) Message Form: A receptionist frequently needs these forms because, however good her memory may be, she may not remember all the messages which have to be passed on to different persons. She can conveniently note down the message on this form.

MESSAGES
To:..... Dept.:.....	From:
	Phone:
	Address:
Date
Time Rec.: Received by:
Message _____

Signed.

(3) Reservation Voucher: Sometimes hotels give/send reservation vouchers instead of letters or reservation cards after the booking has been confirmed. The guest shows this voucher at the reception when he/she comes to stay in a hotel. It also means that the guest has already paid the agent/hotel for the room.

The receptionist, who looks after booking also, has to fill in these vouchers and send them ahead for further action.

- (4) Reservation Form/ 'C' Form: When foreigners come to stay in a hotel, they are asked to fill in the 'C' Form and not the usual Registration Form which other guests have to fill in. The 'C' Form is meant to give the hotel complete details about the foreign tourist (e.g. his passport no. and permanent address). It also helps the government keep a count of the tourists coming into a country since the first copy of this form is sent to them.

Notes

- (5) Internal telephone directory: It is an extremely important document for the receptionist. It is a list with the extension numbers and names of all the employees arranged alphabetically. The receptionist should no doubt know all the extension numbers by heart, but the list should be always in front of her so as to avoid any mistake. The receptionist will constantly need to update this directory.

(6) Early Morning call sheet: This is a sheet of paper on which the receptionist notes what time guests want the early morning call (i.e. at what time they want to be woken up) and whether they want tea/coffee and/or newspapers. The receptionist doesn't need to note the names of the guests; their room numbers are sufficient.

Notes

(7) Travel Guide: The guests and visitors often ask the receptionist for information on travel. Therefore, she should keep a copy of the Flight schedule and the Railway Time Table handy. The hotel receptionist can even keep a copy of the Weekly Travel Guide (published in some newspapers) near her desk. This will give her the latest information on travel by air, rail and road.

30.4 EMERGENCY SERVICES

Accidents, thefts, hold-ups, fire, shoot outs, etc. are not unheard of these days and the receptionist services are required to tackle such emergencies. Here are some of the handy reckoners she uses.

SAMPLE

POLICE	100	FIRE	101	AMBULANCE	102
				ACCIDENT & TRAUMA SERVICE
				(CENTRALISED)	1099

(I) DIALOGUE PRACTICE: EMERGENCY SERVICES

Operator : (Dials 102)

E.S. Opr. : Yes?

Operator : The Central Institute of English needs an Ambulance immediately. There has been a major accident. Our number is 71131.

E.S. Opr. : I'll connect you to the nearest hospital in Tarnaka, Please hold on.

Operator : Tarnaka Hospital? This is from CIEFL, 71131. Two large ambulances should be sent in immediately. Twenty people have been injured and immediate medical attention is required .

Hosp. Opr. : Your address please?

Operator : The Central Institute of English, along Osmania University Road. Please instruct your driver that the main gate of CIEFL is at the fork of Osmania University Road and the new Ali Jung Road.

Hosp. Opr. : This should do. The ambulance will be there in five minutes time.

Operator : The faster, the better. Thank you very much.

Sometimes the requirements are more routine but they are also important for good business and efficient management.

(II) DIALOGUE PRACTICE: SPECIAL SERVICES

- Mohan : (Dials 173) Hello, Operator. This is Mohan Diwan from 253201. I have a favour to ask
- Exch. Opr. : Yes, how could I help you?
- Mohan : You see I've the morning flight to catch to Trivandrum. I'm a heavy sleeper and there's no one at home to wake me. Could you be my morning alarm?
- Exch. Opr. : Most certainly. At what time is your flight?
- Mohan : 4.05 hours – Horrible time for a plane to take off, don't you think?
- Exch. Opr. : Well, how far are you from the airport?
- Mohan : A taxi does it in about half an hour.
- Exch. Opr. : O.K. I'll wake you up at 3 then. That will give you enough time to wash and break-fast. Good night and have a good sleep.
- Mohan : Thanks a heap, operator. That's a big load off my mind. Good night.

30.5 DIALOGUE ANALYSIS

For any Emergency service the following steps should be strictly followed:

- I. Dial 100 for Police; 101 for Fire and 102 for Ambulance immediately.
- II. Give the service you need to the Exchange Operator immediately along with your telephone number.
- III. When connected with the right Emergency Authority, give them your address and any other useful information to direct them.

While giving directions it is best to.

- a) refer to some landmark near by;

Eg. CIEFL is a little after Arts College, at the fork of the road.

The place is next to Sangeet Theatre near the Big Tower.

This school is at the foot of the Birla Temple Hills, to the right of the temple if you are coming from Nampalli.

- b) Mention the approximate distance between the two places.
- c) Give approximate time taken to travel by a particular vehicle between the two places
- d) Give the complete postal address

The second dialogue concerning morning alarm was an instance of special services the Exchange gives to the public. Among those that you may often need are:

Number	Name	Nature of Work
199	Assistance	Information about a local number, out of order, permanently closed, etc.
198	Fault Repair	Record complaints about trouble with telephone PBX
197	Directory Enquiry	Numbers, names, addresses not found in directory enquired here.
176	Special Information	Games, Exhibitions in the city.
174	Time	told in English
173	Morning Alarm	to wake up subscribers.
182	STD Complaints	about not getting long distance calls
185	Phonograms Booking	Telegrams by phone in English.

This is a list of the most important and commonly used ones. In all these cases only particular details regarding the service need be mentioned.

30.6 USING VISUAL LANGUAGE

Make a list of such visuals that you notice in offices, hospitals, railway stations, airport, roads, etc. Why do you think they are so popular?

Often people approach the reception desk asking for direction. An accurate knowledge of the layout of the office or hotel is therefore essential. Having access to the ground plan or map helps her in her job.

Study the ground plan given below and check whether the directions given by the receptionist are correct or not

- G : Where can I get my hair done?
- R : In the hotel itself. Right here. Go along the corridor here beside the desk. Turn left at the end. The parlour is the second on the left.
- G : Can you tell me where the coffee shop is?
- R : Certainly. Go straight down, and turn left. The coffee shop is at the end of that corridor on your right.
- G : I want to make a telephone call. Where should I go?

- R : Go along the corridor facing the main entrance. The pay phones are to your right.
- G : Could you tell me where the games room is?
- R : Certainly, You'll have to go straight down that corridor and take the last turn to the left. The games room is right at the end, after the pool.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. You know where the following guests can be contacted.
 - (i) Mr. Desai is in the Tennis court.
 - (ii) Mr. Azad is in the bar.
 - (iii) Mr. Kumar is in the craft shop.
 - (iv) Mr. Ghosh is in the lounge.
 - (v) Miss Gupta is at the swimming pool.

Imagine that there is a visitor for each one of them. Give directions to these visitors on how to get there by looking at the ground plan given above.

Notes

Notes

2. Given below is a street plan indicating various shops in the area opposite Hotel Ashirvad. Based on this street plan and her knowledge of the shop, study how the receptionist guides the guests and visitors.

- G1 : I've got a very painful toothache. Where do you suggest I go!
- R : Why don't you visit the Dentist? (suggestion)
You should see a Dentist immediately. (advice)
- G2 : I would like to buy a pearl necklace for my wife. Can you suggest a place?
- R : You could try 'Genuine Stones'. They usually have good stuff.
- G3 : I've just discovered that my visa has expired. Where can I get it renewed?
- R : You should go to the Immigration office right away. (advice)
- G4 : I would like to go to a restaurant where I can get good Chinese food. Can you recommend one?
- R : Chinese food How about trying/it might not be a bad idea to try 'Silver Plates'.

WRITING JOB APPLICATIONS

*T*he job application is perhaps the most important piece of writing for each one of us. With the increasing competition in the job market today, it is specially important that we write a good resume, or curriculum vitae (cv for short). In India, we often use the word ‘bio-data’ for a CV. In this unit you will learn to write good job applications.

OBJECTIVES

After studying this lesson, you will be able to:

- distinguish between a resume and curriculum vitae (cv);
- write good resumes and CVS; and
- write a covering letter to suit different job requirements.

30.1 DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RESUME AND CURRICULUM VITAE

Your job application may take the form of a resume or a curriculum vitae (CV). A CV means “course of life”- that is, a short and crisp summary of your qualification and experience.

A resume is a more comprehensive document of your life. While CV is considered British in style; resume is considered American in style.

The CV is now outdated and an increasing number of companies are demanding a resume to get a far clearer picture of a candidate. Study the formats provided in the boxes below. Are they very different? If so, how?

Notes

box-2 Resume

What do you notice? In essence, a CV is no different from a resume. They both include your personal details, details related to your training, education and work experience.

There are, however, differences in format, headings used, sequence in presenting information, etc. Since the resume includes a few more headings that CV usually does not include we will concentrate on writing good resumes. Moreover, resumes are more descriptive and up-to date.

Notes

30.2 WRITING AN EFFECTIVE RESUME

In writing a resume study the kind of job you are applying for. Ask yourself what information about you and your background would be most important to an employer. On the basis of your answer to this question, decide what sort of details you should include and how you can effectively present them.

A number of different formats can be used. The most important thing is to make sure that your resume is:

- attractive
- well-organised
- easy to read, and
- free of errors.

A common format contains the following:

- Heading
- Personal details
- Employment objective
- Education
- Employment experience
- References

(a) Heading

Start with your name, address, telephone number and e-mail ID. These are usually centered on the page. Use formatting conventions like underlining, bold, different font size and spacing to make it appear like a heading. Do not include a date or you will have to keep changing it.

Notes

(b) Personal Details

Personal information includes details of age, sex, marital status, race and religion. Sometimes candidates choose not to provide all of these because they may have a negative impact on the employer.

You should, however, see yourself from the eyes of your employer and provide whatever information that would honestly and effectively represent you.

(c) Employment Objective

State not only your immediate employment objective but the direction you hope your career will take. For example:

“A position that allows me to use my Computer Sciences training to solve engineering problems”.

It enables the employer to identify your purpose quickly. You may exclude it if you do not have a clear objective. On the other hand, if you have experience and knowledge, the employment objective will allow you to display this. For example.

House-keeping duties in a five-star hotel.

(d) Education

Whether you list education or experience first depends on which is the stronger in your background. If your education and professional training is strong, list education first. If you have one or more years of job experience, list experience first. For both education and work experience move from the most recent down sequence. For example.

EDUCATION:

PGDPM &IR	XLRI, JAMSHEDPUR	1982	5.67/8.00
B.Sc NDA,	Khadakvasla, Pune	1978	3.00/10.00
PRE DEGREE	Sc. Fergusson College, Pune	1975	64%
SSCE (11th)	Loyola High School. Pune	1974	71%

LANGUAGES : Hindi, Marathi, Bengali, German, Russian.

If education is your strong point and your marks have been good, you may list them and name the institutions you have studied in. You may also wish to list ACTIVITIES AND HONOURS you have achieved. Posts that you have held; games and sports you are good at, can also be included.

Notes

You can also choose to have details listed under SPECIAL SKILLS AND ACTIVITIES. This category usually comes near the end. You may include skills such as knowledge of foreign languages, writing and editing abilities, specialized technical knowledge, community activities, etc. Be selective, do not repeat information you have already provided. Include only those items that support your employment objectives.

(e) Employment Experience

List all your full-time, part-time and temporary jobs, starting with the most recent and working backwards. Provide brief descriptions of your duties if they are similar to the job you are applying for.

Specify any promotion or award you receive. If you have been with a company for a long time highlight your achievements.

If you wish to stress the skills you have gained from your work experience, you can list jobs by the functions performed. For example:

- FRONT LINE
- SALES MARKETING
- TRAINING
- PROJECT DEVELOPMENT

Example:

TRAINING

- Advised and trained novice computer users.
- Wrote and maintained UNIX operating system.

(f) Reference

You may include references as part of the resume or state “will be furnished upon request”. Do not give anyone as a reference without first obtaining his/her permission. Then provide the title, full name, address, telephone number, e-mail ID of the person.

30.3 WRITING AN EFFECTIVE LETTER OF APPLICATION

Often called a “covering letter” a letter of application must precede your CV or resume. Study the letter of application in the box below. What do you notice?

Notes

Sub: Application for the post of “Personal &Unit Assistant”

Sir,

I have more then 9 years of composite experience in Word Processing Database and DTP. I have done my graduation in Science and also possess good knowledge of spoken and written English. I have edited a number of books on computers. I can handle PCs and related hardware with ease. With this background, I would like to submit my candidature for the above mentioned post. I hope the above meets your requirements. I will be available for interview, at a date that suits you.

Thank you,

Yours faithfully,

Milind Padhye

The letter of application is essentially a sales letter. Your immediate objective is to have your letter read so that you will be called for the interview. Therefore, your letter must do three things:

- Catch the reader’s attention favourably.
- Convince the reader that you are qualified for the post; and
- Request for an interview.

Provide the following information:

1. Identify the job by title and state how you heard about it.
2. List your qualifications for the job in summary form. Stress education and /or work experience according to your own situation/ need. Then refer the reader to your resume for the other important details.

3. State where you can be reached and when you will be available for an interview.

WHAT YOU HAVE LEARNT

In this lesson, you have studied samples of CV, resume and letter of application. You have also learnt how to write these and tailor them according to the jobs you are applying for.

OVERALL QUESTIONS

1. Select a job advertisement that is suitable for you from the recent newspapers, Write a letter of application that you may write if you wish to apply for it.
2. The curriculum vitae that Milind Padhye wrote is given below. Re-write it using the hints given to you in the lesson. Write out your answer in your exercise book.

APPEARING FOR AN INTERVIEW

*I*nterviews have become an important part of our lives. From early childhood we face interviews. When you are young your parents are eager that you perform well. As you grow older, you yourself wish to do well at interviews. In this lesson you will be given some guidance in facing interviews.

OBJECTIVES

After studying this lesson, you will be able to:

- prepare yourself better for an interview;
- know about body language; and the way to dress; and
- open and close an interview appropriately.

31.1 PREPARING FOR AN INTERVIEW

To prepare to perform well, you must engage in some pre-interview activities. Pre-interview planning involves learning something about the company/organisation, analysing your strengths and weaknesses and making sure your appearance and behaviour create the right impression. Given below are some of the ways in which you can prepare yourself for an interview.

Notes

(a) Studying the Company

You must gather information about the company. This will convince the interviewer about your sincerity. The interviewer will not waste precious interview time providing you with information that you should have gathered. Your sources of information are:-

- i) the advertisement
- ii) employees of the company
- iii) other candidates who have been interviewed
- iv) newspaper and journals
- v) Internet

(b) Study yourself

After you have gathered information about the company the next step is to assess your own abilities. Do I like to work with people or do I prefer to work on my own? Do I like detailed work? Can I develop a career plan that I can achieve with the company? The answers to these questions about yourself can provide you with lots of material to use during the interview. If you can't see a relationship between yourself and the job or company, you won't be able to demonstrate the interest or enthusiasm necessary to market your self. A good method is to list the company and job characteristics in one column and attempt to place your qualifications in a corresponding column as in the following illustration:

Company and Job Requirements	My Qualification and Needs
i) Do I like to work with people or do I like to work alone?
ii) Is there scope for advancement?
iii) Is the pay scale adequate?
iv) Do I have the necessary educational requirements?
v) Do I like to travel?
vi) Does it offer job security?

Of course, you'll probably never find the job and the organisation that will satisfy all your needs and meet all your requirements. This analysis will help you with each interview.

Notes

(c) Plan your appearance

You should dress in such a way that you do not create a negative impression. For example your finger nails must be neat and clean, your shoes well polished and your hair well groomed.

Avoid gaudy, casual or party wear. Find out the company’s dress code. If you dress and look like the people who already work at the company, the interviewer will find it easier to see you working there.

(d) Plan Your Time

One of the worst things you can do is be late for an interview. Plan your time so that you arrive early. This planning allows you to unwind and prepare yourself for the interview.

At the same time, don’t sit just making yourself nervous. Move around a little and talk to the other candidates. Should something prevent you from reaching on time, do telephone your apology.

INTEXT QUESTIONS 31.1

1. Say whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F). Correct the false statement in the light of what you have read:-

i) To prepare for an interview, we must buy new clothes.

ii) Knowing about the organisation is a mark of a serious candidate.

iii) You should aim to get a job that gives you a high pay.

iv) A study of your own skills against the job requirements can give you useful work.

v) Being punctual for an interview may give the impression that you are out of work.

Notes

2. Study the advertisements given below and make a table like the one given in section 32.1. Have two columns: i) Company and job requirements and ii) My qualification and needs. Do this exercise in your exercise book.

31.2 MEETING FACE TO FACE - THE INTERCHANGE

Now that you have gone through the planning stages, you are ready for the interview. Your job is to sell yourself so successfully, that you are selected at the interview.

Given below are some points to remember while facing an interview.

(a) Opening Formalities

When you meet the interviewer, greet him/her and address him/her as 'Sir/madam'. If the interviewer initiates the handshake wait for the interviewer to invite you to sit down. Carry your certificates in a file and place them on the table.

(b) Interviewing guidelines

Much of the information about you will appear on your resume or company application form, already available to the interviewer. Thus, the interviewer will most likely seek to assess your attitudes towards work and the probability of fitting you successfully into the organization.

The best way to prepare for the interview is to answer such questions as these:

1. Why do you want to work for us?
2. Why should we hire you?
3. What are your greatest strengths?
4. What is important to you in a job?

Your answers to these and other variations of the same questions can help you proceed to the next step. First of all, your education is your foremost attribute if you are a student. You should point out its relationship to the job for which you are being considered. Even more important, the fact that you have succeeded in school indicates that you have the ability to learn, because most companies expect you to learn something on the job. So your most important response to the interviewer's questions may be about your ability to learn. Even no experience may be an asset.

Second, a degree of humility is important in all interviews. You should not make tall claims about your previous job or what you will do if you get the present one. Anyone who says he will turn the company around in six months, proves his lack of experience. Make realistic and achievable claims, “Why do you want to work for us?” is really not a difficult question. While answering this question refer to information you have gathered from the literature of the company or speaking to someone who works for the company or the information you have gathered while visiting one of their offices. This will convince the interviewer that you are strongly interested in the company and not just taking an interview for practice. Note, the interviewer not only attempts to develop an impression of you, he or she also evaluates you in comparison with others being interviewed for the position.

Why should the company hire you?

You have the proper education, you have proved that you have the ability to learn, and you are enthusiastic about working for the company. Relate your skills and knowledge to the job.

When asked about your greatest strengths, your study of yourself will help. Your greatest strengths probably are easy to identify: (1) the ability to learn (2) the ability to work with others and to assume leadership roles, (3) skill in problem solving.

Notes

Notes

Finally, what is important to you in a job? While we are all interested in a good salary that should not be your primary concern. Rewards such as personal job satisfaction, the feeling of accomplishment, and making a contribution to society are things you should discuss in an interview. You should look forward to a challenge. A job that will satisfy these needs is important to almost everyone.

(c) Handling Salary discussion

For most entry-level positions the beginning salary is fixed. However, if you have work experience, excellent scholarship records, or added maturity, you may be able to obtain a larger salary. The interviewer should initiate the salary topic. What you should know is the general range for candidates with your qualifications so that your response to a question about how much you would expect is reasonable. If your qualifications are about average for the job, you can indicate that you would expect to be paid the going rate or within the normal range. If you have added qualification, you might say, “With my years of work experience, I would expect to start at the upper end of the normal salary range.”

If you have other job offers, you are in position to compare salaries, jobs, and companies. In this case, you may suggest to the interviewer that you would expect a competitive salary and that you have been offered X rupees by another firm. If salary hasn't been mentioned, and you really want to know about it, simply ask courteously how much the salary would be for someone with your qualifications. In any case though, don't attempt to make salary a major issue.

(d) Closing the interview

The interviewer will provide the cues indicating that the interview is completed by rising from the chair or making a comment about the next step to be taken. At that point, don't prolong the interview needlessly. Simply rise, thank the interviewer for the opportunity to meet, and close by saying you look forward to hearing from the company. The neatness with which you close the interview maybe almost as important as the first impression you made.

(e) Practising for Interviews

Although most of us tend to be nervous during our first interview, we gain confidence with experience. Therefore, practice and rehearse. Work with someone else in mock interviews, alternating roles as interviewer and interviewee. Then follow each practice interview with a constructive critique of each other's performance. A few such mock interviews will give you some experience and will make the first real interview more effective.

The job interview maybe the important face-to face interaction you will have. You will be selling yourself in competition with others. How you listen and how you talk will be measured by the interviewer. Since practice leads to perfection, you will never regret the time you spend rehearsing your interview.
